BUILDERS' GUILD DROPS HOUSING PLAN BECAUSE OF UNION PAY RATE

600-Unit Project 'Impracticable Under Conditions Imposed' — Mayor Hints City May Take Over Problem.

The Builders' Guild of St. Louis yesterday abandoned its plans for construction of a 600-unit temporary housing project for veterans after being notified that representatives of unions affiliated with the AFL Building and Construction Trades Council had voted against working on the project at residential construction rates paid union members by contractors belonging to the Builders' Guild.

However, Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann indicated that the city itself will tackle the problem of constructing needed temporary housing facilities to provide shelter for returning veterans and their families.

"We do not recognize the problem as being insurmountable," he said. "Upon McAfee's (J. Wesley McAfee, chairman of the Citizens' Emergency Housing Committee) return from Washington, where he is presently engaged in arranging for temporary housing, the entire problem will be restudied and reapproached.

"In the meantime, I have instructed City Counselor George L. Stemmler and Director of Public Safety Charles J. Riley to study the problem of building temporary housing along the general lines discussed."

Bid on Surplus Materials.

He announced that the city had submitted a bid of about $37,000 on surplus government-owned building materials being sold at the Indiana Ordnance Works, Charlestown, Ind. The bid was made on only enough materials for use in construction of 250 units of the type proposed by the Builders' Guild.

Following a meeting in the Mayor's office, attended by members of the Builders' Guild and city officials, Robert M. Berkley, president of the builders organization, announced the decision to drop the plans.

He issued a statement saying the organization announced, "with regret," that it "appears impracticable to proceed under the conditions imposed by the Building Trades Council and affiliated unions."

"The only labor supply immediately available for this emergency project," he said, "consists of the present labor forces of the member contractors. These forces are employed at residential rates and

SOCIALIST GOUIN ELECTED INTERIM FRENCH PRESIDENT

Lawyer Named by Constituent Assembly as Successor of Gen. De Gaulle.

PARIS, Jan. 23 (AP) — Felix Gouin, 61-year-old Socialist leader of the Constituent Assembly, was elected interim President of France tonight to succeed Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Gouin had been proposed by the Communists to solve the crisis brought on by the resignation of De Gaulle Sunday, after the Communists had failed to obtain support for their own candidate, Maurice Thorez.

Gouin was elected by the assembly after a last-minute request by the Popular Republican Movement (M.R.P.), one of France's three major parties, for an agreement that all three parties recognize "the necessity of a tri-partite government." However, the M.R.P. agreed to an immediate vote.

Gouin, a Socialist since 1904, was admitted to the bar in 1924. He became a Socialist member of the House of Deputies in 1924. He presided at the last two se-

SENATE HACKS AT GOVERNOR'S POWERS, IGNORES CHARTER'S INTENT

Amends Revenue Department Measure to Give Itself More to Say About Appointments to Minor Posts.

By CURTIS A. BETTS
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 23—Perfection of the bill setting up the new state revenue department by the Senate was characterized in an all-day session yesterday by the adoption of a series of amendments studiously designed to ignore the clear intent of the new Constitution in the organization of executive departments of the State Government.

With the exception of one, or possibly two amendments, the Senate stayed within the letter of the Constitution in framing the bill, but it went as far as it dared in establishing a control by the Senate of appointments by the Governor to fill even subordinate jobs in the department.

Throughout consideration of the executive article by the Constitutional Convention, the purpose was to consolidate the 80 executive departments into 14 with direct responsibility lodged in the Governor. The finished Constitution recognized the Governor as the executive head of the State and gave him virtually unlimited powers, which carried with them a high degree of responsibility. The bill, as it came to the Senate, put the responsibility in the Governor, but greatly curtailed his powers.

As prepared by the subcommittee of the Ways and Means Committee, the bill created the office of Director of Revenue as the head of the fiscal affairs of the state. It provided for a business-like and orderly organization of the department with divisions, the heads of which were to have been appointed by the director with the consent of the Governor, and with power in the heads of the divisions to select the employes to serve under them.

The subcommittee followed the practice, common in Missouri, of providing for Senate confirmation of major appointees of the Governor, and included in the bill that requirement in the appointment of the director. Senator John W. Noble of Kennett led

CIO DEMANDS TAX REFUNDS AIDING STEEL PLANTS IN STRIKE BE ENDED

Murray Letter to Vinson Says Industry Is Guaranteed $349,000,000 Profit Even if It 'Loafs Rest of Year.'

(Text of Murray Letter on Page 1B.)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 23 (AP)—Revision of federal corporation tax laws was demanded today by the CIO United Steel Workers as union and management each sought to marshal public opinion on their side of the three-day-old strike.

Philip Murray, president of both the CIO and the USW, charged in a letter to Treasury Secretary Vinson that existing legislation would give the stalled steel industry "guaranteed profits that are 29 per cent above the level of prewar earnings" even if it should "loaf the rest of the year—remain absolutely idle."

United States Steel President B. F. Fairless scheduled a nationwide radio address (9 o'clock St. Louis time) tonight to present industry's side of the grim dispute.

In a statement, he set forth his reasons why President Truman's compromise proposal for a wage increase of 18½ cents an hour, accepted by the union, was rejected by management.

United States Steel's offer of a 15-cent boost, Fairless said, "met 75 per cent of the union's proposal." To go higher, he added, would endanger "the thousands of fabricators and processors of steel whose very existence would be in jeopardy should we grant the union's demand for such a large and unwarranted increase."

Later a group of fabricating firms, at a press conference here, spoke out for separation of their wage negotiations from those of producing firms, asserting their plants were struck "despite the fact" they "had no real opportunity to bargain collectively with the unions." The USW declined comment on this.

As the strike went into its third day, with 750,000 idle at nearly 1300 plants in 29 states, an Associated Press survey disclosed about 58,500 at work in the steel industry. Fewer than 30,000 of these were employed at mills producing iron and steel, the re-

TRAINMEN TO TAKE STRIKE VOTE, SEEK 25 PCT. PAY RISE

Engineers to Consider Authorizing Similar Ballot—293,000 Would Be Affected by Walkouts.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 23 (AP)—One railroad brotherhood today authorized a strike vote among its members and another indicated preparations for a similar vote, in a dispute with the railroads over wage issues and a series of complex changes in working rules.

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said a committee of chairmen representing the brotherhood in each railroad authorized the membership vote on a strike, and estimated it would require three weeks to complete. The trainmen's organization has about 215,000 members.

Alvanley Johnston, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said that organization's committee would meet Feb. 1, "and it is a distinct possibility that they will authorize a strike vote among our 78,000 members."

Whitney stated that strike ballots, now being printed, bore the names of both himself and Johnston.

A spokesman for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, who asked that his name be withheld, said the brotherhood's president, David B. Robertson, "is attending negotiations with the railroads and the National Mediation Board in Chicago, and so far as we know here the negotiations still are in progress."

Whitney and Johnston both indicated that a breakdown in mediation precipitated the present situation. They described the issue as a joint demand for wage increases averaging about 25 per cent, and for changes in working rules to improve conditions for railroad employes.

All of the railroad brotherhoods—five known as "operating" and about 15 others known as "non-operating"—made their demands of the railroads last July. Besides

PLANT OPERATION TO BE TAKEN OVER BY AGRICULTURE DEPT. SATURDAY

AFL Orders Its Members Back to Work—CIO Reluctant, Gives No Pledge — Fact-Finding to Continue.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The White House announced today the Department of Agriculture will seize and operate strike-bound meat packing plants on Saturday.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the Agriculture Department would have the aid of the War Department "if necessary" and that the Agriculture Department would conduct the operations.

Ross made the following oral statement:

"The Government will seize the closed meat packing plants on Saturday, Jan. 26.

"The necessary orders for the seizure are now being prepared by the Secretary of Labor.

"The seizure will be made by the Department of Agriculture, with the aid of the War Department if necessary. The plants will be operated by the Department of Agriculture.

"That's the whole of it at this time."

CIO Withholds Pledge.

Hours after the announcement the Government lacked any pledge that 193,000 CIO strikers would return to work.

However, the AFL Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers ordered its striking members, said to number 70,000, back on the job Saurday as "loyal Americans."

Earl Jimerson, president, and Patrick E. Gorman, secretary-treasurer of the AFL union, said in Chicago that they had assurances "from sources we cannot reveal that the Government will apply any wage increase recommended by the fact-finding board retroactively at least to the date of seizure."

New York members of the CIO union voted against returning to work until their wage demands were met or until ordered back by their national leaders. There was no commitment from the latter. One union official who declined to be quoted by name said "present policy" dictated continuance of the walkout.

If the CIO fails to join the AFL in the back-to-work movement the question whether one union would cross the other's picket lines would apparently arise.

Federal Operator Named.

At the Agricultural Department, it was reported that Harry E. Reed of Kansas, director of livestock marketing, would become federal operator of the plants. Reed, regarded as one of the department's most experienced men in the field, handled allocation of government meat supplies during the war for military and other essential needs.

A former professor at the University of Kansas, he also served

SEVER ESTATE INCOME WON BY WASHINGTON U.

Illinois Supreme Court Upholds Reversal of Cook County Court Award to St. Louis U.

The legal contest for the income of the $1,250,000 Henry E. Sever bequest for technological education was won today by Washington University. The Illinois Supreme Court held that the St. Louis institution was entitled to the fund, as the choice of the estate's trustee, Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago.

The Supreme Court's decision ratified that of the Illinois First District Appellate Court, which had reversed the action of Judge Joseph A. Graber of Cook County Superior Court. Judge Graber, acting on recommendation of two of the three members of a committee named by him to inspect Missouri institutions applying for the fund, had sought to award the bequest to St. Louis University. The higher courts held that the final right of award rested with the bank as trustee.

Washington University recently announced a plan for expansion of its engineering and technological courses, the Sever bequest income, expected to be more than $30,000 a year, will aid in this development. One of the reasons stated by the Chicago bank in 1944 for selecting Washington University was the fact that a cyclotron, or atom-smashing apparatus, had been installed in its engineering department. Since that time the part played by this apparatus in development of the atomic bomb has become known.

Sever, a former Missouri teacher, limited his bequest to Missouri. As the amount was not sufficient to build and endow a new institution, existing schools put in bids for the award. Following Judge Graber's attempted award of the income to St. Louis University, that institution established an Institute of Geophysical Technology, in a newly acquired building at 3621 Olive street; this was opened regardless of the final disposition of the fund.

SENATORS URGE QUICK RETURN TO VOLUNTEER ARMY

Step Real Answer to Complaints, Subcommittee Says—Offers 9-Point Discharge Plan.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—A nine-point program calling for speedy demobilization of the Army was submitted today by the Senate Military Affairs subcommittee which investigated the matter after recent protest demonstrations by soldiers.

"The real answer to all complaints about demobilization is a quick return to a voluntary Army," the subcommittee advised in a report signed by Senators Edwin C. Johnson (Dem.), Colorado, chairman, and Briggs (Dem.), Missouri, and Revercomb (Rep.), West Virginia.

The Senators said that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army chief of staff, favors the volunteer system and they added: "It can be done. It must be done. An impressed army in peacetime is not sound and will not work."

The subcommittee made its report as the Navy announced further cuts in discharge point scores, to make 191,100 men and women eligible for release in seven to 10 weeks, and the Army ground forces ordered 70 per cent of its remaining personnel in this country discharged before June 30.

Recommendations Listed.

The subcommittee's recommendations follow:

"1. The rate of demobilization of the past few months must continue until the approximately 2,000,000 surplus men now in the Army are discharged.

"2. The lapse of time should be shortened between induction and an actual replacement for the men in foreign military service.

"3. Right now farmers, other than volunteers, should be discharged as rapidly as possible, but in no event should any father be held in the Army after July 1, 1946, unless he agrees.

"4. Special hardship cases should continue to have prompt attention, with particular emphasis on family responsibility and family needs.

"5. All idle soldiers should be

PRICE CONTROLS ON GAMES, MANY TOYS TO END MONDAY

"Wheel Goods" on Which Children Ride Not Included—Ceilings Off 24 Other Groups.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Price controls on all games and many toys will be suspended beginning Jan. 28, the Office of Price Administration announced yesterday Controls on 24 miscellaneous commodities, most of them minor food products, also will be dropped.

The exemption on toys applies to all types except so-called "wheel goods," such as wagons longer than 18 inches, tricycles, velocipedes and children's automobiles. OPA said "wheel goods" covers only toys which children ride. Such wheeled toys as miniature jeeps, airplanes and trains will be freed of price ceilings.

The list of miscellaneous commodities from which ceilings are being removed includes such canned foods as sweet potatoes, parsnips, rutabagas, turnips, sauerkraut juice and cabbage. Among other items are fresh hothouse lettuce; imported snuff, cigar cuttings and clippings; frozen clams and oysters; and ice cream sandwich wafers.

AUTO DRIVERS' LICENSE BILL PROVIDES FOR PHYSICAL TEST

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 23—A repeal of the make-believe automobile drivers' license law and enactment of a law providing for physical examination of drivers by the State Highway Patrol, was introduced today by Senator H. R. Williams of Cassville, Republican floor leader.

At present there is no physical examination and licenses are issued to practically all applicants on the payment of 25 cents for two years. The bill increases the fee to $1 for two years.

Under Williams's bill, which, he said, had the approval of the Patrol, there would be an actual test of the applicant's ability to drive, of his physical and mental condition and of his ability to read and understand road signs. It contains a prohibition against the issuance of licenses to habitual drunkards and narcotic addicts. Suspension for many enumerated reasons is provided.

TRUMAN PRESENTS MEDAL OF HONOR TO HEROIC CHAPLAIN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The first chaplain to receive the Medal of Honor was praised today by President Truman as having done his "duty to God and man."

Comdr. Joseph T. O'Callahan of Cambridge, Mass., was on the aircraft carrier Franklin when it was hit by Japanese bombs. He was the first Jesuit priest to enter the naval service in World War II.

Father O'Callahan and three other men were decorated at a White House ceremony. The last to receive his medal, he walked up to the President, who shook his hand vigorously and voiced congratulations.

"You did your duty to God and to man," to told the priest.

The citation said that the priest "groped his way through smoke-filled corridors to the open flight deck and into the midst of violently exploding bombs, shells, rockets and other armament," and ministered to the wounded and dying, comforting men of all faiths in serving with "courage, fortitude and deep spiritual strength."

R. ADM. S. W. SOUERS NAMED INTELLIGENCE DIRECTOR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—President Truman today appointed Adm. Sidney W. Souers of St. Louis as director of central intelligence, one of three units of the nation's new foreign intelligence system. Souers is deputy chief of naval intelligence.

Truman also designated Adm. William D. Leahy to represent him on the National Intelligence Authority which will formulate broad policies for Souers to carry out. Leahy will continue as the President's chief of staff.

Souers will occupy a full-time post.

Adm. Sauers, who in civilian life was a vice president of the General American Life Insurance Co., has been a member of the Naval Reserve for many years. He was called to active duty in July 1940, district intelligence officer of the Sixth Naval District headquarters at Charleston, S.C.

TRUCKERS TO VOTE TOMORROW ON ENDING STRIKE

Settlement Plan Boosts Pay $2.10 to $7.60 a Week and Gives More Vacation Time.

A proposal for settlement of the truck drivers' strike, now in its seventeenth day, will be submitted to a secret vote of the general membership of the AFL Teamsters' and Chauffeurs' Union tomorrow at union headquarters, 4111 Forest Park boulevard.

Balloting will take place between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., officers said. The proposal, which provides for wage increases ranging from $2.10 to $7.60 a week, increased vacation time and other benefits, carries the approval of the union negotiating committee.

The committee voted nine to six for recommending acceptance of the proposal, which makes no immediate change in the 48-hour work week provided under the old contract. William Ryan, union president, announced today that an opening clause was added with the consent of employers, providing for a wage adjustment in the event the 48-hour work week is reduced by Congressional action. Under the clause the wage question may be opened by either party to the contract on 30 days' written notice. This provision was obtained by the conciliation service, Ryan said.

Listing the benefits under the latest offer from representatives of the 364 strike-bound drayage companies and other firms directly involved, the committee stressed the substantial wage increases.

New scales for "straight" trucks would be $46 a week for drivers of trucks up to five tons and $50 for drivers of trucks five tons and over; for "tractor" trucks, $48 for drivers of trucks up to five tons and $50 for five tons and over.

Drivers of "heavy haulers," or winch trucks, would receive $1.30 an hour, and helpers would receive $41.40 a week.

The proposal eliminates the two to five-ton and over-7½-ton classifications for "straight" trucks and the over-7½-ton classification for "tractors" that exist in the old contract.

Present weekly scales are:

PACKING HOUSE PICKET IS SHOT BY NON-STRIKER

Butcher at Independent Co. Says He Fired When They 'Started After Me.'

A picket on duty near the entrance of the St. Louis Independent Packing Co., 3815 Chouteau avenue, which AFL and CIO packing house workers' unions are trying to organize, was shot today by a non-striking worker who had been turned back by pickets as he tried to enter the plant.

The man shot was Morris McMurtry, Negro janitor, member of an independent union at the plant, who had walked out with some hundreds of other workers in sympathy with the joint effort of the CIO and AFL organizations.

Police arrested Walter Curry, Negro butcher at the plant, who said he fired one shot into a group of pickets when they "started after me." He told police he started carrying the pistol several days ago after he was threatened by pickets.

McMurtry was taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital, where it was said his wound, in the right thigh, was not serious. He lives at 752A North Euclid avenue.

Picketing on East Side.

Meanwhile, picketing by AFL and CIO unions continued at the big Armour and Swift plants in East St. Louis, where company officials were awaiting instructions from their Chicago offices as to procedure when the Government seizes the plants on Saturday.

Frank Capera, Armour plant manager, told the Post-Dispatch he had received no official word of impending government action.

Meat supplies in St. Louis stores were still low today, but supplies were reaching the 51 local packing houses, which have returned to operation, in increasing amounts, and it was thought counters would be nearly back to normal by the end of the week.

Henry Friese, president of the AFL packing house workers' organization, charged that a large number of St. Louis independent workers, who have refused to

Strikes in Brief

Meat — The White House announced today the department of agriculture would seize and operate the nation's strike-bound meat packing plants Saturday.

Railroads—President Truman intervened to halt a threatened strike on two Chicago area shuttle railroads which would have blocked livestock shipments to the Chicago stock yards and disrupted through freight traffic between east and west. Strike vote to be taken immediately among 215,000 members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has called a committee meeting for Feb. 1 at which time a similar vote may be authorized among the engineers.

Steel — Strike of 750,000 CIO steel workers in third day with no immediate government plans for seizure; CIO President Philip Murray asks for revision of federal corporation tax laws; U.S. Steel President B. F. Fairless schedules radio address at 9 o'clock tonight (St. Louis time) to present industry's side.

Automotive—CIO United Auto Workers plan wage negotiations with Chrysler Corp. and Ford Motor Co. as union reverts to its 30 per cent wage increase demand on General Motors; Detroit area tool and die makers told by union to halt all work on General Motors materials Monday.

Trucking — Members of AFL Teamsters and Chauffeurs' Union, now in seventeenth day of strike, will vote tomorrow on a proposal for settlement, indorsed by nine of 15 members of union negotiating committee.

Who Put 'O' IN U.N.O.? Charter Refers Only to 'United Nations'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Who put the "O" in U.N.O.? The State Department doesn't know.

The charter adopted at San Francisco uses the words, "United Nations." However, the term United Nations Organization and its abbreviation U.N.O. have become so commonly accepted that even President Truman, in his message to Congress Monday, referred to "the charter of the United Nations Organization." He capitalized the U, N and O.

The State Department, which specializes in having everything just so, also slips occasionally and allows U.N.O. to creep into its telegrams and press releases.

A State Department man told a reporter today that this may explain how U.N.O. was born:

The writing of the preamble to the charter came last. For a long time this new world group had no official name, so the delegates, when referring to it in the charter, just called it the "organization."

Along toward the end of the conference it was decided to call it the United Nations, in tribute to the late President Roosevelt, who first used the words.

The State Department man said he guessed this sequence of events made it easy to wed "United Nations" and "Organization," even though nowhere in the charter do the three words appear together.

He added that he didn't know how many nations had fallen into the U.N.O. habit, but he understood the British were trying to cut back to U.N.

"But United Nations or United Nations Organization," he said with a shrug, "who cares, so long as it works."

New York's 'Confederate' Town Votes Tomorrow on Rejoining U.S.

TOWN LINE, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—A festive atmosphere pervades Town Line on the eve of its vote on whether to return to the union after 85 derelict years.

The main street is bedecked with red, white and blue bunting, and residents are wearing badges which assert: "Last stand of the Confederacy, 1861-1946."

A public holiday has been declared for "Back-to-the-Union" day tomorrow when its 250 citizens "vote" on becoming part of the United States again.

The voting will be done in a blacksmith shop, formerly a schoolhouse, in which the articles of secession were signed in 1861. If the residents vote to "rejoin" the union, the Confederate flag which has flown over the shop for months will be taken down and the Stars and Stripes run up.

Town Line is 14 miles east of Buffalo, and consists of 30 houses, two sawmills, Firemen's Hall, a church and a general store.

Town Line's 125 voters met one night late in 1861 at the schoolhouse, and after a stormy session voted 85 to 40 for secession and cheered Jeff Davis. The desk on which the articles were signed is still there.

After voting to secede, Town Line lapsed back into its placid existence and until last year residents had just about forgotten the incident.

When Dade County, Ga., and Vicksburg, Miss., "returned" to the union last July 4, however, it was brought to light that Town Line's secession never had been rescinded.

FRITZSCHE TELLS HOW PRESS AND RADIO WERE MADE TO SERVE NAZIS

By RICHARD L. STOKES
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

NUERNBERG, Jan. 23 (By Radio and Telephone)—A manual on the subversion of free press and radio under dictatorship was presented this morning to the International Military Tribunal in the case against Hans Fritsche. The defendant was pictured as a radio commentator who in his early career enjoyed a reputation equal to that of Elmer Davis or Edward Murrow but who succumbed to flattery and menaces, began by slanting and then falsifying the news and collapsed at last into a fulsome exponent of war crimes.

The tale of Fritsche's downfall, and with it that of the German press, was unfolded in the presence of Secretary of War Robert A. Patterson who listened from a seat in the visitors' gallery. The prosecutor was Capt. Drexel A. Sprecher of Independence, Wis., a former trial lawyer for the National Labor Relations Board. He declared that the prisoner's theme announcement, "Hans Fritsche speaks," was at one time internationally famous and influential and that he became an abettor of Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda and Enlightenment, in the enslavement of the German press and the instigation of atrocities against Slavs and Jews.

Extracts From His Talks.

The documentation in the case was the briefest yet occurring at the trial. There were three new exhibits with a total of 32 pages. These consisted of an affidavit sworn by Fritzsche recently at Nuernberg; a copy of an order by Dr. Goebbels during November 1942, in which Fritzsche was promoted to a new post created for him—that of plenipotentiary for the political organization of the greater German radio; and a series of extracts from verbal onslaughts against the Jews which were broadcast by Fritzsche between Dec. 18, 1941, and Jan. 13, 1945.

Sprecher declared the defendant's guilt surpassed that of the "gullible minions" who pulled the triggers in Himmler's firing squads or twirled the valves of his poison chambers.

Through his own microphone utterances and his regimentation of press and radio, it was charged, Fritzsche incited the Nazi killers to perpetrate their felonies.

A swarthy, smooth-shaved man, wearing glasses beneath a high, cramped brow from which the dark hair has begun receding, the top radio propagandist, at the age of 45 years, is a comparative youth among his co-defendants. He listened with quiet interest to the evidence, now and then stroking his chin with a slender hand.

Fritzsche, Baldur von Schirach and Julius Streicher are known as the "bush leaguers" in the Nazi dock to which the Russians contributed Fritzsche and Grand Adm. Erich von Raeder. The Soviet authorities were so proud of their ace political captive that they insisted Fritzsche should have a spot in the first international trial for war guilt.

Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief of United States counsel, pleaded in vain that the trio of minor Hitlerites should be replaced with bigwig war industrialists.

Like Goebbels, with whom he became acquainted in 1928, Fritzsche is a native of Westphalia. He specialized at college in history, economics and philosophy. His career started as editor and then radio news analyst for Albert Hugenberg, chief of the German National People's party and head of a great chain of corporations, including newspapers, film studios and wireless stations.

Two Charges Unproved.

Sprecher admitted he was unable to prove two of the charges made against Fritzsche in the indictment—namely, that he was at one time editor in charge of the official German news agency, DNB; and that he had also served as chief of the radio division of the Nazi party's propaganda department. The prosecutor also read into the transcript without denial Fritzsche's account of several creditable incidents in his early career.

On Jan. 30, 1933, the day on which Hitler came to power, it was related, two emissaries from Goebbels approached Fritzsche with statements, in the same breath, that the propaganda chieftain admired his success as a radio speaker and was angry with him for an attack he had made on Hitler because of telegrams of sympathy dispatched by the Fuehrer to Nazis sentenced for political murders. Nevertheless, Goebbels was willing to let Fritzsche continue under certain conditions, one of which was the dismissal of all Jewish employes without notice. According to the defendant's affidavit he refused to comply and succeeded in keeping the Jews in their posts. Out of fear they quit of their own accord during the next three months, it was asserted.

Fritzsche remained unmolested with the exception of four or five visits from Nazi stormtroopers who demanded access to the microphone, "which I prevented with some trouble."

Nazi Machinations.

In April of that year Goebbels asked Fritsche to handle the transfer of the Reich radio corporation's wireless service to his new Department of Progaganda and Enlightenment. Fritzsche agreed and this time was able to have an editor of part Jewish descent named Eckert. "For one to two years," the affidavit related, "Eckert had a hard fight as a free lance writer. Then I was able to place him with the Trans-Ocean Agency, which was under my official supervision. At the collapse he was still there in a good position."

On May 1, Fritzsche joined the National Socialist Party and was rewarded with an appointment to the press division of Goebbels's ministry. From this moment, declared Sprecher, the defendant entered on a swift moral decline. Fritzsche himself acknowledged that "during the whole period from 1933 to 1945 it was the task of the press division to supervise the entire domestic press and furnish it with directives under which it became an effective instrument in the hands of the Nazi state. More than 2300 daily German newspapers were affected by this control. The object was a basic change of conditions which had prevailed in German journalism and the subjection of all newspapers and periodicals to the new order."

Thereafter, instructions in writing, by telephone or in conferences were imposed on every newspaper in so-called "daily paroles" from the Reich press chief, Dr. Otto Dietrich. In this way, according to Fritzsche, the entire German press was made a permanent implement of the Propaganda Ministry and was subordinated to the political aims of the government.

Subsidies For Press.

Fritzsche's first job under Goebbels was that of modernizing the German news agency. Among the steps he took, said the affidavit, "was increasing their government allowance from 400,000 to 4,000,000 marks and "hiring good experts, for instance, from the United Press."

Soon his field was the entire German press and radio. Two of his aims were described as "increase of German news copy abroad at any cost" and "spreading favorable news on the internal constitution and peaceful intentions of the Nazi system."

In the summer of 1934, it was stated, the defendant Walther Funk, who had become Reich press chief, brought about a merger of the two most important German news agencies, the Telegraph Union and the Wolff Telegraph Agency into the DNB, which became the official journalistic organ of the National Socialist state.

Fritzsche was fired for a few hours on the day of the Dollfuss putsch in Austria, July 25, 1934, because he refused to broadcast reports which he thought erroneous and exaggerated. That night, when it was certain the uprising had failed, he was picked up at his home and reinstalled in office.

Lies Too Blatant.

Fritzsche owed his appointment as chief of the German Press Division on Dec. 23, 1938, to "a notable crisis" in the confidence of the German people as to the trustworthiness of their sources of information.

The press division had lost prestige far and wide as a result of its frantic misrepresentation of anti-German atrocities in Czechoslovakia. There had been complaints from the Sudetenland itself that much of the news reported in the Reich press was untrue. So Fritzsche handled as conservatively as he could the ensuing annexation of Bohemia and Moravia. But in the case of Poland, he related, "material came forth with a bound."

There were false charges of cruelty and terror against Germans and of their extermination, of forced labor of German men and women in Poland and of bloody frontier clashes.

Theretofore, according to Fritzsche, he had only slanted the news in a "tendentious" manner, but from now on he was required to lie. For example, he narrated, at 5 o'clock on the morning of June 22, 1941, he was summoned to a conference by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and informed that war against the Soviet Union would start that day. Fritzsche was ordered to instruct the German press that the conflict should be represented as a preventive war in defense of the Fatherland, "which was forced upon us by the immediate danger of an attack by Russia against the Reich."

"This claim was repeated by the newspapers which received their instructions from me. I myself gave the same version of the war in my regular broadcasts," Fritzsche's affidavit related.

Anti-Jewish Diatribes.

By March 18, 1941, the radio commentator who in 1933 defended at some risk the jobs of his Jewish employes, was broadcasting that "we Germans have taken the liberty of breaking the world domination of Jewry."

On Oct. 9 of the same year he denounced over the air waves "this international Jewish-democratic-Bolshevistic campaign of incitement against Germany."

On Jan. 13, 1945, Fritzsche pronounced that Jewry had provided a link between plutocracy and Bolshevism and that the very conditions had been created which "the Jewish race required for its struggle for domination over other races."

He accused Roosevelt and Churchill of coming to terms with "these immigrants" and cited the assassination of "that Jewish swindler, Lord Melchett" as proof that "international Jewry is prepared to remove by murder any British representative who is inconvenient to its cause."

UNION TAKES UP PAY RISE DEMAND WITH CHRYSLER

Tool and Die Workers Ordered to Halt G. M. C. Work Monday—CIO Charges 'Revolt' by Corporations.

Text of UAW Letter on Page 1B.

DETROIT, Jan. 23 (AP)—Chrysler Corporation came back into the labor picture today as its representatives met CIO-United Auto Workers representatives to discuss the union's wage increase demands.

A general contract discussion also was on the negotiating session program. The union's contract with Chrysler expired more than a month ago.

The union, which reverted yesterday to its 30 per cent increase demand on General Motors but apparently still is willing to settle with Ford for a 19½ cent rise, has not disclosed its current demands on Chrysler. A 30 per cent increase from all three firms was sought originally.

Ford representatives, whose 17½ cent offer is still two cents short of satisfying the union, also met today with union negotiators. The two sides completed a short meeting yesterday with the brief announcement that wages had been discussed.

Two union announcements meanwhile affected General Motors. Union officers, in a letter to President Truman, said the union was withdrawing its acceptance of the 17½ per cent compromise the Government had recommended, and that Detroit area tool and die workers were told to halt all General Motors work next Monday.

The letter to the President said General Motor's refusal to accept the recommendation of his fact-finding board was "an open revolt against the American Government and the people" and asserted the corporation had entered "a conspiracy to destroy organized labor."

"Forces allied with General Motors are ready and willing to bring about a total paralysis of American industry in order to resist equitable wage increases; to set us on the road to inflation through higher prices and to wipe off the statute books every piece of constructive social legislation enacted in the last 15 years," said the letter, signed by six top UAW-CIO officers.

Under the tool and die order, issued by UAW-CIO officers, some 3500 to 4000 workers, virtually all in the Detroit area, would put General Motors work "under the bench."

Matthew Hammond, president of local 157, UAW-CIO Tool and Die Workers, disclosed that he had asked the union's international executive board for permission to file a 30-day strike notice against 165 tool and die shops.

MARSHALL TO AID CHINESE IN ARMY REORGANIZATION

U. S. Envoy Agrees to Act as Adviser—Conferees Advance Plan for New Government.

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, Jan. 23 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall, President Truman's special envoy, has accepted the post of adviser to the military committee of three handling reorganization of the Chinese army, Minister of Information K. C. Wu announced today.

Wu also said he thought censorship in recovered areas would be lifted "very soon." Chinese administration has been established in the Manchurian towns of Changchun, Mukden, Harbin, Chinhsien and Szepingkai, he said, but there still are no government forces in either Dairen or Port Arthur, which are to be jointly controlled with the Russians.

He asserted that Communists, in violation of the recent civil strife-ending truce, had seized the formerly government-held towns of Yingkow and Panshan.

Government military forces now are stationed at Hulutao, Chinhsien, Kowpangtze and nine other Manchurian towns.

The reorganization committee had met once prior to Marshall's acceptance of the advisership. Members are Gen. Chiang Chun and Gen. Chang Chih-chung, representing the government, and Gen. Chou En-lai, Communist.

Discussing censorship, Wu said he still is awaiting requested information from Gen. Tu Yu-ming, commander of Government forces in Manchuria, on the reasons for the bar against American correspondents entering Manchuria at any point until all Russian troops have been withdrawn.

Liu Crieh, vice-minister of foreign affairs, said transportation difficulties might delay for a few days the Russian withdrawal from Manchuria and Jehol, now scheduled for completion by Feb. 1. As a delay of only a few days is involved, there is no necessity for formal agreement on this score, he said.

Meanwhile conferees fashioning blueprints for a peace-time China agreed yesterday on plans to remodel the government somewhat along lines of the American system.

TRAINMEN TO TAKE STRIKE VOTE, WANT 25 PCT. PAY RISE

Ready to Accept Arbitration.

In Chicago sources close to the railroad managements and brotherhoods said three operating brotherhoods, firemen and enginemen, conductors, and switchmen, and the 15 non-operating brotherhoods of clerks, shopmen, maintenance of way and similar workers, were about ready to accept arbitration pending final details, of their wage issues only, leaving rules changes in mediation. Arbitration would be binding on both sides.

These sources declined to permit themselves to be identified and a spokesman for the three-man mediation panel, which has been working in Chicago with the managements and brotherhoods since Dec. 18 said the mediators had no statement at this time since it was their policy not to comment while mediation was in progress. The spokesman said mediation had not ended and there had been no formal notice of withdrawal from mediation by the trainmen or engineers.

U.S. INTERVENES IN PROPOSED STRIKE

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (AP)—President Truman acted today to head off a strike of some 1500 trainmen against two shuttle railroads which would upset through freight service and livestock shipments to the Chicago Stockyards, the nation's largest.

Truman established an emergency board under the railway mediation law to investigate a dispute between the Indiana Harbor Belt Railroad, the Chicago Junction Railroad and the Brotherhood of Railroad trainmen.

The union called the strike for 10:30 p.m. (St. Louis time) tonight, declaring management violation of the union contract. Under the law, National Mediation Board officials in Washington said, presidential intervention usually halts a strike automatically for 60 days pending the emergency board's report.

William Bishop, vice president of the B. R. T., said he had not received official word of the president's action but added that "our organization doesn't violate the law." However, he said, if official notice was not received by tonight "the strike will go on as scheduled."

COLLET FAVORS SUBSIDIES ON BUILDING MATERIALS

Limited Aid in 'Particular Spots' Might Increase Production, He Tells House Group—Against General Grants.

By JOSEPH HANLON
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—Stabilization Administrator John Caskie Collet indicated today in testimony before the House Banking and Currency Committee that he thought a limited use of subsidies might make a substantial contribution toward increased production of building materials.

He went further in this respect than Reconversion Director John W. Snyder did yesterday. Snyder withheld approval of the subsidy provisions of the Patman housing bill on which the committee is conducting hearings, saying the subsidy question needed further study.

Adding his indorsement to the price ceiling and construction material channeling provisions of the Patman bill, Collet said he thought subsidies, not applied generally but at particular spots to solve particular problems, might be a good thing.

Cedar vs. Pine Shingles.

As a specific example, he cited information he has received that cedar logs in the Northwest are not being moved to the mills because the OPA price differential for them does not make their use profitable.

If a subsidy were applied here, he thought, these logs might be moved to the mills and, he said, he had been informed that they could be manufactured into shingles which could be used for residential siding. Such siding, he said, would cost about half as much as the conventional pine siding.

In response to a question by Representative Wright Patman (Dem.), Texas, author of the bill, Collet indicated that another place where subsidies might be effective in dealing with the housing crisis would be in increasing the wages of loggers.

Patman and Collet agreed that one reason why Southern pine lumber mills are operating at much less than capacity is that the loggers simply are refusing to go into the woods at the wages offered.

Collet made clear that he did not favor general use of subsidies, but would approve them only when they would solve some specific problem such as those mentioned, and avoid an over-all price increase.

He appeared before the committee without the usual prepared statement and entered freely into an informal, off-the-cuff discussion. He took each question as it came without getting flustered, and his easy-going informality won him a friendly reception. Once he replied to a question with a laconic, "Yeh," and then, recovering quickly, said, "Pardon me, Mr. Congressman, I mean yes."

When one of his questioners began with, "Now, you're a judge," he interrupted with a grin to say, "No, I'm a witness." Collet is on leave as a United States District Judge from Missouri.

Prices and Production.

He expressed doubt that price increases would necessarily bring about increased production of lumber, pointing out that there had been several price increases during the war, but production had declined.

"Maybe the thing to do is to turn the proposition around," he suggested. "Maybe we ought to say to the industry, 'All right, go ahead and increase your production and then we'll talk about price.'"

One of the most effective subsidies that Congress might consider, Collet suggested, was one "which wouldn't cost anything at all." He referred to the fact that the United States Forest Service owns about 8 per cent of the standing timber in the country, and said the Forest Service was holding this timber at prices generally higher than those set by private owners.

"If the Forest Servce pulls its price down on this stumpage," he said, "it might have a healthy effect on the price of stumpage (standing timber) which is privately owned. Stumpage costs are one of the biggest factors in the high cost of lumber."

A question from one committee member who asked if he did not think the Civilian Production Administration priority assistance program for homes costing not more than $10,000 or renting for not more than $80, was likely to prove of little assistance to home-seeking veterans, didn't faze Collet.

Figures Are "Pretty High."

"I think those figures are pretty high," he said. "I'm gauging that by my own experience. When I came home after the last war, all I had in my pocket was $60 the government gave me."

Collet said he would be more concerned about the success of the program, however, if he had not been informed that a large percentage of the homes being constructed under it are priced at about $6500.

Answering Representative Jessie Sumner (Rep.), Illinois, and several other committee members who expressed doubt that ceiling prices on old and new housing could be effectively enforced, Collet said that from the number of complaints by landlords which reached his office it was apparent that OPA had done something to enforce rental ceilings.

He pointed out that the Patman bill contains provision for treble damages, similar to that in the Price Control Act, and said this provision should be effective in preventing evasion of real estate price ceilings by deterring sellers from "removing the furnace, the chandeliers and the other things that go with the house."

Messages for Some Germans.

GENEVA, Jan. 23 (AP) — The International Red Cross said today that it is able to transmit 25-word messages of a strictly personal nature to civilians in the French-occupied zone in Germany. Negotiations are in progress for similar transmissions to the American and British zones.

48 MORE JAPS ORDERED HELD AS WAR CRIMINALS

Three Generals, Several Naval Officers on New List — Matsuoka Surrenders Self.

TOKYO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur today ordered the arrest of 48 more Japanese war criminal suspects, including three lieutenant generals.

Ordered to report at Sugamo prison "at the earliest practicable date" were Lt. Gen. Yuichiro Nagano, commander of the Osamu Army groups in Batavia in June and July, 1945; Lt. Gen. Fusataro Teshima, who commanded the Second Army, and Lt. Gen. Seichi Yamada, commander of the Fifth Division.

The rest of the suspects were military of lesser rank and civilians, including a number of guards at prisoner of war camps.

Also named were a number of naval personnel who were stationed at Infanta, Luzon, including Capt. Takesu Furuse and two junior grade lieutenants.

Others named were Col. Kazuo Iwahashi, chief of staff, third war shipping unit, Manila; Kichizo Ikushima, civilian employe in the Foreign Affairs Bureau, naval intelligence, Shanghai, and Lt. Comdr. Hideo Taniura, commander of a minesweeper at Tsurishima.

Yosuke Matsuoka, former foreign minister, who is credited with taking Japan into the Axis tripartite pact, surrendered at Sugamo prison on war crimes charges.

Food stored in a former arsenal was seized yesterday by leaders of approximately 3500 residents in two Tokyo wards and distributed among the men and women clustered about the warehouse.

A Home Ministry official said the incident followed two days of negotiations over distribution of the commodities. The episode was cited as part of a spreading movement for public control of necessaries.

46 GERMAN MINERS KILLED WHEN ELEVATOR BREAKS

BRUNSWICK, Germany, Jan. 23 (AP)—Forty-six German coal miners were killed and one was seriously injured today when the cage lowering them down a shaft fell free.

PRIVATE INFORMS GENERAL HIS JACKET IS UNBUTTONED

NAGOYA, Japan, Jan. 23 (AP)—A clerk who went into headquarters to make a report told Brig. Gen. Everett E. Brown, commander of the Twenty-fifth Division:

"Sir, one of the buttons of your field jacket is unbuttoned."

He saluted and left.

"I want that man promoted," said Brown.

But the general was a few hours too late. Pfc. James L. Bailey, West Newton, Mass., had been promoted the same day for all-around efficiency. (Presumably he was promoted to corporal.)

BRITISH PRESENT CASE OF VON PAPEN

NUERNBERG, Jan. 23 (AP)—The British prosecution told the International military tribunal today that Franz von Papen sold the German republic into the hands of the Nazis in a cold-blooded effort to "further his own diplomatic career."

Outlining the story of the miscalculations of Von Papen, who blundered badly as head of the German spy and sabotage ring in the United States in the first World War, the prosecution described the elderly diplomat as "not a typical Nazi, but an unscrupulous political opportunist." He is one of 22 on trial for war crimes.

Inspite of his early mistakes, the prosecution said, Von Papen became the able servant of Hitler, whom he had despised, as Germany's ambassador to Turkey.

Prosecutors gave way to the British and Americans today so they could complete their presentation against Von Papen, Rudolf Hess and others. Illness of Hess's lawyer prevented taking up his case, however. Hess asked that he be permitted to undertake his own defense.

Julius Streicher, one of the defendants, suffered a heart attack at noon and was put to bed.

PALESTINE ARABS REJECT INTERIM PLAN ON JEWS

JERUSALEM, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Arab High Committee rejected last night British proposals for interim immigration of 1500 Jews a month into Palestine, and declared that further study of the Jewish problem was unnecessary.

Apparently referring to the Anglo-American investigating commission, to visit Palestine, the Arab statement said additional immigration while the commission is sitting would be "a concession to aggressive demands of Jews under pressure of terrorism."

"The Arab people," the committee statement said, "do not consider that they are called upon to give shelter to a people which is using every means to overwhelm them and destry their existence. . . ."

The committee comprises ranking representatives of the six major Arab political parties.

BIG 5 DELEGATES CAUCUS TO PICK U. N. O. SECRETARY BUT CAN'T AGREE

Closed Meeting in Byrnes's Hotel Office —U.S. Reported Backing Canadian, Russia for Norwegian.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The top men of the five principal powers in the United Nations met in a closed session in the office of Secretary of State James F. Byrnes today. They were reported to have failed again to agree on a candidate for secretary general.

The negative result of the 90-minute meeting led some delegates to express concern that the five powers were drifting toward a deadlock on the question, made more acute by charges of political interference made by Iran against Russia and by Russia against the British in Greece and Indonesia.

American officials had hoped to make swift progress on the situation today, both at the five-power meeting and a later informal session of representatives of all 11 Security Council members, so the new peace organization could begin building its permanent staff.

The five powers have to agree in order for the full council to nominate a secretary general whom the 51-member General Assembly may accept or reject.

U.S. Favors Canadian.

The United States is reported backing Lester Pearson, Canadian Ambassador to Washington, for the $20,000 a year post. Russia has been advocating the candidacy of Trygve Lie, foreign minister of Norway.

The meeting, at a Mayfair hotel, was the first such session that has been attended by Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet vice commissar of foreign affairs and chief Russian delegate, since the beginning of the U.N.O. conference. Vishinsky arrived in London yesterday.

Others at the meeting in addition to Byrnes were British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, Paul Boncour of France and V. K. Wellington Koo of China.

Shortly before this gathering, British officials were reported authoritatively to have discussed with French delegates the attitude to be taken by the British Government toward the Russian complaints against British policy in Greece and Indonesia.

Atomic Control Question.

The Economic and Social Council, designed to promote better living standards throughout the world, elected Sir Ramaswami Mudaliar of India its president by acclamation. Andrija Stampar of Yugoslavia and Carlos Restrepo of Colombia were elected vice presidents.

The General Assembly postponed until tomorrow its scheduled action to set up machinery to control atomic energy.

American officials said the delay was a technical one.

There was no indication that the atomic control plan—sponsored by the United States, Britain, Russia and Canada—would meet any serious opposition. The proposal received its first test Monday before the Assembly's Political and Security Committee, which approved it by a vote of 46 to 0.

The importance of the atomic control question was underscored by an announcement of Byrnes that he would return to Washington immediately after the commission is created.

Edward R. Stettinius Jr. will head the American delegation during the consideration of the complaints against Russia and Britain.

U.N.O. officials discounted talk that these controversial issues might create a crisis in the new peace organization. Assembly President Paul-Henri Spaak declared there was "no ground for pessimism." At the same time he warned against falling into "the errors of the League of Nations" by putting off major problems.

British Position.

The British Government, a qualified British source said, had "nothing to fear or be ashamed of and certainly nothing to conceal" in its policies in Greece and Indonesia.

Informed observers expressed belief that Britain's case for keeping troops in Greece and Indonesia had been considerably strengthened by statements of support yesterday from the Greek premier and the premier of the unrecognized Indonesian government.

Some officials said the Security Council might meet Thursday to decide how to tackle Russia's complaints and to consider Iran's charges against the Soviet Union.

They predicted that commissions probably would be appointed to carry out "on-the-spot" investigations in Iran, Greece and Indonesia if no means of immediate settlement appeared.

PACKING HOUSE PICKET IS SHOT BY NON-STRIKER

strike, are carrying weapons into the plant.

"We have asked for police protection against this illegal activity," Friese asserted. "All we're trying to do is organize that plant in a legal way, and we're entitled to the protection of the law in doing it."

He said pickets had observed several employes carrying pistols. After this morning's shooting 10 policemen were put on duty in the vicinity of the plant entrance.

Friese said all but about 50 of the plant's 1500 workers had remained away from work today, and that about 1200 had signed up with the AFL-CIO organization. A Government-supervised election is planned later to determine which organization the workers desire to join.

Prospects are good, Friese said, for settlement of the strike at Hunter Packing Co., East St. Louis, which did not enter into the agreement restoring the local plants to operation last week. AFL union representatives will meet with company officials at 9 a.m. tomorrow for discussion of a revised union proposal.

McMurtry, the picket who was shot, told a Post-Dispatch reporter he was one of several pickets standing near the Chouteau avenue entrance of the plant when Curry approached shortly before 7 a.m.

"There wasn't any argument or fight at all," he said. "I told Curry, 'Come on, let's go back home and get this thing over with. The Government's taking over anyhow.'

"Curry said, 'All right, I'll go home, but I'll be back.' Then he walked about 20 feet, turned around and fired a shot at us. I don't think he was shooting especially at me."

Curry, who works in the sheep slaughtering department, has been employed by the company for 21 years.

St. Louis Independent plant officials said that between 60 and 70 per cent of the workers were on the job today and that, while incoming stock was not large, the company had a "fair supply."

PACKING PLANT SEIZURE ORDERED BY GOVERNMENT

as agricultural attache at the American embassy in Berlin for four years and held the same post in London for another four-year tour. He is a graduate of the University of Missouri.

At the War Department, it was understood the Army's subsistence branch was prepared to help Reed if and when he should require it.

Fact-finding to Continue.

In Chicago, Edwin E. Witte, chairman of the government's meat fact-finding board announced that hearings of the panel which started yesterday would continue regardless of Saturday's seizure. Witte indicated the fact-finders would continue until their investigations are completed and would present a report and wage recommendations to Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach.

Labor department officials, working to complete the seizure order, refused to disclose details as to its scope or the extent of the Government's power to adjust wages while operating the industry.

The order was reported to cover some 150 meat packing plants, which represent about one-half of the entire industry and about 60 per cent of the federally-inspected production.

Schwellenbach conferred with President Truman this afternoon on details of the seizure plans.

Packers Await Notice.

One industry spokesman said the memorandum agreements which the Government would offer each packing company were being "awaited with a great deal of interest."

These agreements, it was explained, would indicate how far the Government intended to go in making any wage adjustments effective in federal operation.

Normally, under seizure proceedings, the existing management agrees to operate for the Government, as its representative, under conditions established by the Government. Should conditions in the meat seizure specify wage increases, some industry sources here predicted that the packing companies might refuse to ratify a management agreement.

Should that occur, the Government would have to put its own management personnel in charge of the packing plants.

The CIO union is demanding a wage increase of 17½ cents an hour; the AFL is asking 20 cents.

Livestock Association Head Protests Against Seizure.

DEETH, Nev., Jan. 23 (AP)—William B. Wright, newly-elected president of the American National Livestock Association, announced today that he had telegraphed President Truman saying government seizure of packing plants would not solve the strike.

The Nevada rancher said he informed Truman that it would be "a retreat from collective bargaining" and that the association regarded seizure as neither equitable nor just.

"It is imposing government compulsion," Wright said. "It does not solve the problem.

"If present meat price ceilings remain, the proposed wage increases granted packing house workers must be borne by livestock producers. If ceilings are adjusted to compensate for wage increases, the increases will immediately be borne by the consumer.

"The reported government proposal to compensate for any increased wage granted by increasing the price paid on government purchases of meat is a subterfuge to appease and temporarily subsidize organized labor while passing the cost to the unorganized taxpayer."

EX-COLONEL, 34, LEADS IN NEW ORLEANS VOTE

Backers Claim De Lesseps Morrison Has Unseated Maestri as Mayor.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 23 (AP) — Supporters of De Lesseps S. Morrison credited him today with a surprise victory over the old regular Democratic organization which has dominated New Orleans politics for more than a quarter of a century.

On the basis of complete, though unofficial returns from yesterday's primary, the Times-Picayune and other backers of Morrison had said he won.

These figures gave Morrison 67,843 votes against 63,340 for Robert S. Maestri, an old regular stalwart, an ally of the late Huey P. Long and mayor for nearly 10 years. Shirley G. Wimberly had 1943 votes.

Still to be counted were the votes for four other candidates. Morrison's adherents were confident these votes would not equal his 2520-vote margin over the Maestri-Wimberly total.

By party rules, a candidate must poll more than half of the votes cast to win nomination, which in New Orleans is equivalent to election. If no one has a majority, a run-off is held between the two top candidates.

Morrison, 34 years old, doffed his colonel's uniform to enter the race. He ran with the support of an "independent citizen's committee." He is a direct descendant of the French engineer, Ferdinand de Lesseps, who built the Suez canal and tackled the Panama canal project but failed.

Maestri asked re-nomination on his record as mayor.

If the claims of Morrison's followers are supported by the official returns, it will be the first time in 26 years the regular Democratic organization was defeated in the city.

MAN QUESTIONED IN KILLING OF SHIRLEY COXEY RELEASED

A laborer taken into custody for questioning about the murder of Shirley Jean Coxey, 9-year-old schoolgirl, was released today after he convinced detectives he had no knowledge of the crime.

The man works in the vicinity of Sheridan alley, where the girl's body was found last Nov. 23. He at first was unable to account for his whereabouts on the night of the murder. A woman acquaintance told police she had a date to meet him on Thanksgiving night, but he had failed to show up, later explaining that he had overslept.

A number of persons have been arrested for questioning about the case, but all have been released.

EX-CONVICT QUESTIONED IN LAWRENCE DREWER KILLING

Joseph Burnett, an ex-convict, was being questioned by police today in connection with the murder of Lawrence Drewer, burglary gang leader, who was shot to death Jan. 4 at West Pine boulevard and Sarah street.

Police said witnesses to the shooting would be brought to headquarters to view Burnett. He is said by police to resemble descriptions given by witnesses of one of Drewer's killers.

Burnett also is being questioned in connection with a postoffice robbery at Bourbon, Mo., police said.

MAC ARTHUR AID REPLIES TO TASS KOREA CRITICISM

Terms Russian Story Part of Definite Program to Discredit Supreme Commander.

TOKYO, Jan. 23 (AP) — A spokesman at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said today an assertion by Tass, official Soviet news agency, that the United States military command in southern Korea was inspiring "reactionary" protests against the Moscow Conference is part of "a definite program to discredit Gen. MacArthur and force further changes in the present occupation policies and command."

Southern Korea is under the direct command of Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, who is under MacArthur's command. The Russians control Korea north of the thirty-eighth parallel.

Tass assailed "the reactionary press" of southern Korea for allegedly carrying on an anti-Soviet propaganda campaign and for attacking the decision reached at Moscow recently by the United States, Britain and Russia to set up a five-year trusteeship for Korea.

Scores Jap Communists.

"It is known that orders have gone out to all opposition forces, including the so-called Communist party members in Japan, to do their utmost to discredit MacArthur," his spokesman said.

"It is a deplorable condition when some dissident press of the world continues to incite and foment international mistrust. . . . Now more than ever every effort should be bent toward understanding and agreement.

"It can be expected that continuing, critical attacks will flow from the Left-wing press of the United States as well as from others outside the United States.

"Failure to secure popular support in their program following their assault after the Moscow conference will merely spur these elements to a more studied plan of attack.

"It can be expected that these attacks will be predicated on reports of premeditated failure of the Japanese to respond to command, or even that through intrigue or subversive measures the Japanese are not putting corrective measures into effect in the government.

Says Some Don't Need Facts.

"It is known that some persons are around whose sole purpose is to gather up any kind of evidence on which to base a critical story. Some have shown that they do not need evidence—they manufacture it out of their imagination. . . .

"The worst possible type of material propagated is that which incites suspicion in international circles. A good example is the type of story which had Gen. MacArthur opposing the use of Russian forces in his command. This story—to those who knew the facts, and the Russian Government knew them—could only show the extremes to which someone will go to manufacture a story to discredit and create distrust and suspicion."

Tass Criticism Unfounded, Says Hodge; Tells of Steps Taken.

SEOUL, Jan. 23 (AP)—Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, United States occupation commander in Korea, replying to the Tass criticism, declared today that "any accusation against this command is without basis of fact."

Hodge pointed out that he and his advisers in Seoul from the State Department constantly had been trying to impress Koreans with the value of the Moscow decision for a five-year, Allied trusteeship of their country. Statements have been made repeatedly in person to leaders of various factions and numerous explanations have been broadcast to the people.

At the same time, Hodge said, there has been no attempt to hamper or stifle Koreans' freedom of speech, press or assembly.

He said he had no comment on the possible effect, if any, the Tass dispatch might have on functions of the joint Soviet-American commission now in session here to plan Korea's rehabilitation.

Left-wing Koreans held a mass meeting and parades today ostensibly "to welcome the joint commission." Indirectly, however, the demonstration was reported to have been arranged as a show of strength in reply to anti-trusteeship demonstrations last week by Rightist elements sponsored by the Kim Koo provisional government organization. Violence flared then and at least two Koreans were killed and many injured.

PORK, FLOUR SUBSIDIES STAND

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Pork and flour subsidies, originally scheduled to be discontinued in March, will be retained through June.

Stabilization Director John C. Collet said last night this decision was made necessary "by the fact that price declines in non-subsidized elements of the cost of living are not materializing."

TENTATIVE PLAN FOR STREAMLINING CONGRESS MADE

Subcommittee of Joint LaFollette - Monroney Group Reports Recommendations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Tentative proposals for streamlining Congress were made in a subcommittee report to the La-Follette-Monroney joint Senate and House committee yesterday. The full joint committee must act before any report is filed with either house.

From a parliamentary viewpoint, one of the key recommendations is that Congress break the tight control which the House Rules Committee now can exercise over legislation.

The program for modernizing the law-making machinery was reported by a Senate-House subcommittee which has been making a study of congressional reorganization.

Nine Points of Program.

Program points include:

1. Give members of Congress a $5000 increase, boosting their salaries to $15,000, effective the next Congress, and place them under the federal pension system.

2. Allow Congressmen more time for important business by permitting each to hire an $8000-a-year assistant to handle non-legislative matters.

3. Limit sessions to provide an annual recess from the close of the fiscal year, June 30, until Sept. 10 or Oct. 1.

4. Experiment with night sessions, some of which could be broadcast. Also try a weekly schedule providing three full days for committee hearings and three full days for full-dress chamber sessions.

5. Enact laws for the registration of all lobbying groups and their agents, and compel quarterly reports of their expenditures in seeking to influence legislation.

6. Cut the 33 standing committees in the Senate to 16, and trim the 48 in the House to 18, then provide each committee with a staff of four experts.

7. Discontinue the practice of allowing unconnected legislation to be tacked to appropriation bills as riders.

8. Require every committee with pending legislation before it to hold a public hearing once a month in order to keep the measures moving.

9. Delegate to federal courts and the Court of Claims authority to settle claims against the Government which now must be handled by Congress.

Senator La Follette (Prog., Wisconsin), chairman of the joint committee, said several more sessions of the group would be needed to complete consideration of the report.

Speed-up in Clearing Bill.

The control over legislation which now can be exercised by the House Rules Committee would be weakened greatly by the recommendation that the committee clear all bills within 20 days. The proposal also provides that, committee chairmen be required to report all bills approved by committees and immediately move to bring them to the floor. The Rules Committee now can bottle up bills indefinitely.

The report was critical of the handling of appropriations legislation. It contended that the House Appropriations Committee now functions "more as a group of independent committees than as one unified committee."

It further asserted that "frequently the entire consideration by the full Appropriation Committee of bills appropriating billions of taxpayers monies consumes less than an hour. Such cursory approval strictly limits any careful consideration of the measure by all members of the committee excepting members of the particular sub-committee."

Inquiry Into St. Louisan's 30-Year Sentence for Deserting at Front

Mother Writes Representative That Son Always Was 'Jittery'—'Nerves Collapsed' Under Fire.

Information on the 30-year court-martial sentence for desertion imposed a year ago on Clarence Coons Jr., Brentwood soldier, has been requested of the War Department by Representative Walter Ploeser following receipt of a letter from the soldier's mother, Mrs. Clarence Coons Sr., 8778 Brentwood place.

In a letter to Representative Dewey Short, a member of the House Military Affairs Committee, Mrs. Coons said her son, a private in the 318th Infantry, received the sentence and a dishonorable discharge following a court-martial at Loire, France, Jan. 19, 1945. The desertion occurred in the face of the enemy, making it a capital offense.. Short referred the letter to Ploeser, who wrote the War Department for details.

To a Post-Dispatch reporter Mrs. Coons today said she recently received a 24-page letter from her son, who is confined in a military prison at Stormville, N.Y., making a full report of his conduct under fire.

"He explained that he just couldn't take it," the mother said. "He always was jittery, and the continuous fighting and killing was just too much for him. He said he left his regiment three times when his nerves collapsed. Just before he left the third time he went to the medics, but they sent him back. Then he left and became a straggler." He was picked up by the 101st Division, in Luxembourg, and returned to his regiment, the letter said.

Married and the father of two small daughters, Coons enlisted Feb. 23, 1944, in advance of being drafted. His wife, who resides at 1529 Fairmount avenue, is employed in a manufacturing plant.

Coons, 26 years old, was educated in Brentwood schools and worked for the General Refractories Co., in Brentwood, and at the St. Louis Ordnance Plant, before entering service.

"He was a good boy, and was never in any trouble before," his mother stated today. "He just couldn't take the fighting and he left. The fact that he left three times went hard against him. His nerves just gave way, and I'm sure he has been punished enough."

$8352 OVER-CHARGE ON TWO FUNERALS ALLEGED IN SUIT

Joe F. Van Natta, Carbondale (Ill.) Undertaker, Named in Damage Action.

Joe F. Van Natta, owner of an undertaking establishment in Carbondale, Ill., was alleged to have charged $8352 more for two funerals than allowed under Office of Price Administration ceilings, in a suit filed today in United States District Court in East St. Louis.

The action was filed by J. Everett Etherton of the Carbondale National Bank, executor of the estate of the late Frank Sumner, who was in the tire recapping business in Carbondale. Treble damages totaling $25,056 are sought.

The petition stated that Sumner's wife, Mrs. Catherine Sumner, died last June 20, and that following her death Sumner paid Van Natta a total of $10,752, which was to pay for both her funeral and his own. Sumner was ill at the time. He died last July 3. An estate valued at $100,000 was left in trust by Sumner for two grandchildren.

The OPA office in Springfield also filed suit in United States District Court in East St. Louis, seeking an injunction restraining Van Natta from charging more than ceiling prices for funeral services.

CHAPLAIN'S DOG REJOINS HIM AFTER 4000-MILE JOURNEY

Pet Left Behind in France Because of Quarantine Rules Reaches Belleville.

Dina, a German shepherd dog, which Capt. William Coovert, an Army chaplain, bought as a pup in Regensburg, Germany, was reunited yesterday in Belleville with its master after a 4000-mile trip alone from Cherbourg, France.

Dina, called the "padre's pup" by members of the tank destroyer unit with which Capt. Coovert served in Germany, was left behind because of quarantine regulations when the chaplain left France early in December.

The chaplain, who is resuming his duties as a teacher atSt. Henry's College, a Catholic seminary at Belleville, said it cost $70 to bring Dina—now weighing 86 pounds—to the United States, but said the dog's companionship was well worth it.

Red Marshal Goes Home to Vote.

PEIPING, Jan. 23 (AP)—Central News Agency reported today that Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, commander of Russian troops in Manchuria, has left Changchun to take part in the people's election which is entering its final phase in the Soviet Union.

SCHOOL BOARD ASKS FOR RULING ON NAGEL

Opinion Sought on Whether Member Violates Rules by Being Union Officer.

Emmet T. Carter, attorney for the Board of Education, will be asked to determine whether Board Member Frank P. Nagel is violating the rules of the board by continuing to serve as secretary-treasurer of the St. Louis Public School Custodians and Matrons Union, President Herbert O. Winterer said today.

Local 118 of the union, an affiliate of the AFL, has authorized a strike unless its demands for an average wage increase of $20 a month are met. The board has refused to grant the request, indorsing the position of its commissioner of school buildings, Joseph P. Sullivan, that salaries now paid are higher than those paid for similar work in this area.

The oath required of board members includes the statement the member "is not interested in any contract with, or claim against the Board of Education, either directly or indirectly," and will not become interested in such a contract or claim either directly or indirectly or as an agent or employe of any individual, firm or corporation which is so interested.

Nagel, a custodian at Hadley Technical High School when he was elected to the board last April, continued to serve as an official of local 118 of the union although resigning his position as custodian.

Winterer said he felt it to be his responsibility to ask Carter for an opinion on the subject. "While the situation may not be a literal violation of Nagel's oath of office, it does seem to me to be contrary to the spirit of the oath," he said.

Nagel, now employed as a floorwalker at Famous-Barr Co., said he had requested a withdrawal card from the union and expected the union to act on the request at its monthly meeting tonight. He said he received no salary, but was given an expense account by the local.

At a special meeting of the board last Monday night, members voted six to three in favor of a resolution commending Sullivan. Nagel joined with William Schumacher and J. Harry Pohlman in opposing the resolution, but otherwise has not taken an active part in the wage controversy.

Builders Drop Housing Plan, Cite Union Scale

to transfer a substantial part of these workers to the higher rate would disrupt the labor relations of the contractors."

John J. Church, secretary of the Building and Construction Trades Council, told the Post-Dispatch that the residence rates referred to by the Builders' Guild were reduced rates established in a contract negotiated by his organization with the Builders' Guild in February 1941 for construction of small residences most of which were in St. Louis county.

"That contract expired Feb. 1, 1943, and has not been renewed," Church said. "The so-called commercial rates are the prevailing wage scales in the area as established by the Department of Labor through surveys. They are the rates the government pays on any type of construction project.

"Since the contract with the Builders' Guild expired in 1943, most of the members of that organization have been paying the commercial rates to all of their men engaged in residential construction work. Because of this fact, most all the unions affiliated with the Building and Construction Trades Council have refused to go along with the proposed lower-pay schedule."

Even though the entire amount of money required for erection of the proposed buildings were borrowed from private sources, as was being considered by the Builders' Guild, the union members would not work at the reduced rate, Church said, because they consider the furnishing of sites, sewers and streets by the city would constitute use of city funds.

Difference in Scales.

Under the terms of the contract with the Builders' Guild the rates applicable to construction workers employed on residential work, "not publicly financed," ranged from $1 to $1.25 an hour. The commercial rates range from $1.62½ to $1.90 an hour.

Church notified Mayor Kaufmann by telephone of the decision of the labor representatives yesterday while the meeting with members of the contractors' organization was in progress. He told the Mayor that it would be impossible for the unions, because of the present demand for workers at the commercial rates, to furnish experienced mechanics for the housing project at the reduced rates. He added that there are about 10,000 union members in the armed forces, or recently discharged, and the unions do not thing it fair that they be asked to work for a reduced pay scale.

Accuses Guild of Bad Faith.

Church, asked whether he considered the union council's demand to be fair to the returned veterans needing homes, said:

"I don't feel that the veterans are being penalized, one way or the other. I don't think the plan was anything but mythical, and a person can't be injured by anything that is not realistic."

He charged further that the Builders' Guild was "just using this project to try to push down wages. They knew from the start that we wouldn't accept their proposal. I believe the Builders' Guild was just trying to gain sympathy of the public in this matter."

Berkley expressed disappointment at the outcome of the Guild's efforts during past weeks in preparing plans, locating sites and arranging financing of the project on a self-liquidating basis.

"The Guild regarded its proposal as an opportunity to render a genuine service to the veteran in the present distressing emergency," he said.

Banker Inspects Site.

Following an inspection trip yesterday to the 23-acre site proposed for construction of the first 250 of the temporary houses which were under consideration, James Hickok, president of the Manufacturers' Bank & Trust Co., said that the banks would agree to put up the entire amount of money that would have been needed for the construction of the 250 houses. This announcement was made by E. D. Dail, executive director of the Citizens' Emergency Housing Committee, after the Builders' Guild abandoned their plans.

Hickok was accompanied on the inspection trip by H. C. Martin of the Chamber of Commerce, Richard C. Obermann, vice president of the Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co., and Water Commissioner Thomas J. Skinker. The site, on Gimblin road about three blocks east of North Broadway, is owned by the Water Department.

QUONSET HUTS FOR CLAYTON VETERANS

The Veterans' Housing Association of Clayton will seek incorporation, and will solicit subscriptions to increase its present building fund of $14,480 to $32,000. Modified quonset huts, each having four rooms and bath for each of two families, form the plan for occupancy of 16 Clayton veterans and their families.

Original plans to build two eight-family frame units at a cost of $2000 a family unit were laid aside when it was learned that unions of the AFL Building Trades and Construction Council had announced its demand for commercial rates of pay in such work, instead of residential rates.

The huts, having 24 by 48 feet area, will have living room, kitchens, two bedrooms and bath for each family, John Gross, Clayton building contractor, explained at a citizens' meeting last night. He said the cost would be about $4000 each, and that a Detroit steel corporation could make delivery within 60 days, unless the steel strike should upset its schedule. Partitions, plumbing and decorations will be installed at cost by the Builders' Guild of St. Louis, he said. The site will be a tract 250 by 200 feet on Maryland avenue, east of Gay avenue, set apart by the city of Clayton.

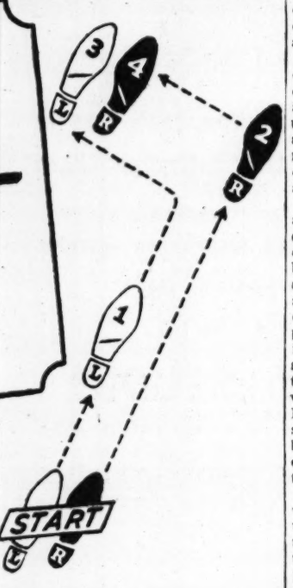

Rents charged to the veterans will be $37.50 to $45 a month, and the rentals would compose a fund to be returned to those financing the project. The petition for a pro forma decree of incorporation states that the association shall have a life of six years. The plan calls for demolition of the huts at the end of five years.

A committee appointed to nominate officers and present the petition to the court comprises the Rev. Victor Suren of St. Joseph's Catholic Church; the Rev. Omer Duffendack, pastor Clayton Methodist Church; Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman of Temple Israel; Charles A. Shaw of the Rotary Club; Paul Block, American Legion; Victor W. Kasting, Parent-Teachers Council, and Alden B. Park, Lions' Club. John P. Ossenfort Jr., assistant city attorney, prepared the petition for incorporation. C. Kenneth Thies, chairman of the public relations committee of the aldermen; John McAtee, chairman of the county housing committee; Superintendent of Schools John L. Bracken, and Mayor Alfred H. Kerth were speakers at the meeting.

PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS URGED BY FHA OFFICIAL

Eri Hulburt Says Realty Men Should Not View It as in Competition With Them.

Public housing, far from being viewed as in competition with private enterprise, should be welcomed by real estate men as a means of providing early relief for the thousands of low-income families which cannot be housed by private builders.

This sentiment was voiced by Eri Hulbert of Chicago, regional project services supervisor for the Federal Housing Authority and a lecturer on public housing at the University of Chicago, in a talk before the St. Louis chapter of the Missouri Association for Social Welfare at DeSoto Hotel yesterday. About 125 persons attended.

"Of the 1,200,000 housing units which, it is estimated, should be built this year, 450,000 would have to rent for less than $30 a month," Hulbert asserted. "This is the field for public housing, while private enterprise takes care of the housing needs of families who can pay more rent. In fact, many leaders in private real estate welcome the public housing program as an essential part of the overall program.

"Answer to Problem."

"The Wagner-Ellender-Taft bill is a modern answer to the American housing problem. It provides for the largest share of the job to be done by private enterprise with federal assistance where necessary. It provides for essential research in the fields of design, production, construction and marketing. It provides for large-scale urban redevelopment and for urban and rural low-rent housing for families of low income. Its framework is one of maximum private enterprise and maximum local autonomy, with federal assistance based on local needs and local desires."

Hulburt, whose study of public housing began as a youth when he lived at Hull House, Chicago's famous social settlement, scouted any idea that the pending WET bill contemplates a purely federal program.

Co-ordinated Distribution.

"As exemplified by the Carr Square and Clinton-Peabody developments in St. Louis," he said, "the projects are locally controlled, under state law, with federal participation strictly limited.

"Charges that local tax exemptions are discriminatory against private industry are equally unfair. It has been shown that the service charges required by law to be paid to the city, plus the savings brought about by reduction in public services for the projects, actually result in a net income to the city treasury.

"It is impossible to prophesy how low in the income scale private enterprise in St. Louis may reach or how far upward family incomes may rise in a future of expanded economy of abundance. It is impossible to tell how much of the job private enterprise will do and how much will remain a public responsibility. Whatever the co-ordinated distribution of responsibility, a public housing job remains to be done."

13 TRANSPORT PLANES SOLD TO SPAIN, ARGENTINA BY U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—At least 13 American Army transport planes have been allocated to airlines of Spain and Argentina, whose governments have been criticized sharply in official American pronouncements.

Eight twin-engined C-47 transport planes have been delivered or earmarked for Spain. Five four-engined C-54 transports went to a commercial airline of Argentina.

In addition to the eight planes, the State Department also has approved the sale of nearly $300,000 worth of airport equipment to Spain. This is also surplus Army equipment, including bulldozers, scrapers, shovel units, dump trucks and a semi-trailer.

CLARK AND 34 OTHER GENERALS PROMOTED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Mark W. Clark, recently assailed by a veterans' group, was nominated yesterday for the permanent rank of major general by President Truman.

The names of 10 well-known wartime leaders were sent to the Senate for promotion to the same permanent rank.

The nominees include six who were full generals under temporary wartime ranking: Courtney Hicks Hodges, Jacob Loucks Devers, George Churchill Kenney, Carl Spaatz, Thomas Troy Handy and Clark.

Four others were temporary lieutenant generals: Ira Clarence Eaker, Robert Lawrence Eichelberger, Walter Bedell Smith and Robert Charlwood Richardson Jr.

Maj. Gen. Thomas Bernard Larkin was nominated to that rank permanently and for appointment as quartermaster general. He would serve a four-year period, succeeding Lt. Gen. Edmund B. Gregory.

Brig. Gen. Thomas Jefferson Davis was nominated for that rank permanently and as assistant to the quartermaster general for four years.

Truman promoted 23 temporary lieutenant generals and three major generals to the permanent rank of brigadier general.

Nominated to be a permanent brigadier general, Air Forces Reserve, was James H. Doolittle.

Clark was criticized in a resolution adopted Saturday at Brownwood, Tex., by members of the Thirty-sixth Division Association. The resolution called for congressional investigation of the Rapido river crossing in January 1944, in which heavy losses were suffered. A War Department spokesman defended the engagement as diversionary to permit the Anzio beachhead assault.

Senate Hacks at Powers Of Governor Over Revenue

the movement for retention by the Senate of control over the division heads.

The first step was to deprive the director o the power to appoint the State Revenue Collector, head of the Division of Collection, by placing the power directly in the Governor, but subject to the approval of the Senate. He followed that up with similar amendments affecting the selection of the Comptroller, head of the Division of Comptroller and Budget, and the selection of the State Purchasing Agent, head of the Division of Procurement.

Evasion of Charter Intent.

This procedure was followed by an evasion of the Constitutional Convention decision to strip the State Auditor, State Treasurer and Secretary of State of the extensive authority they had wheedled out of Legislatures through the last 40 years, and limit them strictly to the duties specifically contemplated by the titles of their offices. The Constitution directly prohibited the Legislature from giving them any other duties.

Senator Edward V. Long of Bowling Green led this phase of the sabotage scheme, first attempting to eliminate the Director of Revenue as a member of the Board of Fund Commissioners, and substituting the State Auditor and State Treasurer to serve with the Governor and Attorney General on the Board. The question of the constitutionality of this procedure was raised by Senator Arnold Leonard of Joplin, who handled the bill on the floor, but Leonard finally agreed to the inclusion of the Auditor and Treasurer providing the Director was retained.

Long next attempted to have the Secretary of State substituted for the Director on the Board of Public Buildings, but Senator Jasper Smith of Springfield informed him this was clearly unconstitutional. Determined to prevent an appointee of the Governor from serving, Long finally hit on the idea of substituting the Lieutenant Governor, an elective official, for the director.

Leonard, obviously willing to go a long way toward compromises which would hold down opposition to the bill, offered no objection to this amendment and it was adopted. The Senator from Bowling Green failed in an attempt to eliminate a provision denying any person the right to refuse to testify or produce his records for the Tax Collector on the ground that the evidence might tend to incriminate him, but provided that evidence thus obtained could not be used against the taxpayer in any criminal procedure.

Adoption of Long's amendment would have tied the hands of the Collector in ascertaining the correctness of tax returns for the income tax, sales tax and other taxes.

Change in Printing System.

A major feature of the bill was a complete change in the system of awarding contracts for the State's printing, which costs the State in excess of $300,000 annually.

Under the present law, which has been in existence 75 years, all the printing is let under one contract. Under it, one printing firm in Jefferson City has had a monopoly on the business during practically all the time the law has been in effect.

The subcommittee had before it reports that the cost of the printing was excessive, and included a provision in the bill under which the State Purchasing Agent would let each job of printing under a separate contract, for which there would be advertisements for bids.

Any change from the present law was opposed by Long and Senator C. R. Hawkins of Brumley. Senator W. H. Robinett of Mountain Grove, supporting the change provided in the bill, described Hawkins' amendment to retain the old one-contract system, as "a gravy train amendment."

"Of all the fat hogs fed at the public trough," Robinett said, "the one hog which has waxed fattest is the printing monopoly here in Jefferson City." He twitted Hawkins as the Representative of the district "in which the sty of this hog is located," and twitted Long as the Senator who would represent the district under the new senatorial districting. Hawkins' amendment was defeated and this feature of the bill retained as it was recommended by the committee.

Perfection of the revenue bill is considered the most important piece of legislation to have been materially advanced toward passage in this session, much other legislation being dependent on it.

While the amendments adopted were in some instances the result of personal antagonism toward Gov. Phil M. Donnelly, in others the result of antagonism toward the new Constitution and in others a petty desire of senators to hold a whip hand over the Governor, the bill as perfected is a workable measure. It is not as good a bill as that reported by the committee, but it sets up an administrative department which promises much greater efficiency and economy than has been known in the state.

The bill will be on the calendar for passage within a few days, as soon as the clerical force can incorporate the 30 amendments in it.

SOCIALIST GOUIN NAMED INTERIM FRENCH PRESIDENT

cret Socialist caucuses which decided to oppose voting plenary powers to the Vichy Government after the fall of France. In the Riom trials of 1942, he was one of the attorneys for Leon Blum, former premier and head of the Socialist party.

He served as president of the Consultative Assembly from its formation until the elections of last October which brought into existence the Constituent Assembly. His selection as president of that body was by unanimous vote.

Gen. De Gaulle, it was reported, may go to aCnada next week for a vacation of indefinite length.

Opposition to the present draft of the proposed new constitution for France, which calls for an all-powerful unicameral legislative system, and a figurehead French president, was one of the causes of De Gaulle's resignation. He also objected to proposed cuts in funds for the military establishment.

POSSIBLE STRATEGY OF COMMUNISTS

By PAUL GHALI

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1946.

PARIS, Jan. 23.—The three-party agreement to approve Socialist Felix Gouin as France's new President was viewed here today as a Communist party victory.

Many thoughtful Frenchmen looked on it merely as a transitional expedient.

Informed sources pointed out that the Communists had achieved a major step toward power and secured an even firmer position before the French electorate.

The Socialists and Popular Republicans, apparently, fell into a Communist trap. From the beginning of the crisis, opened by the dramatic and sudden resignation of President Charles de Gaulle, it was clear that the Communists dreaded taking over the government at such a critical stage. Their policy consisted mainly of shifting the responsibility of the dire present on to some weak personality whose strings they would be able to pull from the wings.

The new French Government, which will remain composed of three antagonistic parties just about equally powerful numerically, is bound to be confronted by the same difficulties and political jealousies that beset De Gaulle.

It will be handicapped by a major difference which the Communists have shrewdly and fully weighed. Instead of solid, popular and symbolic De Gaulle, the country's leader will be the weak, uncertain and virtually unknown Gouin. To overthrow him at the strategic time should be comparatively easy, and the Communists, no doubt, have already given much thought to this possibility.

The Communist newspaper, Humanite, took full credit this morning for the Communist-inspired solution of the crisis.

"France," said the paper, "needs a president who would appear above and outside all parties. The Communists, who have kept firmly to this line, have shown themselves perspicacious defenders of universal suffrage and the country will feel grateful to them."

Many Frenchmen, conscious of the danger, already are warning Gouin of the precipice opening under his feet. The conservative newspaper Le Figaro called on him today to consider his leadership as purely transitional and intended to speed the completion of a new constitution. It urged him to hold new elections promptly. Figaro doubtless hopes that quick elections may forestall the Communist plans.

COMMUNIST PLOT TO DISRUPT ARMY IS CHARGED IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Representative Dondero (Rep.), Michigan, told the House yesterday that there was "a shrewd and well-organized Communist conspiracy" seeking to "disintegrate our armed forces, to paralyze our foreign policy and further the interests of Soviet aggression throughout the world."

He said the "probable facts" were that G.I. demonstrations in Honolulu had been led by men with Communist records; that "Communist - dominated unions" supported demands for faster demobilization; and that demands presented by a G.I. committee in Paris "is fully in line with the program drawn for Communists in all countries by the Communist Internationale. . . . in 1928."

He charged that the Labor Canteen in Honolulu was a "hotbed of Communist propaganda" and was headed by Ewart G. Guinier, "a well known New York Communist."

In Honolulu, Guinier, a warrant officer, denied he either headed the canteen or was a Communist Robert K. Mookini Jr., chairman of the canteen, called Dondero's charges of Communist activity "bald-faced lies."

completely owned by the holders of its 604,630 policies and certificates

GENERAL AMERICAN LIFE

INSURANCE COMPANY, ST. LOUIS

In June 1936, the General American Life Insurance Company set mutualization—the transfer of ownership from stockholders to policyholders—as its goal. . . . On January 15, 1946,—less than 10 years later—the complete ownership of the Company by its policyholders became an accomplished fact. This wholesome transition was made possible by devoting three million four hundred and ninety-four thousand dollars from earnings for the retirement of stock,—dollars which otherwise would have been available for dividends to stockholders. . . . From this day on, our policyholders will not only receive the financial protection of their insurance; but they will also be the sole owners of the Company, sole beneficiaries of its assets and earnings, and sole arbiters of its destiny.

EX-CONVICT HIRES LEGISLATOR AS LAWYER, GETS TRIAL DELAY

Harvey Miller, former convict, obtained a continuance of his trial on burglary and larceny charges set for today by employing as counsel Frank Mashak, a member of the State Legislature who entered his appearance and sought the continuance.

As the Legislature is in session, Circuit Judge David J. Murphy had no choice under the law except to continue the case until the Legislature adjourns or holds a recess in which Mashak will have 30 days in which to try the case.

Mashak's entry of appearance followed withdrawal of Morris Shenker last Monday when Judge Murphy gave the case a peremptory setting for today. The charges against Miller grew out of theft of a safe containing $5400 last September from the Norside Theater, Grand boulevard and Natural Bridge avenue. Assistant Circuit Attorney Patrick J. Cavanaugh, in charge of the state's case, termed the move the "usual dilatory tactics to avoid trial."

FAILURE OF ARMY INTELLIGENCE MEN CHARGED BY SHORT

General Cites Message to Show They Did Not Believe Break With Japan Was Near.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short gave congressional investigators today evidence which he said showed that two days before Pearl Harbor the chief of Army intelligence did not believe an open split with Japan was near.

The 1941 chief of intelligence was Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles.

Gen. Short, Army commander at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese struck Dec. 7, 1941, read into the record of the Senate-House inquiry this message which he said Miles sent to Panama Dec. 5, 1941:

"United States-Japanese relations strained. Will inform you if and when severance of diplomatic relations are imminent."

The message caused a stir among members of the Senate-House investigating committee. Senator Lucas (Dem.), Illinois, told reporters he thought it was "one of the most important developments yet."

Senator Ferguson (Rep.), Michigan, said it was important in the inquiry to have messages Washington sent to other places than Hawaii. He said the message in question would have been most important in the cross-examination of Miles, who has been a witness.

Gen. Short also handed another document to the committee. It was an extract from testimony by Maj. Gen. Hayes A. Kroner, 1941 chief of the intelligence branch under Gen. Miles, at a previous investigation of Pearl Harbor.

This showed Kroner testified Sept. 13, 1944, that in preparing estimates of the world military situation he did not have the benefit of intercepted Japanese messages.

He said an estimate which he and Col. Thomas J. Betts prepared on Nov. 29, 1941, contained no mention of a possible attack on Pearl Harbor. Kroner added:

"From my point of view, I feel that Japan's potential capability against Pearl Harbor was left from this estimate because neither Col. Betts nor I had any information which would lead us to believe that they were capable of or planned to do so."

Short told the committee that he also lacked access to the secret messages and that Kroner and Betts, as did he, arrived at the conclusion there would be no air attack on Pearl Harbor.

Kroner left out the possibility of an attack on Pearl Harbor, Gen. Short said, because he did not have the intercepted Japanese messages. It was not left out, he said, "because as Gen. Miles said, it was 'too obvious'."

Later, in an executive session, the committee voted to try to shorten the hearing by dispensing with oral testimony by members of he staffs of Gen. Short and R. Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, the 1941 commander of the Pacific fleet.

Chairman Barkley said counsel for Short and Kimmel agreed. There are some 15 to 20 witnesses involved.

SENATORS URGE QUICK RETURN TO VOLUNTEER ARMY

asigned essential tasks or be discharged at once.

"6. An enlistment campaign for Wacs to be used in separation centers to replace men should be instituted at once and prosecuted vigorously.

"7. The enlistment of Philippine Scouts to replace American soldiers should be pushed more effectively.

"8. Civilian personnel should be employed abroad and at home insofar as possible to replace men now in uniform engaged in the so-called army housekeeping jobs.

"9. In the opinion of your subcommittee, the Senate Military Affairs Committee should review these recommendations in a conference with Kenneth C. Royall, Acting Secretary of War, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Chief of Staff, and Gen. Willard S. Paul, director of army personnel, and ascertain from them the extent to which they will be carried out."

A separation order issued by Gen. Jacob L. Devers, chief of the Army ground forces, will result in release of 115,000 men and officers, most of them during February, the Army announced. No overseas troops are involved.

The order affects two Army groups in this country. The first includes enlisted men with 45 points and officers with 67 points as of last Sept. 2 and enlisted men with 30 months' service and officers with 45 months as of April 30, 1946. Devers ordered installations to begin discharging the first group, consisting of about 80,000 men, "at once" and the Army said this was being done.

The second group is made up of men with 40 points and officers with 65, and enlisted men with two years' service and officers with 42 months as of next June 30. About 35,000 are in this second group. Most of these will be discharged in May, the Army said.

The Army said that AGF men who had less than 40 points as of last Sept. 2 or who would not have completed 24 months service by next June 30 would not be discharged under the order because they would be needed for the 1,500,000-man interim Army. Future plans for discharge of these men after July 1, "will depend on the number of new men entering the Army through induction or enlistment," the AGF said.

Army Air Forces have issued a directive providing for immediate release of their enlisted men who have 44 points or have completed 36 months of service by April 30. No estimate of the number involved was given.

Discharge of enlisted men in five categories are divided as follows: Effective Feb. 1, men with 44 points or 33 months' service as of April 30; effective March 1, men with 44 points or 30 months' service by April 30; effective April 1, 44 points or 28 months' service by April 30; effective May 1, 42 points or 26 months' service by June 30; effective June 1, 40 points or 24 months' service as of June 30.

The Navy's point cut applied to both men and women. Effective dates are March 15 and April 2.

In general, the reductions will be at the rate of one point on each date for male personnel, including doctors. Point scores for Waves and nurses generally will continue at previously-announced March 2 levels until April 2, when they will drop one point.

The new minimum scores—expected to make an additional 14,700 officers and 176,400 enlisted men and women eligible for discharge—for the major classes affected:

Enlisted men: March 2—32 points; March 15—31; April 2—30.

Male officers: March 2—39; March 15—38; April 2—37.

Enlisted women: March 2—21; March 15—21; April 2—20.

Women officers: March 2—27; March 15—27; April 2—26.

Male doctors—March 2—49; March 15—48; April 2—47.

FORRESTAL URGES CHANGES IN BILL ON ATOM CONTROL

He Proposes 8-Man Committee Headed by Vice President, With 4 $20,000-a-Year Members.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Forrestal recommended sweeping basic changes today in the domestic atomic energy control bill proposed by Senator McMahon (Dem.), Connecticut.

Testifying before the special Senate Atomic Committee, of which McMahon is chairman, Forrestal said the navy department "concurs in the over-all purpose of the bill" but finds it "unsatisfactory" in several features.

Instead of the five-member, full-time control commission proposed by McMahon, Forrestal advocated an eight-member body headed by the Vice President, with the Secretaries of State, War and Navy also serving as ex-officio members. In addition, there would be four full-time members appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate for six-year terms at $20,000 a year. They would be subject to removal only by impeachment.

Forrestal said that if members served at the pleasure of the President, as under McMahon's plan, they "could not retain the necessary independence." He predicted that outstanding scientists would decline to serve under such conditions.

Other faults Forrestal found with the draft included:

1. The bill does not provide for an executive officer or administrator.

2. No mandatory liaison is provided between the commission and the State, War and Navy Departments, and the commission would have no specific responsibility for the national defense, although it would be "the sole development agency of the atomic weapon."

3. Fissionable materials would be required to be distributed to any applicant who is equipped and observes safety standards, regardless of the national interest, Forrestal contended.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes recommended a single administrator, appointed by the President and responsible to a committee of Cabinet officers. As second choice, he favored a nine-member board, "including five or six heads of departments and four or three independent members."

Ickes noted that the Government had seen some vast technological changes in the past but had found it unnecessary to set up special departments of steam or electricity. However, he did not deny the need for governmental controls over fissionable materials.

"If the push of a button can destroy a city, no nation can afford to leave the button in private hands," he said.

Ickes reached back to the ancient Chinese for ap roverb, "The first result of a war is that the adversaries exchange vices."

"I hope," he said, "that the first result of our victory is not going to be an imitation of the Japanese system in which the military controlled industry, Government and science."

"Straight" trucks—$38.40, one-half to two tons; $42.90, two to five tons; $45.70, five to seven and one-half tons, and $47.90, seven and one-half tons and over; "tractors"—$42.90, two to five tons; $45.70, five to seven and one-half tons, and $47.90, seven and one-half tons and over.

Winch truck drivers receive 15 cents an hour over the hourly rate under the old contract, and helpers receive $38.40 a week.

The new offer also provides for two-week paid vacations for employes with five consecutive years of service with the same employer, with pay fixed at $41.40 for helpers and $48 for chauffeurs. Employes with one year's service with the same employer will be entitled to a one-week paid vacation.

Other benefits listed by the committee included: Work day starting at 8:30 a.m. with one hour for lunch after four and before five hours of work; employes receiving higher pay than the new scales will continue at the higher rate; a driver who notifies his employer when reporting for duty that he does not desire to work overtime shall not be required to work more than eight hours.

An employe who reports for work and is not needed, if not so notified the preceding day, will receive four hours' pay; the employer will furnish the steward of each garage a seniority list once a year.

The East St. Louis Journal transferred publication today to the plant of the Livestock Reporter, daily publication of the National Stockyards, when striking truck drivers refused further deliveries of newsprint. Paper normally is trucked from freight cars to the newspaper office and although the truck drivers twice previously permitted deliveries, they refused to haul paper yesterday.

G.O.P. MANEUVER TO SHUT OFF FEPC DEBATE AGREED ON

Republicans to Attempt to Invoke Cloture to End Filibuster by Southern Democrats.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Senate Republicans indicated today they had agreed to seek a limitation of debate on the Fair Employment Practices Committee bill on which Southern Democrats have filibustered since last Thursday.

"It is generally believed that steps should be taken before long to obtain cloture (that is debate limitation)," Senator White of Maine, Republican leader, told reporters after a closed-door strategy session of fellow party members that lasted nearly two hours.

Other Republicans said a cloture petition will be started, probably later this week. Such a petition requires signatures of 16 Senators to be presented for action. Actual limitation of debate would require a two-thirds majority, or 64 Senators if all members were present and voting.

"We discussed everything," White said when asked about suggestions for continuous sessions day and night. "But we'll probably go along about as we have for a while."

Several Republicans said there were sharp difference of opinion at the party conference. A subcommittee headed by Senator Taft, Ohio, and including Senators Morse, Oregon, Wherry, Nebraska, Donnell, Missouri and Ball, Minnesota, outlined a program on the FEPC filibuster last night but this was reported to have been rejected. The nature of this program was not disclosed.

Since last Thursday the Senate has been debating correction of the official journal on that day. Democrats contend this type of debate cannot be shut off even by cloture.

"Was I WRONG, back in 1945!"

1. "It's ten years since World War II, and plenty of water's gone under the bridge. I worked in a chemical plant all through the war, and worked hard. But I made more money then than I ever made before.

2. "We needed a lot of things in those days, but many of them were scarce and some of them cost more than they were worth. We figured we'd get better values after the war. So we saved our extra money.

3. "Once we started saving, it was sort of fun! That was our big chance to build up a backlog. It felt good to have all those War Bonds, and a nice savings account, and some more life insurance tucked away.

4. "When they started making civilian goods again, right after the war, a lot of people rushed out to buy. We were tempted, but we took it easy—at first. Then we weakened—and before long we were in over our heads.

5. "It didn't take long for our savings to melt away. If we'd used them sensibly, we could have got what we needed after things were plentiful again—and we'd still have a nest egg today. Was I WRONG, back in 1945!"

. . . to cooperate with our government in preserving the financial health of the nation

BUT IT IS STILL NOT TOO LATE. If we use our savings wisely now we can help to avoid inflationary price increases . . . and at the same time maintain backlogs for the kind of future we all desire. If we spend our money carelessly now, we may look back some day with regret.

During the war, millions of Americans saved to protect their families, to educate their children, to start a business of their own, to own their own home, to retire. Today they are still following the advice of our Government, buying only what they really need until civilian goods are plentiful; buying and holding on to Government Bonds and life insurance, and maintaining their savings accounts. Are you one of them?

MOTHER DIES, FOURTH VICTIM OF FIRE THAT RAZED HOME

Mrs. Irvin Moss, whose three children were burned to death Monday night when fire destroyed their home on the outskirts of De Soto, Mo., died today at Barnes Hospital. Her husband is in a serious condition.

The parents were burned when they carried their 7-week-old son, Howard, to safety after their three other children were trapped by flames. Mrs. Moss was 24 years old. Her husband, a concrete-block worker, is 29.

The baby suffered less severe burns and is being cared for at De Soto. The fire started when a glass jar of gasoline broke after Moss had placed it near a stove, it was reported.

A Letter to the President of the United States

Hon. Harry S. Truman
President of the United States
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

Your proposal to me in Washington last evening that the wage demand of the United Steelworkers of America-CIO be settled on the basis of a wage increase of 18½ cents an hour, retroactive to January 1, 1946, cannot, I regret to say, be accepted by the United States Steel Corporation for the reasons set forth below.

As you must be aware, your proposal is almost equivalent to granting in full the Union's revised demand of a wage increase of 19½ cents an hour, which was advanced by Philip Murray, the President of the Union, at our collective bargaining conference with the Union in New York a week ago today. In our opinion, there is no just basis from any point of view for a wage increase to our steel workers of the large size you have proposed, which, if put into effect, is certain to result in great financial harm not only to this Corporation but also to users of steel in general.

As I have tried to make clear to you and other Government officials during our conferences in Washington over the past few days, there is a limit in the extent to which the Union wage demands can be met by us. We reached that limit when we raised our offer to the Union last Friday from a wage increase of 12½ cents an hour to one of 15 cents an hour. This would constitute the highest single wage increase ever made by our steel-making subsidiaries. Our offer of 15 cents was equivalent to meeting 60% of the Union's original excessive demand of a $2 a day general wage increase. Our offer met 75% of the Union's final proposal of a wage increase of 19½ cents an hour. A wage increase of 15 cents an hour, such as we offered, would increase the direct labor costs of our manufacturing subsidiaries by approximately $60,000,000 a year. That is a most substantial sum, and does not take into account the higher costs we shall have to pay for purchased goods and services, when large wage increases generally become effective throughout American industry, as is inevitable after a substantial increase in steel wages.

As you know, collective bargaining negotiations with the Union broke down at the White House yesterday afternoon, because Mr. Murray then refused to budge from his position that a country-wide steel strike must take place, unless steel workers are granted a general wage incrase of 19½ cents an hour. Our offer of a wage increase of 15 cents an hour was again rejected by the Union.

The Union threatened to go ahead with its program for a national steel strike at midnight next Sunday, although such a strike will be a clear violation of the no-strike provision contained in our labor contracts with the Union, which continue by their terms until October 15, 1946.

From the outset, we have recognized how injurious a steel strike will be to reconversion and to the economy of this whole country. Most industries are dependent upon a supply of steel for their continued operations. We have done everything reasonably within our power to avert such a strike. If a strike occurs, the responsibility rests with the Union.

When the Government at the eleventh hour informed us about a week ago of its willingness to sanction an increase in steel ceiling prices, we at once resumed collective bargaining negotiations with the Union. Such price action by the Government was a recognition by it of the right of the steel industry to receive price relief because of past heavy increases in costs, somthing which the steel industry for many months has unsuccessfully sought to establish with OPA.

I should like again to point out some pertinent facts relative to the wages of our steel workers.

Since January, 1941, the average straight-time hourly pay, without overtime, of our steel workers has increased more than the 33% increase in the cost of living during that period, recently computed by Government authorities. Steel workers' wages have kept pace with increased living costs. Such average straight-time pay in our steel-producing subsidiaries was $1.14 an hour in each of the months of September, October and November, 1945, excluding any overtime premium and any amount for correction of possible wage inequities. An increase of 15 cents, in accordance with our offer, would raise such average straight-time pay to $1.29 an hour, placing such pay among the highest today in all of American industry.

Under our offer of a 15 cent increase, the average weekly take-home pay of our steel workers for a forty-hour week would amount to $51.60, assuming that no overtime is involved. This figure is only $4.54 less than the actual average weekly earnings of these employees, including overtime, in the last full war year of 1944, when the average work week was 46.1 hours. The difference is really less, because we will undoubtedly continue to have overtime in the future, just as we have at the present time. In November, 1945, overtime premiums to our steel workers aggregated more than $1,300,000. Such reduction of $4.54 in weekly take-home pay is the natural consequence of a shorter work week of forty hours, and therefore one of lower production.

Much as we desire to avoid a steel strike, we cannot overlook the effect both on this Corporation and on our customers and American business in general, of the 18½ cent an hour wage increase, which you have proposed. Such a wage increase must result in higher prices for steel than have previously been proposed to us by the Government. Great financial harm would soon follow for all users of steel who would be obliged to pay higher prices for their steel, higher wages to their employees, and still have the prices for their own products subject to OPA control. Such a high and unjustified wage scale might well spell financial disaster for many of the smaller steel companies and for a large number of steel fabricators and processors. The nation needs the output of these companies. Increased wages and increased prices which force companies out of business can only result in irreparable damage to the American people.

In our judgment, it is distinctly in the public interest to take into account the injurious effect upon American industry of an unjustified wage increase in the steel industry.

After a full and careful consideration of your proposal, we have reached the conclusion above stated.

Respectfully yours,

Benjamin F. Fairless,
President, United States Steel Corporation.

STEEL PLANT PUTS FINANCIAL REPORT BEFORE STRIKERS

Granite City Firm Says Rising Costs, OPA Ceilings Caused Loss in Last Half of 1945.

The Granite City Steel Co. is unable to pay higher wages under present OPA ceiling prices, Hayward Niedringhaus, president of the company, said today in a statement to 1700 striking employes who are seeking an increase of 25 cents an hour.

Discussing charges that the steel industry accumulated "excessive and hidden" profits as a result of war production, Niedringhaus told his employes, "I am appealing to your intelligence to say whether this company's profits have been excessive and hidden."

While the company had prospered, Niedringhaus said, reserve funds were set aside by its stockholders to replace worn-out equipment. "There is nothing hidden about these funds, they are clearly shown in all published annual statements," he pointed out.

10-Year Review.

Reviewing the company's financial situation for the last 10 years, the statement accounted for $10,800,000 in reserve funds spent to modernize the Granite City plant, which had become obsolete. Total sales during the period amounted to $146,100,000, on which the profit was $2,800,000, or approximately 2 per cent. "Is that an excessive profit?" Niedringhaus asked.

Wages and salaries during the 10-year period amounted to $44,300,000, or 30 per cent of gross sales, while dividends during the period totaled $1,700,000 to 2300 stockholders, the statement added. The average annual earnings of employes was $2000, while the average received yearly by stockholders was $74, Niedringhaus said.

Since the start of the war, labor and material costs of the Granite City Steel Co. have risen $4,000,000 a year, and last year the company had to absorb 90 per cent of the increased cost because OPA limitations kept the revenue increase to $400,000, the statement asserted. The company lost $77,000 during the third quarter of the year, showed a loss during the fourth quarter and, as a result, stockholders received no year-end dividend, it was explained.

35 Pct. Rise in Wages.

Straight-time hourly wages have increased 35 per cent since January 1941, keeping pace with the Government-estimated rise in living costs, it was stated. "Any further increase in wages must be offset by an additional increase in prices," the statement asserted.

Niedringhaus concluded his statement with the following question to his striking workers: "If you were a stockholder in a company that was losing money, would you grant an increase in wages without an adequate increase in prices?"

In a letter to stockholders Dec. 5, announcing that there would be no year-end dividend, Niedringhaus declared that the steel industry was losing money at current rates of operation because prices are out of balance. Prices on volume items are below 1937, the letter stated, while the company has been forced to absorb approximately $3,600,000 in annual increased costs on yearly sales of about $20,000,000. In contrast to this situation, the letter recalled that the Granite City Steel Co. was one of the few steel plants in the country able to operate at a profit during the depression.

Does Wrecking on Side.

DALLAS—A city garbage truck knocked down a small garage. When the driver tried to explain, the owner interrupted with: "We were going to tear it down anyway, you have saved us some work."

Unwelcome Gift.

SEATTLE—The weekly gift of a Seattle civic club for its guest from the most distant city was a bottle of distilled spirits. At first, the leading—but unwilling—contestant for the prize was a man who reluctantly introduced himself as the Rev. Joel Harper from Spokane, Wash. To the relief of the minister, it developed that the club also was being visited by a man from Jefferson City, Mo.

Icy Remarks.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—The guests at a dinner given by Mayor John J. McDonough were politicians, all ready to orate on the municipal election campaign. But the speeches were short. Mayor McDonough limited each speaker to the length of time he would—or could—hold a 25-pound cake of ice in his bare hands.

VINSON APPOINTED AS U. S. GOVERNOR FOR WORLD BANK

Nominated for Same Post in Monetary Fund Management — Will Stay in Cabinet.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Vinson was nominated by President Truman today to be United States governor of the international monetary fund and of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development for a five-year term.

Vinson, in this new post, would retain his cabinet position.

The appointment is the principal one to be made for the United States under the Bretton Woods plan for stabilization of international currencies and reconstruction of war-torn areas.

Harry D. White of Maryland, assistant Secretary of the Treasury, was nominated to be United States executive director of the international monetary fund for a term of two years.

Emilio G. Collado of New York, now attached to the State Department, was nominated to be United States executive director of the International Bank for a term of two years.

William L. Clayton of Texas, Assistant Secretary of State, was nominated United States alternate governor of the monetary fund and bank for a term of five years.

The President nominated Horace Chapman Rose of Ohio to be director of contract settlement to succeed Robert H. Hinckley, who resigned Jan. 19, effective Feb. 1. Hinckley will become vice president and director of the American Broadcasting Co. with headquarters at New York.

Rose now is deputy director of contract settlement. He will serve as director until that office is merged with the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion.

April 30 Last Date for Filing.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Attorney General said yesterday the last filing day for the August primary is April 30.

DROPPING OF BUSSES ON PART OF WATSON ROAD IS OPPOSED

A resolution opposing a part of a recent traffic relief plan which would eliminate Chippewa bus service on 13 blocks of Watson road has been adopted by the Watson-Chippewa Business Association, it was announced today. Copies have been sent to Mayor A. P. Kaufmann, the City Plan Commission and the Board of Aldermen.

The plan, a tentative one prepared by the streets and traffic committee of the City Plan Commission, would change the present terminus of the Chippewa bus line from its present location at Watson road and Southwest avenue to Watson road and Jamieson avenue. The result, the association said, would be to leave a 13-block stretch of Watson road between Chippewa and Scanlan avenue without service.

Mayor Kaufmann submitted the plan to the Public Service Co. and to various public and civic bodies for study last November, but no recommendations have been received from them. Principal feature of the plan is removal of all streetcars from Washington avenue and reduction of the number of busses using the street during the rush hour from 152 to 115.

for a Better Land to Live In

It's on the way . . . a bright and busy future for this "Land We Live In." There'll be more industries, more jobs, more homes, more business, more modern farms . . . and a greater demand for the benefits of electricity than ever.

To be ready to meet that demand ahead of time, your Union Electric Company has already started work on a five year program that calls for $45,000,000.00 in huge new generators . . . in more miles of transmission and distribution lines . . . in modern new substations . . . and in all the wide array of tools and equipment that it takes to bring you all the power you need, when and where you need it. That's Union Electric's job in the great, over-all task of making this a better land to live in. In the pictures below you see some of the ways $45,000,000.00 will be invested to fill that job.

$10,000,000.00 is being invested to install a new turbo-generator unit at the Venice power plant that will increase the capacity of this, Union Electric's newest plant, by 50%. Work has already started on this key project.

$3,000,000.00 will be spent for new boilers alone as part of a modernization program at Union Electric's pioneer Ashley Street power plant. Each new boiler will have a capacity of 300,000 pounds of steam an hour.

More Light—More Sales! And whenever purchasing power is stimulated, everybody prospers. That's why commercial establishments that are well lighted, inside and out, contribute to the welfare of the entire community.

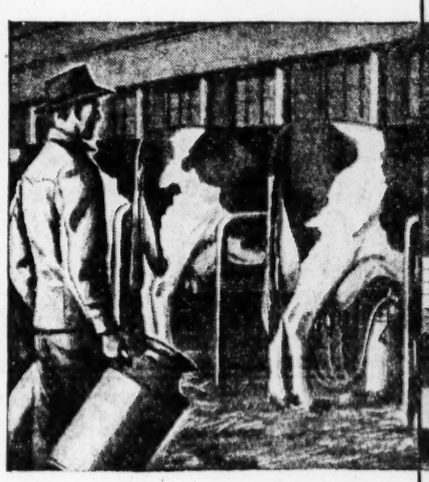

Added Hours of Leisure—that's the housewife's bonus as she uses more and more electrical appliances in the home. In the kitchen alone, electricity cooks, mixes, refrigerates, ventilates, and "does the dishes"... better, easier, faster.

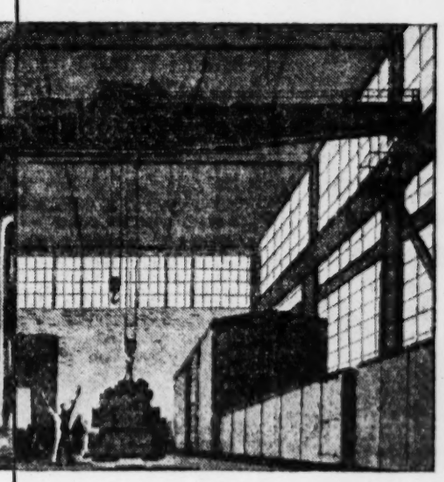

Over $2,000,000.00 has been ear-marked for fly-ash precipitators on the big stacks at Cahokia. Work has already been completed on one stack and equipment ordered for a second. A difficult project, this will take four years.

$20,000,000.00 is the estimated cost of the miles of transmission and distribution lines and new substations that will be required to bring you the benefits of increased generating capacity at the Venice and Ashley Street plants.

On the Farm, electricity is the "hired help" that's always ready to do the daily chores. It powers electric milkers, water systems, portable tools, hay balers. In the farm home, it provides every convenience of the city.

In the Shop electricity lends a powerful helping hand, too, saving endless hours of toil, and performing amazing feats of strength. Without a plentiful supply of electricity, the miracles of mass production would be impossible.

Love Stories Head Week's New Films

"MY REPUTATION," starring Barbara Stanwycky as a widow who "wants to live" and takes "daring" paths to her goal, opens today at the Ambassador. George Brent plays the man she loves. The movie is from the book, "Instruct My Sorrows," by Clare Janyes. Lucile Watson and Eve Arden have parts

"Pursuit to Algiers," a Sir Arthur Conan Doyle-based story, with Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce, is the second feature.

"Spellbound,' with Ingrid Bergman and Gregory Peck, opens tomorrow at Loew's State Theater. Ingrid plays a doctor who tries to cure Peck, suspected of a murder, of amnesia. The two find themselves in love. The screenplay's by Ben Hecht. Alfred Hitchcock directed. Short subjects round out the program.

"Club Havana," with Tom Neal and Margaret Lindsay, is a comedy-mystery film now at the St. Louis. Second attraction is "How Do You Do?" with "The Mad Russian," Bert Gordon.

"San Antonio," Errol Flynn, is a last-minute holdover at the Fox, with "Danger Signal," Faye Emerson. "The Lost Weekend," Ray Milland scheduled to have begun Tuesday, is held back a week.

"Confidential Agent," Charles Boyer, and "Pardon My Past," Fred MacMurray, open today at the Missouri. "Vacation From Marriage," Robert Donat, and "She Went to the Races," James Craig, opens tomorrow at the Orpheum. "The Spanish Main," Paul Henreid, is now at the Shubert.

"The Informer," Victor McLaglen, continues at the Art Theater, 3143 Olive street, through Friday night. "The Baker's Wife," with Raimu, comes in Saturday.

MUCKERMAN ON M.-K.-T. BOARD

Richard C. Muckerman, St. Louis ice manufacturer and president of the St. Louis Browns baseball team, was elected to the board of directors of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas (Katy) Railroad System yesterday. He succeeds Francis F. Randolph of New York City, who resigned.

Also elected directors were William J. Morris, president of the Continental Supply Co., Dallas, Tex., to succeed Lewis E. Pierson, New York; and William N. Thorton, vice-president and general manager of the Longhorn Portland Cement Co., San Antonio, Tex., to replace Frank K. Houston of New York.

What kind of a job would you like?

One of the most interesting jobs we can think of is that of a telephone operator. It's clean, pleasant, and permanent. Opportunities for advancement are attractive, too.

Experience isn't necessary because skilled instructors teach you as you go along. Pay, of course, begins at once. If you'd like to find out more about telephone operating, why not see Miss Carter at 1010 Pine St., Room 1404? She'll be glad to help you.

"Guess they'll enjoy sitting by the fire, too"

A COZY fireplace is nice, but we think you'll purr with satisfaction over a Calvert Highball no matter where you enjoy it.

You see, Calvert is a pre-war whiskey that's definitely the real thing...so mellow and smooth it just can't be duplicated.

Which explains why, year in and year out, Calvert is reported "the whiskey most often asked for by name." If your plans for tonight include a friendly sip or two ...why not make it a Calvert Highball? But be sure it's Calvert ... if you want the real thing!

Revision of Tax Refund Law Demanded by CIO

mainder at smaller fabricating plants.

Nearly a third of those at work are independent union members employed by Weirton Steel Corp. at plants in Weirton, W. Va., and Steubenville, O. Many of the others are under union-management agreements providing wage increases ranging from 7 to 25 cents an hour. Some include provisions for readjustment to the national scale whenever it is determined.

For the largest single strike in the nation's history, only token picket lines marched before steel mill gates. The announced Bethlehem Steel Co. policy of no attempt to operate during the strike seemed to have been adopted generally.

Gradually the strike was clamping a throttling hand on allied industries. Railroad workers were being furloughed by many lines serving steel mills. Milk deliveries in metropolitan New York were reduced one-eighth because of a shortage of containers caused by the walkout and picketing of American Can Co. plants. A similar milk shortage was reported at San Diego, Calif.

52 Coal Mines Close.

More than 45 coal mines in West Virginia and Pennsylvania closed down today as a result of the steel strike and other work stoppages. Idle miners in these states and Alabama exceeded 14,000. Altogether, at least 52 mines were closed.

In West Virginia about 40 mines stopped operations. Among them was the Barrackville pit of the Bethlehem Steel Co. Employing 1000 miners, it is the largest single producer in the state.

Officials of the Baltimore & Ohio, Western Maryland and Monongahela Railroads attributed the closings to a tie-up of railroad cars. Cars taking coal to steel and other strike-bound plants had not been returned, they said, but were standing fully loaded on the plants' sidetracks.

In the southwestern Pennsylvania field five captive mines closed. Three are owned by Republic Steel, one each by United States Steel and Crucible Steel.

Steel shortages caused the layoff of 500 men building cars at the Illinois Central Railroad terminal in Memphis, Tenn. Green Bay (Wis.) Drop Forge Co. shut down, blaming a steel shortage and the loss of markets due to other strikes.

Murray met today with the USW-CIO executive meeting, and this afternoon he will meet with the 175-member policy committee. He described the meetings as formal reviews of his pre-strike steel negotiations, which he said have been approved by the union's United States Steel negotiating committee.

Murray's letter to Vinson, made public by Murray at a press conference last night, declared that the steel industry will receive $200,000,000 in rebates under the 10 per cent refund provision of the excess profits tax. He added the industry will get another $149,000,000 from "carry-back" tax provisions "secretly slipped through Congress" if it fails to make any net profit in 1946.

This latter $149,000,000, Murray said, represents "guaranteed profits 29 per cent above the level of prewar earnings."

The Treasury already has received $3,500,000,000 in claims filed under another tax provision allowing corporations to change the base period on which their tax is computed, Murray said, and another section of the law allows speeded-up retirement of wartime plant investments.

He cited Bethlehem Steel as a "most outrageous case" which, by combining these provisions, turned the $22,676,000 profit it earned in the third quarter of 1945 into a tax-free profit of $57,756,000, including $34,980,000 from the United States Treasury.

No Treasury Comment.

In Washington the Treasury spokesman declined to comment. Nor was any reply forthcoming immediately from Bethlehem or other sections of the industry.

Support for Murray's position on the wage increase was voiced in Washington, where the House heard from Representative Biemiller (Dem.), Wisconsin what he said was an Administration-compiled report that said steel companies would gain $200,000,000 yearly from a $4-a-ton price boost, while an 18½ cent hourly wage increase would cost $180,000,000.

Biemiller, who told reporters his report represented "a combination of statistics compiled by the OPA and the Department of Labor," said he was "requested to cite these figures so the public would understand the companies would not lose by accepting the President's offer."

Murray told reporters he had received no information from Washington concerning government seizure of steel mills. He repeated that the strike will continue until the industry grants the 18½-cent pay increase. A $4 a ton increase in the price of steel would be "reasonable," he added.

15 PCT. SHIPYARD PAY RISE URGED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Government procurement agencies recommended yesterday a 15 per cent wage increase for approximately 650,000 shipyard workers throughout the nation.

The proposal was made to the Working Committee of the shipbuilding wage stabilization conference in an effort to break a deadlock which has tied up the conference since Dec. 4.

Sponsoring the offer were the War and Navy Departments, the Maritime Commission and the Labor Department.

TAX-FREE PROPOSAL ON FIRST $2000 OF VETERANS' PROPERTY

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 23—Amendment of the new Constitution to provide tax exemption for all honorably discharged war veterans, to the extent of the first $2000 of assessed valuation of a veteran's real estate and personal property, is proposed in a joint and concurrent resolution introduced in the House yesterday afternoon.

Representative J. N. Morton of Springfield and 75 other House members signed the resolution. If the resolution gets out of committee, and all of the sponsors are present when it is taken up on the floor, its House passage is assured, as 76 votes are required.

If the resolution is adopted by the House and Senate, the proposed amendment would be submitted to voters of the State for approval.

EX-SOLDIERS SEEK TRUMAN'S AID TO MARRY GERMANS

Army Bar Still Applies to 3 Working in Reich as Civilians.

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 23 (AP)—Three former soldiers were seeking presidential intervention today in the Army bar on marriages to German girls.

Under a directive from the joint chiefs of staff, the former soldiers, who now are uniformed civilians working for the United States Military Government, are forbidden to marry their former enemies.

The supplicants, Russell W. Horton of Elmsford, N. Y.; Lawrence E. Allen, Mount Pleasant, Mich., and Herbert H. Bolles, Nebraska City, Nebr., wrote to President Truman on Jan. 15 "with the hope and prayer" that he would find a way to allow them to "marry the girls we love."

Each spent two years overseas with anti-aircraft battalions. In their letter to the President, they said their main reason for accepting civilian employment in Germany after being discharged from the Army was to be able to marry their frauleins.

"We are not looking for sympathy or someone's shoulder to cry on, but we think not being able to marry the girls we love very much because they happen to be of German nationality is very unfair and un-American," they wrote. "We are only three of hundreds of civilians and service men who want to marry German girls."

Auto Workers' Letter to Truman Charges G.M.C. Is in 'Open Revolt' Of Corporations 'Against People'

Union Renews 30 Per Cent Demand—Calls Company Refusal to Accept Fact-Finding Report Part of 'Conspiracy to Destroy Organized Labor.'

DETROIT, Jan. 23 (AP)

Following is the text of the letter which the CIO United Auto Workers sent to President Truman yesterday informing him of reinstatement of the union's 30 per cent wage increase demands against the strike-bound General Motors Corp.

IT HAS become crystal clear to the citizens of the United States that the General Motors Corp., in league with other large corporate interests whose financial control is centered in Wall Street, is in open revolt against the American Government and people and is conspiring to destroy organized labor.

These forces are ready and willing to bring about a total paralysis of American industry in order to resist equitable wage increases, to set us on the road to inflation through higher prices and to wipe off the statute books every piece of constructive social legislation enacted in the last 15 years.

The policies they advocate are directly contrary to the policies of the Government; they are contrary to the wishes of the overwhelming majority of the American people; they are an outright betrayal of the ideals and principles for which we fought a costly and bloody war.

"Contempt of Government."

General Motors Corp. flaunted its contempt of the Government and people by walking out on your fact-finding board and later by rejecting its recommendations.

In outright violation of the law, the United States Steel Corp. refused to negotiate with the legally designated representatives of its employes until the Government had promised the industry a price increase.

It has since then arrogantly turned down your recommendations for a wage increase, an increase which the union accepted even though it was far less than was justifiably demanded by the United Steel Workers of America.

"Implications Are Clear."

The implications of these actions are clear. They have drawn the censure of newspaper writers and columnists and radio commentators who ordinarily are not over-sympathetic to labor.

The financial interests which control these and other large corporations are capitalizing on the public demand for consumer goods, accumulated during the war, on their enormous reserves taken out of wartime profits and on a favorable tax situation resulting from the elimination of the excess profits tax and the carry-back, carry-forward rebate provisions of the tax law, in order to wage this war against the interests and welfare of the people of the United States.

As one newspaper writer puts it:

"They (those who control industry) know that the workers and their families must eat."

By contrast, they know that no one on the management side will suffer any personal inconvenience during the strike. And they know too that their profits can not drop below the level of 1936-9.

Link With "Sentinels" Seen.

Within the last several weeks, advertisements appeared in various daily papers throughout the country advocating repeal of the National Labor Relations Act, the Wage and Hour Act, the Social Security Act, all federal laws for the control of prices, all aid to farmers, and, further, the discontinuance of appropriations for federal housing.

Although the ad appeared anonymously at first save for the cryptic signature, "Society of Sentinels," the names of its sponsors were later revealed.

One of the officers of that organization is Stephen Du Brul, chief economist for the General Motors Corp. and one of its representatives in negotiations with the UAW-CIO. In spite of a statement by another corporation official that Mr. Du Brul did not "subscribe" to the sentiments of the advertisement, Mr. Du Brul still remains an officer of the organization.

We are forced to the conclusion that the program of that organization is the program of those who are now in rebellion against democratic government and in conspiracy against the welfare of the American people.

Their defiance cannot go unchallenged by the Government and the American people.

For nine weeks General Motors workers all over the country have marched on picket lines in all weather and have sacrificed their wages in order to challenge the insolence and treachery of this small group of multi-millionaires and billionaires. They are still manning their picket lines and, with the men and women the steel industry has forced to strike, they are determined to defend America against these attempts to stab American economy in the back Acceptance Withdrawn.

When your fact finding board recommended a 19½ cents an hour increase for General Motors workers, we accepted their proposal on the condition that you were able to get the corporation to accept it by Monday, Jan. 21. We accepted the proposal as our contribution to the national welfare and in the interest of moving more quickly toward our goals of full production, full consumption and full employment, even though a 19½ cents an hour increase was far less than was justified by the facts in the General Motors case

Murray Text: 'Tax Rebates Mulcting U.S.'

Industry Using Treasury Funds to Fight Labor, CIO Head Writes.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23 (AP)

FOLLOWING is the text of a letter sent by CIO President Philip Murray to Secretary of the Treasury Vinson asking for revision of corporation tax provisions:

During the war period several extraordinary tax measures were enacted at the behest of large corporations. The provisions to which I make special reference were not, at the time of their enactment, discussed or analyzed either in committee reports or on the floor of Congress. Certainly the American people were not made aware of their full meaning.

The result under these laws is that the United States Treasury rebates any losses and guarantees a high level of profits through direct cash payments. It has been conservatively estimated by one United States Senator that the moneys to be drawn from the public purse to compensate American industry may run to 20 billions of dollars. This guarantee operates regardless of the reasons or causes for the loss which a business concern may incur.

"Burden On Every Taxpayer."

A direct burden has thus been imposed upon every American taxpayer in order to create special and unjust privileges for the giant industrial corporations.

I shall give you but a few examples drawn from the steel industry as to how present tax laws operate.

1—The revenue act of 1942 provides for a 10 per cent postwar refund of the excess tax liability of any one company since 1942. In spite of the tremendous financial resources exacted by the steel corporations as their price for war production, that industry under this law is entitled to a rebate from the United States Treasury of an amount in excess of 200 million dollars.

2—Under carry-back tax provisions secretly slipped through Congress, American industry is guaranteed that if any particular company either breaks even or loses money it will receive refunds that may result in larger net profits than the particular company averaged in the prewar years.

Assuming that the steel companies in 1946 break even—that is do not make any net profits—the United States Treasury will actually pay to the industry 149 million dollars. This represents guaranteed profits that are 29 per cent above the level of prewar earnings.

Under this provision the United States Steel Corp. will be repaid $67,340,000, though its average net profits after taxes for the prewar era was $44,732,00.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. will be rebated $6,028,750, though its average net profits after taxes for the prewar period was $2,375,000.

Change In Base Period.

3—Under another tax provision, also slipped by without any publicity at all, industrial concerns may change their so-called base period upon which their taxes are computed by maintaining that the standard period of 1936 to 1939 does not represent a fair basis for the particular company or industry. Representatives of the Bureau of Internal Revenue state that three and one-half billion dollars worth of claims for tax refunds have already been filed on the basis of this one provision, and expect claims in excess of 15 billion dollars worth of tax rebates.

The United States Steel Corp. very piously maintains that it did not pay any excess profits taxes in 1944. This result was accomplished through the use of the provision that I have just described.

4—Under another tax provision, facilities constructed during the war could be amortized over a five-year period rather than the customary 20 years. In addition, the Tax Adjustment Act of 1945 authorized the President, following the termination of the war, to issue a proclamation following which companies could amortize whatever portion of the emergency facilities had not as yet been amortized fully.

This special tax relief meant the

MATTER OF FACT

Poor White House Staff Work

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON.

STAFF work of the White House was revealed in a curiously depressing light by Big Steel's refusal to settle its labor dispute on the terms proposed by the President. The contingency had plainly not been prepared for. When it arose, all was confusion.

In the first phase, the resulting flurry of White House meetings disclosed only division of council. Some advocated further price concessions. Some demanded government seizure of the steel plants. The President simply reiterated his reluctance to use war powers in peacetime.

This indecision, and the mildness of the President's fruitless statement asking Mr. Fairless to reconsider, did not imply amiability toward the steel industry. On the contrary, the President has expressed himself to callers with great force and bitterness, charging the leaders of the steel industry with jobbing and tricking him. What is singular is that he should have been so surprised, since plenty of men in the lower echelons of the Administration foresaw what would occur.

Is There Collusion?

In truth, Philip Murray is by no means alone in suspecting that steel, motors and the other key industries involved in labor disputes have adopted a united front strategy. The belief is widespread among government economists and labor experts.

The milder spirits merely assume that the purpose of the alleged united front is to force an even sharper break in the price line than would have resulted from the $4 per ton increase promised the steel companies as a reward for settling with the steelworkers.

The cynics hold that the object is to break or weaken the labor movement, or at any rate the CIO, repeating the pattern of 1920, when there was an inter-industry strategy committee known as the special conference committee.

Even those who did not fear a united front expected further bargaining on prices.

Yet although so many officials, some in key positions, either expected Big Steel's action or thought it quite possible, no preparation was made to deal with the situation that action has created. It was, therefore, inevitable that there should be the division of council already noted, between those who would make further price concessions and those who would seize the steel plants under the authority conferred by the Smith-Connally Act. As these words are written, the division is so complete that the outcome cannot be predicted.

Two points deserve to be noted, however.

10 Million Jobless.

Initial pressure for further price concessions came mainly from the region of the former WPB, now civilian production administration, and was at first resisted both by Chester Bowles of OPA and by John Snyder, OWMR director, the man who had made the original promise of a $4 per ton increase to the steel industry.

Thus, in the first phase at least, those who favored giving way on prices were a small minority. On the other hand, few but Bowles had the decision to advocate seizure in the early meetings. Both Snyder and Schwellenbach were undetermined.

As for President Truman himself, his constant emphasis on his desire not to use emergency wartime powers suggested that he did not altogether grasp the scope and gravity of the emergency which now confronts him.

In time the President will be forced to recognize the scope of the emergency—he may well have done this, of course, before this is printed. According to a calculation prepared by government experts, the steel strike in conjunction with the motors and other current strikes, will cause an overall unemploymen total of 10 million.

No Small Crisis.

Eventually, therefore, some kind of major action must be taken for the steel strike is incalculably more serious, in general effect, than the meat packing dispute. The meat packing strike will merely reduce us to a diet of eggs and spaghetti. The steel strike will knock the spots out of the whole economy. Yet seizure was given favorable consideration in the meat case long before it was even seriously debated in the case of steel.

Meanwhile, one aspect of the strike situation is being anxiously canvassed in the government on all levels, including the highest. The present CIO leadership is composed of comparative moderates—men like Walter Reuther and Philip Murray, who accept all the premises of the American system, however advanced their so-

G.I.S FIND A WAY TO FEED BABIES AS WIVES AWAIT SHIP

Formula Mixed in Big Kettle at Camp in Britain.

PERHAM DOWN CAMP, TIDWORTH, England, Jan. 23 (AP)—American soldiers bounced babies on their knees to keep them happy today while 625 U. S.-bound wives sped through Army red tape preparatory to sailing on the liner Argentina Saturday to join their husbands.

Wives without babies went swiftly through the emigration and customs inspections and medical examinations in a converted movie theater.

Those with youngsters had other complications. A slight delay developed in the mixing of feeding formulas until G.I.s rounded up a kettle big enough to hold 52 cans of evaporated milk, 52 quarts of water and 120 ounces of sugar, the daily milk supply provided at Red Cross headquarters.

In a huge warehouse German prisoners sweated over piles of trunks and big British baby buggies and trundled off the baggage for stowage in the Argentina's hold.

Intelligence Setup Is Rebuff To Byrnes Aid

President Names Leahy as His Representative on Authority.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S directive yesterday setting up the organization for a National Intelligence Authority with a director of Central Intelligence represented a rejection of the State Department's plan to give that department supervision of the gathering and dissemination of international information relating to national security.

The new organizational plans follow more closely the recommendations of Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, head of the liquidated Office of Strategic Service, Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal and his civilian adviser Ferdinand Eberstadt than those of Col. Alfred McCormack, who drew up the State Department's blueprint for co-ordination of existing intelligence agencies.

Col. McCormack, who was expected to head the proposed State Department setup, will not be appointed director of the President's Central Intelligence group, the Post-Dispatch was informed by officials who should be in a position to know the President's intentions.

Makeup of Authority.

The White House directive designated the Secretaries of State, War and Navy to form a national intelligence authority. To this group he will appoint another person as his "personal representative."

Under this authority will be the director of central intelligence who shall, according to the President, "accomplish the correlation and evaluation of intelligence relating to national security, and the appropriate dissemination within the government of the resulting strategic and national policy intelligence."

The President's personal representative on the Authority, the Post-Dispatch learned today, will be Fleet Adm. William D. Leahy, the Chief of Staff to the Commander in Chief. This selection will give the President close supervision of the new setup.

The director, at least for the immediate organization period, will be a high ranking naval or military official, probably naval. There have been discussions whether the director should be a civilian who would have no ties with the armed services. A civilian may later be appointed. The character and ability of this initial appointee, it was said, will determine scope and the

First Strike Ever to Shut Down Nation's Steel Industry Is Climax To 87 Years of Rise of Unionism

'United Sons of Vulcan' Won First Sliding Scales in 1865, Then Gave Way to Amalgamation of Plant Unions—CIO Entered Field in 1936 and Met Quick Success.

By JOSEPH SNYDER

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 23 (AP).

THE walkout of the CIO United Steel Workers in the nation's greatest strike climaxes 87 years of colorful history in the rise of unionism in the steel industry.

The nation's steel mills never have experienced a general shutdown from a strike, though it was tried once before, in 1919.

The workers' organization at that time did not nearly compare with the vast union which today claims more than 800,000 members.

In the 1919 strike, called by the American Federation of Labor, the workers demanded among other things, higher wages, collection of union dues by the companies and abolishment of long shifts. Today there is only one issue—a wage increase.

The 1919 strike paralyzed some large steel centers at first, but gradually petered out and the men returned to their jobs.

Other historic strikes occurred in 1892, when 10 men were killed in a fight at the Homestead Steel Works, near Pittsburgh; and in 1937 when approximately 100,000 workers were affected by a strike in the so-called "Little Steel" companies. Recognition of the union was the main issue in each.

Early Union Move Fails.

Early organization attempts were confined to departments. In 1859 a large-scale union movement got under way at Pittsburgh, but failed.

A year later, with the United States rising steadily as a steel producer, the United Sons of Vulcan was organized, also at Pittsburgh, and five years later the organization obtained the first sliding scale of wages. The union covered puddlers, heaters and some other department workers, and its formation led to similar groups in other sections of the iron and steel industry.

The puddlers called a strike in 1867, but made little progress. Prof. Stephen L. Goodale of the University of Pittsburgh writes in his "Chronology of Iron and Steel" that manufacturers affected by the strike raised a fund and imported workmen from Europe. John Zimmer, a German, one of the workers who came over, helped build the first universal mill in America.

The United Sons of Vulcan gave way to the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, which was organized in 1874 and became one of the nation's oldest unions. It lasted 63 years and represented an amalgamation of various department or plant unions common to the industry in its pioneer days.

The association called a strike in 1880 after the Homestead Steel Works was built on the Monongahela river near Pittsburgh and closed the plant for a time. The bloody Homestead strike occurred 12 years later.

8-Hour Day, Temporarily.

On Oct. 1, 1918, large steel producers adopted eight hours as the basic work day, but it did not last. In 1920, on Feb. 1, the United States Steel Corp. and others raised common labor wages 10 per cent, but wages began sliding shortly to the accompaniment of weakened markets and disturbed labor relations. Common labor wage rates, which had reached $5.06 for a 10-hour day, were lowered steadily until in August 1921 the rate hit $3 a day.

A Union spokesman has estimated the common labor wage rate now at $6.12, with the average steel worker earning $8.69 for an eight-hour day.

In 1923, the 12-hour day was eliminated after an exchange of correspondence between management and President Harding.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

School Employes' Side of It

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The Board of Education Sunday published a five-column protest against a possible custodian and matron strike. It called upon the people of St. Louis to sit as judges. Since the board presented only its side of the dispute, I would like the public to see the other side.

My mother has been a matron in the schools for 20 years. She has worked six days a week, 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., for 18 of those years. Only during the past two years has Saturday's work been pushed up to Friday, making that a double-duty day, so that Saturday could become a day off.

During those 18 years, she received a letter every mid-June, telling her she was discharged when school closed. Then every September came the gnawing fear of not being rehired. Any widow feeding four children on $85 a month paid nine months a year knows what fear is.

Granted, the matrons now make $125. But their increase came only after the union convinced the board that $85 in inflation days is a starvation wage. The board granted the increase, on one condition: It is a "cost of living bonus," to be rescinded at the board's discretion.

If the matrons are fortunate enough to retain this "bonus," here is the net result: The board reasons that with legal holidays, (which every wage earner is entitled to, board members included) and vacation pay, the work week amounts to 36 hours. Follow their reasoning: nine hours a day, five days a week at $1500 a year nets a matron 60 cents an hour.

The ad says, "For Housecleaning Only." Housecleaning, Mr. and Mrs. Public, never included moving 40 iron desks to a room to sweep beneath them; or down on your hands and knees scrubbing miles and miles of snow-tracked hardwood floors; or getting up in the middle of your own lunch to go clean up after a child who was unfortunate enough to lose his breakfast.

The custodial staff has lost some 80 people during the war. They have not been replaced. Who is doing their work? The answer is simple: the custodians and matrons who ask a living wage.

I realize I might be jeopardizing my mother's job. However, I can't sit back and see her and the people she has worked with for 20 years belittled as they were in the advertisement.

Garbage-Can Smashers

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Some time ago there was an article in the Post-Dispatch on rat control and what we as citizens could do to help. "Purchase a tight-fitting garbage can and keep it well covered." But every time the collector comes around the top is thrown over in the yard on a granitoid sidewalk, and the bucket lands elsewhere. So the top presently begins to look like one of Blondie's hats, though I can assure you that it does not fit quite as well.

Police Brutality Charged

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

It seems that some of the police of this city might be guilty of the brutality often charged. On the early morning of Jan. 18, I was in the DeLuxe Cafe on North Jefferson when several police entered. I was not involved in the matter at all.

However, I did see the police walk up to several Negroes who were quietly sitting, and without apparent cause berate, shove and push them out of the place just because they were policemen backed up by guns and billies.

The thing I am complaining about is the manner of the arrest. No matter how guilty they might have been, it seems the officers could have placed them under arrest and carried them to the station for questioning. What I saw was the officer, one in particular, who asked some sort of question, glared at the man and shoved him without a chance for an answer. He was seemingly anxious for the least sign of resistance upon which he would have immediately used his billy.

Are the police officers instructed to arrest citizens in this manner?

What About GIs' Families?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I have always advocated good living wages and still do, but I must say I'm disgusted with the labor trouble today.

Everyone seems to want more money. If everyone gets more money, prices are bound to go up. If prices go up, people will still need more money. Just a big merry-go-round.

But what about us soldiers, and our wives and families, who still must get by on $50 to $120 a month? When a husband goes away, his rent, utility bills, insurance, fuel and clothing for his family remain the same.

How much will $80 buy for a wife and child at the present prices? What if they go up? Let's all think it over. Be fair and think of other fellow's family.

Clever, But—

It's clever enough for Soviet Russia to appeal to the Security Council for an investigation of British policy in Greece and Java. If world affairs were a chess game or a fencing match, we could all applaud or shout "Touche!" Unfortunately, the proceedings at London too intimately affect the destiny of human beings to permit lighthearted appreciation of diplomatic finesse.

When Iran some days ago appealed to the UNO for consideration of its charges that Soviet Russia is impairing its sovereignty, the attention of the world was focused upon Russia's interest in Iran's Northern provinces, principally Azerbaijan, whose revolt against the Iranian central Government was encouraged by the Soviet.

Such insistent staring at Soviet policy toward a land which had been promised independence by the Big Three was not to the liking of Moscow. So now the Soviet Government asks that the starers direct their gaze also at British interference in Greece and in Java. In other words, the pot points to the color of the kettle.

Of the British in Greece, the Soviet Union charges that "maintenance of British troops in Greece becomes a means of pressure on the internal situation in the country." Of the British in Java, it charges that "several months of military actions directed against the local population have been waged, in which British forces as well as Japanese enemy armed forces are taking part."

The fact is that in Iran, in Greece and in Java, power politics has taken precedence over the high-sounding declarations of the Atlantic Charter, the Four Freedoms and the Yalta Conference.

Iran is of strategic importance to Russia and, in addition, has large oil deposits coveted not only by Russia but by Britain and the United States. Greece, because of its position on the Mediterranean, is of strategic importance to Britain. Java is an important part of the Dutch colonial empire, and Britain is badly singeing its fingers there on behalf of its Dutch friends.

There is nothing pretty about the whole picture. But instead of using the UNO as a sounding board for accusation and recrimination, it had better be used as a medium through which the big powers mutually admit their mistakes, confess their ambitions and agree to a straightforward course for the future.

At this juncture, why would it not be well for the British to admit the impeachment of the Soviet Union regarding both Greece and Java? If the British should promise to remove their troops from Greece and if they should put pressure on the Dutch to satisfy the reasonable demands of the Javanese nationalists, this might stimulate the Soviet Union to make good its promises to Iran.

Such a series of actions, preferably through the agency of the UNO, would allay the growing cynicism and distrust of Big Three diplomacy now prevalent throughout the world. It might give rise to hope that "the brave new world," for which the war was fought and for which millions of men died, may yet emerge.

Hasty Action by News Services

Under normal conditions, the very idea of a government news agency is something to be shunned. The world has seen, in the horrible examples of DNB and Domei, how official control of news leads to suppression, falsification and all manner of other evils. Not in enemy countries alone, however, are such examples to be found; the Havas agency in France was scarcely more dependable than the Axis propaganda agencies.

Wartime brings new necessities, so the setting up of OWI by this country was welcomed. It did an excellent job, avoided the excesses common to government news agencies and went out of business soon after V-J day, when some of its functions were taken over by the State Department. With Congress rests the decision whether the Government shall continue to distribute news, and the new State Department office is marking time till definite policy is developed.

The Associated Press and the United Press, however, are not content to wait for the decision. Both news agencies have withdrawn their services, and their action has been criticized as "unwarranted" by Assistant Secretary of State Benton. The AP and UP decision means the Government is handicapped in the important business of transmitting the news and views of America to other countries.

If Congress had voted to keep the Government permanently in the news business, then the protests of the two services would have been justified. But their withdrawal at this time is hasty and premature.

Is Farben Dead?

Within the American zone in Germany, reports Brig. Gen. William Draper, director of the AMG economic division, IG Farbenindustrie, the vast, sprawling industrial trust, "is now a name only." Half its plants, he said, are already destroyed or earmarked for removal as reparations; a number of directors are under arrest; 1100 employes with Nazi connections have been dismissed; its cartel arrangements are broken.

So far, so good. Let it not be assumed for one moment, however, that dissolution of the thing means its death. Its spirit, the possibility of its rebirth will live on so long as any unscrupulous schemer believes he can gain profit in octopus trusts that prepare some countries for adventures in pillage and weaken others by contracts not to produce. That applies to German schemers. It also applies to the American, British, French Swedish, Dutch varieties, and all the others.

At least, it always has applied. That it does still is shown by the great tenderness among some of our allies which has kept any German industrialist from being indicted and brought to trial for crimes against humanity. The small physical fraction of Farben within the American zone may be in process of dissolution. But traders on the Hamburg exchange, evidently expecting that the greater part which is held by other occupying powers will survive, bid up the stock 4½ points on the very day Gen. Draper made his announcement.

The name of Farben is, perhaps, on the way out. The idea survives, and only strongest resolution by the unimportant people who die in wars can keep it from rising again in contracts and cartels, steel and concrete, rockets and atomic horror.

Cure for Labor Chaos

One fact stands out clearly above the hubbub of the major labor disputes. It is that wage control and price control are inseparable. Any effort to administer either without the other is bound to end in failure and intolerable confusion. The present attempt to control prices without controlling wages is directly responsible for the state of conflict into which the nation—labor, management and 140,000,000 people alike—has been precipitated.

The fact-finding-board method on which President Truman is relying will do certain things, but it will not make up for the absence of a wage-and-price policy. In fact, it cannot be expected to operate except within the framework of a definite policy for wages and prices, so long as the emergency controls continue in effect.

Price control and wage control functioned together from July 16, 1942, when the Little Steel formula was created by the National War Labor Board, until August, 1945, when it was shelved by President Truman. In establishing the Little Steel formula, the WLB put a ceiling on wages, decreeing that they should be allowed to rise not more than 15 per cent from the level prevailing on Jan. 1, 1941. In abolishing the formula, President Truman authorized WLB "to release proposed voluntary wage increases from the necessity of approval upon condition that they will not be used in whole or in part as the basis for seeking an increase in price ceilings."

When wage control went off, an irresistible force was released in the form of a forcing-up of wage rates by the unions. This irresistible force encountered the immovable object of price control. The result was what it inevitably had to be: chaos.

Mr. Truman has tried to restore order by a little tinkering here and there. He has steadfastly failed to recognize that the only way to stop the chaos is to reverse the process that started it—put back a ceiling on wages. His labor-management conference in November was a fiasco because he barred it from discussion of the main point on which labor and management were at loggerheads—the relationship between wages and prices.

Tinkering will not do, and even devices such as fact-finding, workable under normal conditions, will not be of much service so long as the conditions in which they operate are abnormal, as will be the case until price control's inseparable complement, wage control, has been restored.

Until the indivisibility of wage control and price control is recognized by the Administration and made the subject of national policy, there is little cause to expect anything but continued chaos. If and when the Administration identifies its error and corrects it, there will be a sound basis for hope.

Blabbermouth Champions

Senator Bilbo says that he and his associates in the anti-FEPC filibuster are ready to keep talking 24 hours a day, in order to prevent a vote on the legislation they detest. Of course they can; who doubted it? After hearing some of the Southern reactionaries launched on their favorite subject of white supremacy under normal conditions, nobody expected them to weaken and run short of words when the occasion is one for specifically upholding intolerance.

Meanwhile, though, what becomes of the "world's greatest deliberative body" and its processes? The Senate becomes bogged down in a desolate miasma of words, designed purely to consume time and wear out the supporters of a duly introduced piece of legislation, whose opponents fear defeat if it is brought to a vote.

The rhetorical prowess and physical endurance of Bilbo & Co. aren't in question. The blabbermouth championship will be conceded to them for the asking. But if there is an element of shame in their systems, or pride in the good name of the legislative body to which they were elected, they will call off their test of strength by chatter. There isn't; the filibuster goes drearily on.

Says Gen. Peck to Gen. Pick

(Maj. Gen. Dewitt Peck, commander of the First Marine Division, has been decorated by the Chinese and United States governments. Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, builder of the Stilwell Road in Burma, has assumed his post as Missouri River division engineer of the Army Engineers, at Omaha.)

Says Gen. Peck to Gen. Pick, "Keeping us straight is quite a trick." "You gotta check and double-check," says Gen. Pick to Gen. Peck.

Quibbling on State Revenue Reform

When the campaign for Missouri's new Constitution was in progress just a year ago, one of the points most often urged in its favor was the provision for consolidation of State revenue agencies. A principal reason for the big majority in the charter's favor was undoubtedly the fact that the voters were impressed by the gain in efficiency and the monetary saving (estimated at $1,000,000 a biennium) in assembling the 10 or more taxing and collecting bodies into one co-ordinated department.

Now that the bill to put this important reform into effect is before the Senate, it would be reasonable to expect strong support and energetic efforts to bring about its adoption. Instead, it meets delay and heckling opposition. One Senator proposes changes in the measure which would violate the new Constitution's provisions. Another says it would give the Governor too much power. Others want the vote postponed.

What the opposition expects to gain by attempting to block a bill with the voters' mandate solidly behind it, is hard to guess. It is just another of those futile performances which is putting the Legislature so far behind in its huge task of revising the State setup to meet the requirements of the new Constitution.

A black market in railroad tickets to Florida has caused complaints. The feeling is that the customer should not be gypped till he gets there.

How Far Will Inflation Go?

The Mirror of Public Opinion

With prices booming and a spending spree on, question no longer is whether we will have inflation, economist says; despite evidence, foolish fear of deflation persists in some quarters; this hinders efforts to control dangerous trend of costs while time runs short.

Dr. Jules Backman of New York University in Trusts and Estates, Journal of Capital Management

The basic question today is not "Will we have inflation?" We already have it. The only question is how far it will go and what other areas of our economy will be affected. The answer depends to a large extent upon the policies which are adopted and the actions taken by Congress and the Administration in connection with wages, public spending, taxes and related matters.

The basic ingredients in this picture are the large-scale Federal budgetary deficits, past and present, the increase in demand deposits of 150 per cent during the war, the threefold expansion in money in circulation, the large backlog of consumer demand plus record savings to finance these purchases, the substantial increase in unit labor costs during the war and the danger of a scramble to fill depleted inventories.

Evidence that a large degree of inflation is already manifesting itself is clear to any who want to see it. In many respects, however, the picture has been clouded by the same developments which lulled many people into a false sense of security in the '20s.

Outlets for Inflation

Particularly important is the relative stability of wholesale prices and the cost-of-living index during the past few years.

These indexes showed relative stability in the latter part of the '20s, and this phenomenon was continually pointed to as evidence that no inflation was taking place.

The real estate booms in various sections of the country and the stock market boom which furnished the outlets for inflationary bank credit were ignored in much of the analysis at that time.

Wholesale commodity prices and the cost-of-living index have shown relative stability since the middle of 1943. But during this same period real estate prices, prices of farms and security prices have shown considerable increases.

The index of value of farm real estate per acre (by the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics) is now 60 per cent above the level prevailing from 1935 to 1939. A rise of 11 per cent was recorded in the year from November, 1944, to November, 1945, or almost 1 per cent per month.

Signs of Boom Everywhere

An inflationary spending spree is visibly under way. The National City Bank summarized the situation in its Economic Letter for December:

"Actually, signs of inflation are present on every hand. We see them in the volume of retail trade moving. We see them in the amount of travel, in the congestion of the railroads and of the hotels. We see them in the difficulty in holding price ceilings, and in the readiness of people to resort to costly subterfuges to get the goods they want when they want them.

"We see the signs of inflation in real estate. We see them in the stock market, where prices have risen to the highest level in eight years. And all this, be it noted, is without use of credit. People have the money and are paying down cash on the barrel."

Despite the above evidence, many persons continue to profess fear of deflation. If by deflation is meant a price decrease, these forecasts would seem to be completely inadequate. In effect, what the price deflationists are saying is this: During the war we spent up to 100 billion dollars a year on the war effort. A good part of this money was obtained from the sale of Government securities to individuals and to the banking system, and was reflected in the large increase in individual savings and in bank credit.

If prices go down, it means that the purchasing power of these savings will be even greater than it is today.

A Ridiculous Proposition

But if we listen to the economic soothsayers and "panic economists" who insist that today we face deflation, then it follows that we will be even richer than we think we are under those conditions, because not only will we have more paper claims, but prices will go down and those paper claims will thereby be increased in value.

This will indeed be a new development in economic history. We will have found the economic spring of eternal youth through the magic waters of large-scale Government spending. It is as foolish as suggesting that the Government spend 80 billion dollars a year on ships, ammunition, planes and other war materiel, then load these goods on the new ships and use them for target practice.

Clearly, this is a ridiculous proposition, but no more so than the forecasts made by deflationists in light of the fact that we have been doing exactly this during the four war years.

The basic question remains, How far will the inflation go? The actions taken to raise wages will help to determine the distance. The actions taken by the Federal Government to balance the budget will help to determine the distance. The actions taken to control profits—and hence influence the volume of production—will help to determine the distance.

We are sitting on a keg of explosives which can blow up on the slightest provocation. Our problem today is to make sure there are no sparks to set it off. There is still time to keep this inflation within limits, but the sands in the hourglass are running low.

MR. BRICKER'S MUSTY WHEEZE

From the Milwaukee Journal.

John W. Bricker, who is considered by the reactionaries a most promising candidate for President, has a solution for the housing shortage.

"Owners and builders," he says, "are ready to proceed as soon as released from the red tape of Washington."

Doesn't Mr. Bricker remember that practically all the housing restrictions he chooses to call red tape were removed Oct. 15? Then the housing crisis really became acute. Immediately materials and manpower began to flow into expensive houses, industrial channels, unnecessary remodelings, non-essential amusement buildings and the like.

Now priority restrictions are being imposed again, in order that houses can be built for returning veterans. Is Mr. Bricker against houses for veterans, or is it that he thinks he can ride into the White House on just an old wheeze?

History of the Santa Fe Told in a Lively Volume

"Santa Fe: The Railroad That Built an Empire," by James Marshall. (Random House, New York.)

The author of this lively book, a journalist with a zest for the romance of the railroad, has captured in vivid prose an exciting and significant phase of our history.

After reading his pages, and mindful of days gone by, one must inquire, Lives there the man with soul so dead as to have followed the course of a passing train across the horizon without a half-nostalgic longing to be aboard? Lives there also a man of but small acquaintance with his country's past who does not thrill to the part the railroads played in its development?

This account traces the Santa Fe from its halting preliminaries to the new mechanical miracles and its most recent transportation success. Its beginnings were those of nearly every railroad—great dreams and petty cash, politics and promoters, competition and colonization, imminent failure and ultimate victory. Not only did the Santa Fe have its own hazards; it suffered from every financial hurricane, no matter how remote, and every local economic upset, no matter how trivial.

Despite all these and other handicaps, the road pressed forward, mile by mile, across the plain and over the passes. Some track it laid and some railways it either bought or leased. In general, the road has been well served by its personnel, from the presidents down to the section hands.

To recount all the interesting and important features of Mr. Marshall's book is manifestly impossible, but a few warrant special attention. The rise of Fred Harvey and his restaurants is an integral part of Santa Fe expansion and here receives the treatment it deserves. The list of place-names along the route, the splendid glossary of railroad slang, the "Santa Fe firsts," the outline of the road's financial history and the chronology of its development give the book great value as a reference.

Because the author has wisely put these items in appendices, the text can more successfully convey the romance and the tremendous achievement back of the Super-Chief's run from Chicago to Los Angeles in 39 hours.

Verily the "Atchison, Topeka and the Santa Fe" deserved this record of its history. Let us hope that other railroads will find equally vivid chroniclers of their history.

A New 25-Cent Reprint Series

The success of 25-cent pocket-size books has been a publishing phenomenon of recent years. A new firm, Bantam Books, New York, now enters the field with a list of 20 well-chosen and unabridged reprint titles in highly attractive format, and a schedule of four additions to the series each month.

High literary quality is presented in the first group published. Non-fiction includes Mark Twain's "Life on the Mississippi" and St. Exupery's "Wind, Sand and Stars." Among the novels are Steinbeck's "The Grapes of Wrath" (570 pages), Sabatini's "Scaramouche" and Alice Tisdale Hobart's "Oil for the Lamps of China." Humor is represented by "Seventeen" and "Meet Me in St. Louis." Mysteries, always a stand-by of any 25-cent series, are present with five titles.

Gay laminated plastic covers, clear type and good paper are features of the new series. Virtually all the titles are a big quarter's worth. Bantam Books seem sure to be prominent in the providing of good literature on a mass-production and mass-selling basis.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Mr. Welles Accuses

SUMNER WELLES accuses the American Government of having acted in bad faith. No more serious charge can be made by a citizen against his Government, none so damaging to its influence in the world. Once it is made, especially by a person who speaks with authority, the damage is done, as it is when the honor of a man or the chastity of a woman has been impugned, even though the charge has not been proved.

Mr. Welles rests his charge on the indubitable fact that at Moscow in December Secretary Byrnes receded on two points which he had insisted upon at London in September. He had said at London that he would not negotiate peace treaties with Bulgaria and Romania, as Mr. Welles puts it, "until representative governments had been freely elected in those countries."

At Moscow he agreed to negotiate peace treaties before there was a free election in these countries but provided their provisional governments were made somewhat more, though no doubt not very much more, representative.

At London, Mr. Byrnes had also insisted that France participate in the negotiation of the Balkan treaties; at Moscow, he compromised on this point.

Not the Whole Story.

There is no question but that on both points he receded from the position he had taken previously. But that is not the whole story. And before Mr. Welles or anyone else has the right to pronounce so damning a verdict, he must consider—not omit even to mention—the rest of the story.

For as Mr. Welles expounds what happened at London in September, the picture he draws is absolutely and fundamentally false. He makes it appear that at London the United States stood for a set of principles, and that Mr. Byrnes, who had just inherited them, later abandoned them.

But the truth is that at London the United States was not standing for the principles which Mr. Byrnes inherited. It was standing for them only in one small, specific area of the globe—in the Soviet sphere of influence. There, as Mr. Byrnes inherited the policy, we stood for an equal voice for all the great powers and many of the smaller ones.

London Stand Untenable.

But in the American sphere of influence we were opposed to this principle, and in the determination of policy in Japan, China and the Pacific islands, we were excluding not only France, though she is a Far Eastern power, and the Netherlands, Australia and New Zealand, which are Far Eastern powers, but also Great Britain and the Soviet Union.

At London, the moral position of the United States was untenable and utterly contradictory. Far from its being, as Mr. Welles's argument assumes, a position resting on high principles, it was a flagrant case of a double moral standard.

It is against this that the moralists who set up to make moral judgments must measure the transactions at Moscow. There were two alternatives—at least in theory—open to Mr. Byrnes at Moscow. He could stand absolutely on the original principles which we had announced. If he did, then he had to revise our policy in the Far East and make it consistent with these principles. This would have meant the dethronement of Gen. MacArthur, and the renunciation of our exclusive claims in the conquered islands.

A Better Moral Position.

Since that was not possible, as I am sure Mr. Welles will have to agree, the other alternative was to narrow the gap between principles and policy by modifying Soviet policy somewhat and by modifying American policy somewhat. This is in fact what was done, and I for one, think our moral position is better after Moscow than it was after London.

For it does not seem to me, as apparently it does to Mr. Welles, that at London the world regarded us as the champions of great principles. The world was only too acutely aware that where our own interests were concerned we were acting on different principles.

Therefore, in so far as Mr. Byrnes brought our principles and our practice nearer together, it was a moral advance. For it is better, indeed more honorable, not to have such high principles but to conform to them yourself, than to impose the high principles on others and disregard them yourself.

Two Inconsistent Views.

Mr. Welles himself is in a position which is not free of embarrassment. He is ardent in saying that we ought not to negotiate with the Balkan states "until representative governments had been freely elected in those countries."

But when our Government refuses to negotiate with Argentina, that does not suit him either. If we negotiate with a Bulgarian Government that has not been freely elected, we are, he says, abandoning our "leadership . . . in the creation of a free and democratic world order."

But when Spruille Braden refuses to negotiate with the present Argentine Government, Mr. Welles complains that we are violating the sacred principle of nonintervention in the internal affairs of foreign countries.

Mr. Welles's passion for freely elected representative governments is, therefore, greater in one continent than it is in another.

DOROTHY THOMPSON

Two Assaults on Orderly Government

MICHAEL J. QUILL, an elected New York City official on the ticket of the American Labor party and head of the Transport Workers' Union, threatened a strike to compel the city government to take the action he desired in regard to the future ownership of municipal power plants.

The merits of the actual issue—continued municipal ownership of the plants or their sale to a company—are insignificant compared to the issue of the strike itself. It is direct action to force a political decision. Quill got away with it in principle and it may be we have seen the beginning of the end of political liberty in the United States.

If it is permissible to settle political issues by a labor holdup of vital public services, American democracy is directly assaulted. Democracy based on political liberty has ended in most places already. It has no eternal lease on life.

American democracy is not only government by the majority, with strict protection of the right of the minority to criticize policies and attempt to change the mind of the majority, but it is also a constitutional method of arriving at, and registering the will of, the majority. It is government by suffrage, and by the appeal to reason (or to interest) through discussion and persuasion.

Means Determine End.

The means are just as important to the preservation or reformation of our social and political life as are the ends to be achieved; indeed, experience shows that the means always determine the end. It may be better for the people of New York to own their own power plants than to sell or lease them to a company. But it is much more important that they should own their own government, and that their representatives should be free to make up their minds on the matter, without a gun pointed at their chests. The people will not long continue to own their own government if a part of the citizens can reduce the choice to the question of whether or not the rest shall be able to move. The mere threat is simple subversion, outright revolutionary tactic and, in fact, a step toward civil war.

In the United States Senate, there is also a strike going on. Its initiators display a frame of mind similar to that of Mr. Quill. Mr. Quill is a Communist, or a Communist fellow-traveler, and the gentlemen leading the strike in the Senate are, they would say, very conservative. But they are not conservative at all. They are also engaged in undermining the American system.

Senators Eastland and Bilbo and the Southern Democrats they have rallied, as well as some who are neither Southern nor Democrat, have called a strike in the Senate. They do not want the fair employment practices bill to pass; they do not even want it to come to a vote—since both parties are pledged by campaign promises to support it—and so they are resolved that nothing else may come before the Senate until this bill is shelved.

Holdup in Senate.

They are engaging in a holdup. They are not even discussing the bill; they are reading all sorts of nonsense on the floor; they are wasting the time for which the American people pay them; they are injuring their country by holding up urgent legislation.

These are the same gentlemen who call "Bolshevik" on all and sundry occasions. But what they are doing is Bolshevistic; the method is Bolshevistic; it is a form of direct action to force a situation which they cannot, or rather will not, govern.

They have the right to oppose the bill; they have the right to be reactionary, and to represent prejudiced constituencies; they have the right and it is their duty to go on the record with their votes. But what they are doing is an assault on orderly and representative government.

I think they are on the wrong side. But if they were for the bill, and a majority was against it, I should write exactly as I am writing. For no good ends can be served in the long run by such means. They make orderly government impossible. And when orderly government becomes impossible in a system like ours, some other form of government takes its place.

We are living in strained and dangerous times. And we are seeing that extremes usually meet in common disregard for the spirit of law, and in common ruthlessness as regards methods. The effect of each is to drive the other to increased ruthlessness, until finally nothing can be settled at all except by veiled or naked force. That is why I say the Southern Senators and Michael Quill are brothers under their skins, and all of them enemies of our civilization, our social peace and our progress.

F. W. A. VESPER DIES; FORMER C. OF C. HEAD

Retired St. Louis Auto Dealer Suffers Stroke at Phoenix, Ariz.

Frederick W. A. Vesper, former automobile dealer and former president of the Chamber of Commerce, died last night in Phoenix, Ariz., where he went 10 days ago for his health. Telegrams from Mrs. Vesper to St. Louis friends said that death followed a stroke suffered as they were playing cards. He was 72 years old.

Besides his wife, Margaret Castles Vesper, he is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Robert Turner of York, Pa.; a brother, Walter H. Vesper, associated with him in Vesper Co., Inc., St. Louis investment firm; and a sister, Mrs. F. A. Koester of Palo Alto, Calif.

The funeral will be at the Episcopal Church of St. Michael and St. George, 6345 Wydown boulevard, and the time has been set tentatively for 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Before his retirement from active business, Mr. Vesper was president of Vesper-Buick Co., and was president for two years of the National Automobile Dealers' Association. He headed the Chamber of Commerce in 1922 and 1923. Other posts which he held were: Member of the State Board of Agriculture and State Fair Board, president of Civic Music League, vice president of Municipal Opera Association, director of the Symphony Society, vice president of Holstein-Friesan Association of Missouri and director of the national organization. He was a director of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co.

Mr. Vesper sold his home on the Meramec River, near the Mississippi, Fredmar Farms, in 1941, after having lived there much of the time for 15 years. He and Mrs. Vesper recently occupied an apartment at 625 Skinker boulevard.

In 1933, under the short-lived NRA, Mr. Vesper was code authority for the motor car dealers of the United States. His cattle-raising interests were extensive, and at one time he owned three of the seven champion Holstein-Friesan cows in the United States. He gave a $30,000 herd of cattle to the Missouri University School of Agriculture.

CHESS PRODIGY, 14, IN THIRD TRIUMPH OF WORLD TOURNEY

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Arturo Pomar, 14-year-old Spanish prodigy, scored his third triumph of the international chess tournament yesterday, forcing R. J. Boadbent of England to retire in 38 moves.

Playing off adjourned seventh round matches, Pomar lost to H. Golombek of England in 90 moves, while Arnold Denker of Forest Hills, N. Y., drew with W. Winter of England in 57 moves. A. Medina of Spain defeated P. Devos of Belgium in 27 moves in an eighth-round game.

ISAAC N. BROWN DIES; FUNERAL TO BE FRIDAY

Isaac N. Brown, president of the Brown Machinery Co. and head of the Althen Real Estate Co., died yesterday at Deaconess Hospital from heart disease. He was 72 years old and lived at 6649 Marquette avenue.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lella Davis Brown, three daughters, Miss Helen Brown, St. Louis; Mrs. Mildred Dower, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Catherine Schoening, 3658 Oxford avenue, Maplewood; two sons, David Brown, West Orange, N. J., and Dee F. Brown of the Marquette avenue address, and four sisters.

Funeral services will be Friday morning at the Robert J. Ambruster undertaking establishment, 6633 Clayton road, Clayton, at 9 o'clock, followed by burial at Hannibal, Mo.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER ARRIVES

Mrs. Vella Calvet da Rosa, instructor of English in a Brazilian teachers' college, arrived in St. Louis yesterday for a year's study of methods of instruction at Harris Teachers' College as winner of the Harris Teachers' College Alumni Association scholarship for South American scholars.

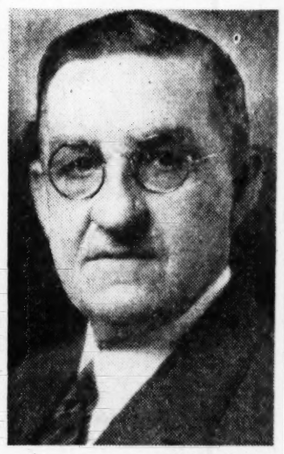

Mrs. da Rosa, whose transportation here was paid by the Brazilian government, has been a teacher for 15 years and was selected for the award by the Institute of International Education, New York. She is the second South American to receive the honor, which went last year to a teacher from Chile.

WIFE SUES ROBERT F. DENNY

Mrs. Robert F. Denny filed suit for divorce today in Circuit Court at Clayton. Denny is an architect. She alleged he had failed to support her and asked for alimony and custody of their child, Robert F. Denny Jr., 6 years old.

Mrs. Denny is the former Elizabeth Cook. They were married Jan. 7, 1938, and separated Jan. 1, 1945. They lived at 10025 Conway road, Ladue.

COMMITTEE SAID TO CHARGE RACE BIAS IN COLLEGES

Quoted as Asserting New Yorkers Are Discriminated Against in Admittance.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Times says the mayor's committee on unity, a group of 15 citizens headed by Charles Evans Hughes Jr. has prepared a report charging that residents of New York City are discriminated against by colleges and universities not only in New York but throughout the country.

The Times says the committee charged, after a two-year study, that such discrimination is directed especially against Jews, Catholics and Negroes.

"We have reason to believe that the situation has deteriorated rapidly in the last decade," said the committee's report.

"Almost without exception the non-sectarian private colleges and professional schools in New York City have established limitations on the percentage of students admitted from New York City in all their divisions.

"At the same time, out-of-town institutions accept very few New Yorkers on the grounds that they give priority to their local populations, and that they believe that New York City institutions should provide for the educational requests of its student population.

"As a consequence, all New Yorkers and especially Jews, Catholics and Negroes find themselves discriminated against both in the New York and out-of-town institutions."

The committee was named by former Mayor LaGuardia two years ago. Fannie Hurst, the novelist, is a member.

EVANGELICAL CHILDREN'S HOME CAMPAIGN OPENS

A campaign to raise $350,000 for expansion and modernization of the Evangelical Children's Home, 8240 St. Charles road, was opened last night at a dinner meeting of volunteer workers at Hotel De Soto. Advance gifts totaling $40,000 were announced by Edward H. Kuhs, general chairman of the drive.

Plans call for a new two-story building and a recreation hall, and modernization of the home's main building, built 68 years ago. The home is now caring for 120 children between the ages of 2 and 18.

Attending last night's meeting as guests of honor were Lt. Peter Thomas and his fiancee, Miss Irene Thomas, whom he met in England and brought to this country by air from London. Lt. Thomas lived at the Evangelical Children's Home from 1927 to 1935.

LT. COMDR. BASSETT GIVEN BRONZE STAR

Medical Officer Aided Wounded Men Under Attack in Pacific.

Lt. Comdr. Sam A. Bassett, former Navy medical officer, was decorated with the Bronze Star in ceremonies last week at Lambert-St. Louis Field. Comdr. Bassett was cited for resourcefulness and gallantry in administering to wounded men while under attack by enemy dive bombers, torpedo planes, suicide craft and surface gunfire during five major amphibious operations in the Pacific between September 1944 and April 1945. He recently was retired from active duty and has resumed medical practice. He lives at 1200 South Big Bend boulevard, Richmond Heights.

Cpl. Lawrence M. Brasier, an infantryman, was posthumously awarded the Bronze Star for heroic achievement in action against the enemy on Okinawa, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Brasier, 7705 Trenton avenue, University City, have been informed.

Under withering enemy fire, Cpl. Brasier voluntarily evacuated wounded soldiers, and remained at advanced positions although told to withdraw to an area of comparative safety.

Staff Sgt. Charles F. Knaus, gunner on a Flying Fortress, who was killed in action last March 30 when his plane was shot down over Germany, was awarded three Oak Leaf Clusters to the Air Medal posthumously in ceremonies Monday at Scott Field. His wife, Mrs. Jeanne Knaus, 5374 Delmar boulevard, accepted the decorations. The Purple Heart was given previously.

Lt. Col. Walter J. Cummins, Army Medical Administrative Corps, was awarded the Legion of Merit in recognition of his meritorious achievements in the operation of fiscal methods. Col. Cummins, who lives at 5604 Rhodes avenue, served in the Marines in World War I.

JULIEN BRYAN TO SHOW MOVIE AT TALK ON BOLIVIA TONIGHT

Color motion pictures made in Bolivian cities and jungles will be shown in a travel lecture by Julien Bryan at 8:30 o'clock tonight at Kiel Auditorium.

Bryan's pictures of Bolivian scenes include views of Lake Titicaca, the 14,000-foot plain Altiplano, and the cities of La Paz, Cochabamba, Sucre, and the ancient silver center of Potosi.

The films are the third in a series of travelogue movies of South American countries recently made by Bryan. His pictures of Paraguay and Colombia will be exhibited at later dates.

$1,967,596 PAID TO MISSOURI IN INHERITANCE TAXES IN '45

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 23 — State inheritance taxes collected on Missouri estates in 1945 totaled $1,967,579, an increase of $455,533 over the 1944 collections, State Treasurer Robert W. Winn announced today.

Estates in St. Louis, St. Louis County and Jackson County, including Kansas City, paid $1,589,284, or 80.7 per cent of the total. Collections of inheritance taxes in St. Louis totaled $855,731, St. Louis County, $453,697 and Jackson County, $279,856.

CONCORDIA SEMINARY CONCERT

The 90-voice Concordia Seminary chorus will present its forty-fourth annual concert at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Kiel Auditorium. The program will be under the direction of William B. Heyne. Miss Graziella Pampari, St. Louis Symphony Orchestra harpist, will be soloist.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

SEVERAL hundred guests, invited to a reception late yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond William Peters, 23 Carrswold, were told of the engagement of Miss Margaret Ray Peters, elder daughter of the host and hostess, to Dr. James Thomas Chamness, assistant resident in surgery at Barnes Hospital. Yesterday also marked the birthday anniversary of Mr. Peters, who made the announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. Peters, with their daughter and her fiance, standing before the fireplace in the long paneled living room, were assisted in receiving by Dr. Chamness' parents, Dr. and Mrs. Earl R. Chamness, whose home is in Carlinville, Ill. His brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Bourne Bean of Louisville, Ky., and Fort Lauderdale, Fla., came to St. Louis for the occasion.

The entire house was profusely decorated with flowers. Deep red Rome Glory roses, which matched the slipper satin dress worn by the propective bride, were arranged in spreading bouquets on the mantel back of the receiving line and on tables throughout the living and morning rooms. A terrace, inclosed in white and hung with huckleberry foliage, was done with spring flowers, as were the reception hall and library. In the dining room, where supper was served buffet style, the table was covered with lace and had for its centerpiece a long, silver-bordered mirror on which a crystal epergne filled with Joanna Hill roses, white lilacs, gardenias and mimosa, towered to the base of the crystal chandelier. A stringed orchestra played all evening.

After attending Mary Institute, Miss Peters was graduated from Westover School, Middlebury, Conn., and attended Bennett Junior College, Millbrook, N. Y., for one year. She made her debut Nov. 2, 1940, at a chrysanthemum ball at her parents' home, then in Clermont lane. Meanwhile she traveled both in this country and in Europe. She is a member of the Junior League.

During the war the bride-to-be was president of the Service Wives Center at Maryland and Euclid avenues, and was active in the Red Cross.

Sister of Miss Emelie Charlotte Peters and Raymond Turner Peters, Miss Margaret Ray is a granddaughter of Mrs. John E. Turner and the late Mr. Turner, and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick William Peters. She is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar F. Peters of St. Louis and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Peters of Miami Beach, Fla.

Dr. Chamness, who expects to be called soon to Army duty, was graduated in 1942 from Princeton University, and has a medical degree from University of Pennsylvania Medical School. His Princeton undergraduate club was Elm. As a doctor he belongs to Nu Sigma Nu, medical fraternity, William Pepper Medical Society, Hayes Agnew Surgical Society, and Alpha Omega Alpha, medical honorary. He is a member of the University Club of St. Louis.

The wedding will take place later this winter.

Maj. and Mrs. J. Russell Vaughan and their young daughter, Judy, are expected in St. Louis this weekend and will be with Maj. Vaughan's parents, Dr. and Mrs. John R. Vaughan, 8025 Watkins drive, Clayton, until they find quarters of their own.

The younger Vaughans are motoring from Santa Rosa, Calif., where Maj. Vaughan has been for three months. In the Army for more than three years, he spent a year and a half in India.

MISS BETTY MAE THOMAS and Carl Jewett Brock were married last night before a background of greenery interspersed with white flowers and tall candles at First Congregational Church. After the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ellis W. Hay, pastor, the bride's parents, Prof. Lewis F. Thomas of Washington University and Mrs. Thomas, 7556 Stanford avenue, gave a reception in the church parlors.

The bride was attended by Miss Maxine Kruth, maid of honor, and Miss Rose Witler, Miss Sarah Arpe and Miss Jane McCammon, bridesmaids. They wore gowns of transparent velvet, the honor attendant in deep fuchsia and the others in a lighter shade of the same color. The costumes had heart-shaped necklines, bracelet sleeves and circular peplums over full skirts. Headpieces were braided velvet coronets to match and bouquets were pale pink snapdragons.

A white brocaded satin gown embroidered with iridescent sequins was worn by the bride, whose tulle veil was fastened to a close-fitting brocaded satin bonnet. The full gathered skirt flared from a long-sleeved, molded bodice designed with a round neckline. The bride carried a bouquet of white gladiolos centered with white orchids.

The bridegroom, who made his home with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hooyer, 6660 Kingsbury boulevard had his brother, Eldon J. Brock, as best man. Ushers were Clifford Newby, William Herbert and Bradford Thomas.

Mrs. Thomas received in a light blue crepe gown with gold accessories. Mrs. Hooyer wore a chartreuse crepe gown and matching accessories. Their corsages were orchids.

The bride is a graduate of Washington University and a member of Pi Beta Phi, Mortar Board and P.E.O. Mr. Brock, son of Mrs. Roy McGrew of Minneapolis, attended Washington University, where he became a member of Phi Delta Theta. Recently discharged from the Army, he served two years in the Pacific. He and his bride will live in St. Louis after a honeymoon to New Orleans.

Mrs. Mark G. Magnuson Jr. and her young daughter, Laura, have gone to Cleveland, where they will join Mr. Magnuson, who has been there since last summer. While he was finding an apartment in Cleveland, Mrs. Magnuson, the former Miss Elise Gray, and her daughter stayed with her mother, Mrs. M. Stephens Gray, 155 North Bemiston avenue, Clayton. Mr. Magnuson, who visited here for several days last week, returned to Cleveland Sunday.

CHICAGO SYMPHONY WELL RECEIVED HERE

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra made its first appearance in St. Louis in many years when it played a concert last evening in Kiel Auditorium, under the auspices of the Civic Music League. The occasion drew something more than a capacity house and the program which, with one exception, consisted of old favorites was cordially received.

The orchestra played in its full strength of 101 members under the direction of its conductor Desire Defauw, and demonstrated through its discipline, its full-bodied tone and the high competence of its soloists that it was a first-class organization, well equipped to represent the second largest city in America. The string section however was its particular glory. The quality was rich and virile and the players demonstrated a capacity for flexibility which they were not always called on to express.

The most creditable and satisfying performance of the evening was the symphonic poem "Psyche" by Cesar Franck. This music is rather pretty in a way that might be described as refined but sensual. It leaves the impression, however, of a small design worked out on a big canvass. It was nicely modeled in the performance.

In the other three numbers, Mr. Defauw seemed to lose the main impulse fairly early in each performance, so much so that the music seemed constantly to be running down and starting up again. The effect of turning commas into periods is imperceptible in any given instance but when it occurs through the whole movement of a symphony, the line inevitably becomes flaccid and the great climaxes become meaningless, because they do not serve either as a release of tension or as a summation of antecedent details.

The passion and eloquence of Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony may be trying to those who have no tolerance for such frank exposures. But Tschaikowsky without eloquence is just a spate of sound without significance. Mr. Defauw's Tschaikowsky was certainly tame and passionless. Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel" also suffered from lack of tension and continuity.

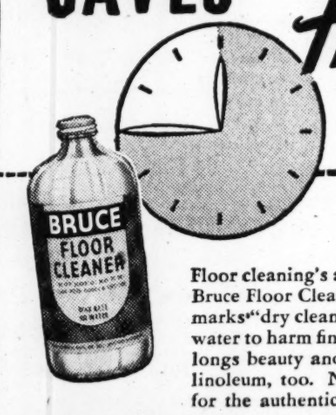

The concert opened with Beethoven's "Leonore" Overture No. 3. The truckers' strike, which made it impossible to move big pieces of baggage to the auditorium, also made it necessary for the orchestra to play in street clothes and to borrow some of the large instruments from the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

Flyers Tied for Third With Barons After Playing Hershey to Draw

Injuries Suffered By 2 Men

By Harold Flachsbart

The Flyers once again today were tightening their belts for a meeting with the Cleveland Barons at the Arena, Sunday night. Bouncel Taylor's men haven't lost a home game since the night of Dec. 19, but a few ties haven't exactly helped them in their bid for an American Hockey League playoff berth.

Right now they're tied with Cleveland for third place in the Western standings, each team having 38 points. And Cleveland plays two games at Pittsburgh before coming here, one tonight and another Saturday. So much as a tie in either start would put the Barons ahead of St. Louis.

Last night at the Arena while a crowd of 7402 fans took to heckling the officials in no uncertain terms, the Flyers kissed away a victory by twice failing to hold a lead over the rugged Hershey Bears, and the result was a 2-2 stalemate. It was the Flyers' third draw in their last five contests.

Pozzo First to Score.

A neat bit of combination play by Hec Pozzo and Dick Kowcinak gave the Flyers a score in the first six minutes. Pozzo had to make almost a full pivot with a round-house swing to sweep the disc into the mesh after taking Kowcinak's pass from the corner.

Kowcinak, incidentally, looks like a much-improved player over some of his early-season performances. He's always hustling, in the thick of the action, and his stick-handling has helped the Flyers out of many a tough situation.

Stan Robertson, a player the Flyers had in their Fall training camp but who got away from Coach Hap Emms, was the Hershey forward who tied the score in the final minute of the second period. There was a power drive on at the time, and out of the conglomeration of flying sticks and skates, Stan was at the goal mouth, waiting for a series of batted passes, with Big Jack Shewchuck and Gino Rozzini doing the batting.

A Goal by Inches.

It stayed 1-1 until the 12:57 mark of the final stanza, and then the Flyers scored what might be called a lucky goal. It also came during one of those helter-skelter rushes in which it was hard to follow the disc. Finally Fido Purpur drove it goalward, and the red light flashed. Some spectators saw the puck skim over the goal line (not more than an inch or two) without the goalie touching it. Hershey Coach Don Perniston claims his 19-year-old rookie goaltender, Red Henry, had the disc in his hand but in shaking it out of his glove, shook it over the line.

Henry was playing because Nick Damore, the Bears' top-ranking goalie in the league, was injured at Indianapolis Sunday.

Anyway, that gave the Flyers a 2-1 edge, with only about seven minutes to go. The Bears put on the heat, however, and they were benefitted when the Flyers' Roy Sawyer was waived to the cooler for a tripping offense in which nobody even fell down. (Sawyer later admitted he tripped a man).

Sawyer was just about ready to return to the ice when Rozzini caged the tying point for the Bears. He was assisted by Les Brennan and Robertson, and to goalie Hec Highton's credit, he didn't have a chance to stop it.

Referees Rough on Flyers.

All season long the Flyers have felt they've been getting short-changed on the league's officiating, and last night most press box observers agreed they had a squawk coming. The arbiters, Hugh McLean and Walton Russell, seemed to miss at least three or four Hershey infractions of the rules, while keeping their eyes open for lesser offenses on the part of the Flyers. Even in the matter of off-side calling, one whistle against the St. Louisans drew one of the loudest outbursts of disapproval from the fans this season.

Two players were injured, but apparently not seriously. Norm McAtee of the Flyers was struck in the temple by the disc in the first period, but was not cut. He couldn't resume action until late in the second stanza. In the first canto, Frank Mario of the Bears went down in a collision with Fred Hergert and had to be helped off the ice. An examining physician said no bones were broken in his left shoulder, but that Mario suffered a nerve injury which numbed his arm.

Eddie Brown Gets A Hand.

Biggest hand of the night went to Eddie Brown when he was introduced to the crowd between periods.

Brown's right eye was removed in New Haven following a playing accident.

"It sure feels good to be back in St. Louis," Eddie said, "and our team looks great. I think we'll make the playoffs."

The red-headed defenseman plans to start skating soon, to get the "feel" of the ice, and then hopes to resume playing hockey.

A deal between Hershey and New Haven was announced by the Bears in which they obtained Norm Larson from New Haven in exchange for Bill Cupolo and Bill Gooden.

Parnas Beats Parker, Takes Billiard Lead

Lou Parnas today held first place in the Ozark three-cushion billiard tournament as a result of a 30-27 victory over Al H. Barker at Plamore last night. Each had a high run of five.

Dan Neely and George Hall play tonight, starting at 7:30.

Cochran Again Heads District Golf Body; Tourney Dates Set

Golf tournaments here will return this summer with a full schedule for the first time since the start of World War II. Dates and sites for the events were set at a dinner meeting at Meadow Brook Country Club last night.

Topping the busy season, of course, will be the $10,000 Western open at Sunset, May 24, 25 and 26. It will be under the direction of Fred Dowd of Sunset, the district's first vice president.

District President Bob Cochran of Norwood and Meadowbrook said officials here would meet with the five officers of the Western Association Feb. 6 at Sunset to make the final plans for the $10,000 open.

Three amateur tournaments, abandoned during the war, will return. They are the District amateur at Algonquin, June 18 to 22, with Jack Berkley, chairman; the District junior at Glen Echo, July 8 to 12, with Lou Blair, chairman and the State amateur, site undetermined, June 4 to 8, with Elliott Whitbread, chairman.

Other tournaments will be continued. They include the high school tournament at Greenbriar the second week in June with Ernie Lyons in charge; the George Kuehner four-man team tournament at Westwood, May 5, with Sid Salomon and Earl Rosen, co-chairmen; the Cornie Schnecko two-man team tourney at Meadow Brook, May 12, with Joe Schneider in charge; St. Louis District open at Norwood, Sept. 21-22, Ben Heggeman, chairman; senior championship at Triple A, Sept. 29, Gus Ashley, chairman, and Herbert Simon champion of champions tourney at Triple A, Oct. 6, Julian Simon, chairman. Dates for an eight-man round-robin pro-amateur series will be selected later.

Lyons was commended for his work in promoting high school golf and presented with a fountain pen desk set.

Cochran was re-elected president, Fred Dowd of Sunset was retained as first vice president and Jim Benson as secretary-treasurer. Martin Larner was elected to fill a new office, second vice president. Those chosen for the Board of Directors are Sid LeGear of Sunset; Hord Hardin of Bellerive, Earl Rosen of Westwood, Jim Kearney Jr. of Algonquin, Ben Heggeman of Norwood and Lou Blair of Glen Echo.

Cuccinello to Retire; Reason Is Illness of Wife, Three Children

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Tony Cuccinello, who missed the 1945 American League batting title by one percentage point, decided today to retire from organized baseball because of a siege of illness in his family.

Released recently by the Chicago White Sox after batting .308 in 118 games last season when he was their regular third baseman, Cuccinello was forced to decline several minor league offers because of the illness of his wife and three children.

Caverns to Oppose Wood River Tonight

Height will prevail when the Meramec Caverns, Municipal League basketball champions for the past three years, oppose the undefeated American Legion team from Wood River at Bethany gymnasium tonight.

In a preliminary game at 7:30, the Zenthoefers, leaders in the Sunday Afternoon Girls' League, will oppose the second-place St. Louis Comets.

Three of Wood River's players are six-five. They are Ralph Pink, Earl Dodd and Gifford Roux. Guards Mervin Hendricks and Jim Ufert are six feet tall. Center Don Martin tops the Caverns at six-eight. Elmer Das is six-three, Dan Windle and John Tudor, six-one and Dave Goldberg is six feet tall.

The Caverns will depart Friday for Milwaukee where Saturday they will play the Allen-Bradley team.

Levi, Former Haskell Grid Star, Stabbed To Death in Denver

DENVER, Jan. 23 (AP)—John Thomas Levi, a 49-year-old Indian, tentatively identified by Detective Captain James E. Childers as a star of the famous 1923 Haskell Institute football team, was stabbed to death in a hotel room yesterday.

A 37-year-old woman was held for investigation.

He coached at Haskell and Chilocco Indian School. Childers said he also played professional football in New York.

Levi was employed by a Denver packing company.

Childers said the woman held for investigation told him the stabbing followed an argument. Other guests at the hotel heard the scuffle in Levi's room and called the police. Levi was taken to Denver General Hospital where he died within an hour.

No. 11 for the Irish.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 23 (AP)—Notre Dame's basketball team gained its eleventh straight victory last night by outlasting a Marquette quintet that lost three regulars on personal fouls, 69 to 67.

It was a battle of individual snipers. Forward Leo Klier hit nine field goals and four free throws for 22 of the Irish points and his teammate, center Vince Boryla, collected only one point less. Kenneth Wiesner, Marquette center, scored 20 points for the hilltoppers. Howard Kallenberger, Marquette forward, tallied 19.

Riggs Retains Pro Net Title, Beating Budge

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23 (AP)—Pint-sized Bobby Riggs successfully defended his world's professional tennis championship early today, outlasting red-haired Don Budge, 4-6, 8-6, 6-4, 9-7.

Sixty-five hundred fans were glued to their seats until well past midnight, watching the pair battle in a challenge match for the title Riggs won in a December tournament, clouded by an arm injury which left Budge impotent in the clinching set.

Budge's famed overhead smash was working to perfection as he walked off with the first set, and he had a 3-2 lead in the second when Riggs broke his service and pounded his way through five of the next six games.

It was Riggs' steadiness which won the set, as he repeatedly forced the lanky Oakland, Californian, into errors. The win came when he broke Budge's service on the eighth and tenth games.

The final set was one of the most dramatic ever contested here. Riggs had a 4-2 lead when a tiring Budge turned on the pressure to pull into a 5-4 lead. Then Riggs took two to lead 6-5, but Budge matched Bobby's efforts to go ahead, 7-6. It was then that Riggs really turned on the power. Returning nine out of 10 shots which looked like sure things for Budge, he ran out the set with three straight games. Budge staved off match point three times in the sixteenth game before going down.

In a preliminary, Fred Perry trimmed the old master, Bill Tilden, 6-4, 6-3.

Jerry Walterscheid Boys' Club President

Jerry Walterscheid, a St. Louis U. High School senior, was elected president of the Boys' Club recently. He succeeds acting president Robert Edwards, who filled the vacancy when Charles Dresner entered the Navy last year.

Tom McKenzie was elected vice president and Joe Bergmann, secretary, two past presidents were voted to the council of seven. They are Thomas Kreps, S1-c USN, now at Lambert Field and William Fletcher, a discharged Army veteran who served overseas for 27 months. Two others named are Oswald Pasqual, a discharged USAAF cadet and William Doyle.

The club, founded in 1938, has a roster of 128 boys. It is under the direction of Brother Philip G. Malone, S.J.

Cops Copped This One.

Led by Russ (Red) Morrow, who accounted for 34 points, the St. Louis Police basketball team defeated Oak Hill Presbyterian five last night, 63-42. The Police team is looking for games. Call Detective Frank Ruff, CEntral 1212, Station 822.

"Hall of Fame" Poll Fails Again To Add a Player

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—For the second straight year members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America have failed to agree on any one candidate for election to baseball's Hall of Fame, the association announced yesterday.

Despite a new method of voting this year, not one of 21 diamond greats was able to command the necessary 75 per cent of the total ballots to have his name placed alongside those of Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, Christy Mathewson, Hans Wagner, and other famous stars in baseball's shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y.

As in the previous balloting held last winter, Frank Chance, first sacker and manager of the Chicago Cubs in the early 1900s, received the most votes, but once again he failed to make the grade by a slim margin. Needing 197 of the 263 votes cast to be elected, Chance could garner only 150 votes. In the 1945 voting, Chance needed 186 votes but was seven short with 179.

Close behind him in second place was Johnny Evers, another former Cub hero who with Joe Tinker and Chance formed the almost legendary double play combination of Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance. Evers received 110 votes, but Tinker could place no better than fifteenth with 45 votes.

Miller Huggins, former second baseman of the Cincinnati Reds and St. Louis Cardinals, but better known to modern day fans as manager of the great New York Yankee combines of 1921-1928, and Ed Walsh, famous spitball pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, were tied for third with 106 votes apiece.

A trio of great hurlers came next. Rube Waddell, eccentric portsider who fanned a record 343 American League batters for Connie Mack's White Elephants in 1904, received 87 votes. Clark Griffith, 78-year-old owner of the Washington Senators, received 82 votes and Carl Hubbell, the screwball artist of the New York Giants, placed seventh with 75 votes.

Rounding out the first 21 who survived the elimination ballot were: Frank Frisch (67), Mickey Cochrane (65), Lefty Grove (61), Pie Traynor (53), Mordecai Brown (48), Joe McGinnity (47), Dizzy Dean (45), Joe Tinker (45), Frank Baker (36), Chief Bender (35), Bill Dickey (32), Rabbit Maranville (29), Charley Gehringer (23) and Herb Pennock (16).

Gustafson vs. Kampfer In Main Event on Tonight's Mat Program

Promoter Sam Muchnick tonight at Kiel Auditorium offers his third wrestling program since his discharge from the Army, and a five-bout program is headed by a return go between Cliff Gustafson, protege of Ed "Strangler" Lewis, and Hans Kampfer, German strong man.

Gustafson and Kampfer wrestled to a 45-minute draw on Muchnick's last card, but this time there will have to be a winner, for the contest is one fall to a finish.

Gustafson will have in his corner tonight his coach and manager Lewis.

Ray Steele, who won his season's debut against Gene Bowman, returns to meet Roy Dunn, in the semifinal bout.

THE WRESTLING CARD.

FEATURE BOUT—Cliff Gustafson, 235, Gonvick, Minn., vs. Hans Kampfer, 235, New York. One fall to a finish.

SEMIWINDUP—Ray Steele, 225, St. Louis, vs. Roy Dunn, 230, Englewood, Kan., 30-minute time limit.

"I'm Aiming for Fourth or Fifth Place," Says Phillies' President

Carpenter, Just Out of Army, Says Club Has 'a Hot Deal' On—Five Infielders Have Been Purchased.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23 (AP)—Ex-GI Bob Carpenter, president of the Philadelphia Phillies, flashed his bankroll today in hopes of enticing "several good players our way" because, he says, "I'll go crazy if the Blue Jays finish last in 1946."

"We want to buy players," Carpenter emphasized. "That's plural. No one player would do us a lot of good. We have several spots to fill."

And the Phils, inhabitants of the National League cellar for more years than any other single club, have shown signs they intend crawling out of the basement.

"I'm aiming for fourth or fifth place," Carpenter says.

Already the Blue Jays have purchased a complete new infield.

General Manager Herb Pennock yesterday announced purchase of Jim Tabor, slugging Boston Red Sox third basemen. The price was not disclosed, but insiders said it was "above $25,000." Previously the Phils acquired First Baseman Frank McCormick (Cincinnati Reds), Roy Hughes, Chicago Cubs second sacker, and Shortstops Skeeter Newsome (Red Sox) and Joe O'Neill (Portland).

"That's only the beginning of our buying," observed the youthful Phils president, discharged last Saturday from the Army. He intimated "a hot deal" was on for two other players whom he refused to identify.

In addition, he said the Phillies intend adding a triple A team to the club's farm system within another year, preferably in the International League.

McQuinn Signs With Mack.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics announced yesterday that George McQuinn, star first baseman acquired from the St. Louis Browns, had signed his 1946 contract, thus wiping out all doubts whether he would play. Terms were not disclosed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Mickey Haefner, diminutive southpaw, yesterday became the first of the Washington Senators' regular pitching staff to sign his 1946 contract.

Last season Haefner won 16 games and lost 14 for the second-place Senators. Three other regulars signed are Buddy Lewis and Cecil Travis, infielders, and Jake Early, catcher.

N. L. Tourists Back Home.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23 (AP)—A squad of National League baseball players returned yesterday from an 18,000-mile tour of Pacific War Areas and 22 exhibition games played before an estimated 223,000 spectators. The trip was sponsored jointly by the Army and USO and was made entirely by air, beginning in New York Dec. 12.

Games were played in Honolulu, Kwajalein, Guam, Manila, Batangas, and San Fernando on Luzon. The touring players won 17 of the contests.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23 (AP)—Two more Pittsburgh Pirates have returned from the armed forces and are ready to resume play next season.

They are Jim Hopper, right-hand pitcher of Charlotte, N. C., bought from Toronto in 1943 after winning 15 games and losing nine with an earned run average of 2.63; and infielder Pete Castiglione of Greenwich, Conn., purchased from Harrisburg of the Interstate League in 1942.

33 Yanks to Go to Panama.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—So ex-servicemen may have every chance to round into condition before the baseball season opens, the New York Yankees will send a squad of 33 players under Manager Joe McCarthy to Panama on Feb. 9 for three weeks of intensive preliminary training.

Most of the club's top stars, such as Joe DiMaggio, Joe Gordon, Phil Rizzuto, Tommy Henrich, Marius Russo and Buddy Hassett, who have just shed their uniforms, will be on the squad that will fly from Miami.

Beginning Feb. 21 the squad will play 11 games against the United States Army All-Stars and teams from the Canal Zone League and the Panama Professional League. After the game of March 3 it will fly back to Miami and join another group which will have been in training at St. Petersburg.

President Larry MacPhail of the Yankees said he decided on Panama after a study of weather charts which showed that little rain could be expected in the Canal Zone in February.

EX-SGT. BOB CARPENTER, back on the job as president of the Phillies, is spending plenty of money in an effort to make good in baseball's most difficult task—that of making a contender out of a tail-ender. Carpenter yesterday bought hard-hitting Jim Tabor from the Red Sox to play third base. Frank McCormick, Roy Hughes, Skeeter Newsome and Joe O'Neill are other newly-purchased Phillie infielders.

East St. Louis Beats Wood River, Ties for Lead

Giessing Is Scoring Star For Victors

By Harold Tuthill

Pick Dehner's East St. Louis Flyers today find themselves sharing the lead with Collinsville in the Southwestern Illinois conference as a result of their 42 to 31 triumph over Wood River last night at Ainad Temple.

The Flyers gained their eighteenth basketball triumph of the season against one loss and pulled up to a first place tie in the league with Colinsville, each with a 5-1 record. It was also their seventh consecutive victory since they were bumped off by Alton, 57 to 45. East St. Louis, victorious over Collinsville last week, will not meet the Kahoks again until Feb. 12.

Collinsville last night lost at Staunton, 33 to 32.

Herb Giessing, with 16 points and Ken Miller with 10, paced the East St. Louis scoring, while Dick Erzen was high for Wood River with 13.

Beaumont a Victor.

Elsewhere in the district, South Side Catholic suffered its second straight defeat at the hands of a Public High School League representative, the Green Dragons bowing to Beaumont, 28 to 23, on the South Side floor. The other Preparatory League team in action, St. Louis U. High, had an easy time walloping Soldan, 48 to 19.

Central's 46 to 21 decision over North Side and Southwest's 46 to 35 loss to Webster Groves gave the city teams an even break for the evening.

In a Catholic League game, Chaminade traveled to Coyle and won, 56 to 39, to gain its fourth league victory against no defeats. Meanwhile, St. Peter's, former shareholder of the Catholic lead, shaded Ferguson, 38 to 37, in nonleague competition.

Freeman Has Big Night.

Other county teams had varying success. Jim Freeman of Wellston accounted for six of his team's seven field goals as the Trojans bowed to Normandy, 37 to 22. Brentwood, with Ray Webster's 14 points setting the pace, nosed out Affton, 33 to 30. Eureka barely beat Bayless, 33 to 32; Valley Park trounced Hillsboro, 55 to 28; Berkeley defeated Jennings, 34 to 28, and Riverview Gardens bowed at Principia Academy, 25 to 16.

Madison, cellar-dweller of the Southwestern conference, dropped a 47 to 29 decision to Dupo.

The leading scorers yesterday:

Villhard, Val. Park	19	Erzen, Wood River	13
W. Mirth, Central	18	Barnes, Webster	13
Fischer, St. Peter's	17	Jack, Jennings	12
Giessing, E. St. L.	16	Stephens, Webster	12
Durbin, Chaminade	16	Alexander, Fere'son	12
Hulverson, Ch'inade	15	Lehman, Beaumont	12
Freeman, Wellston	14	Miller, Dupo	12
McGraw, Eureka	14	Reilly, Coyle	12
Ficklin, Bayless	14	Hofer, Ferguson	11
Bangert, Berkeley	14	Etzkorn, Coyle	11
Webster, Brentw'd	14	Finley, Normandy	11
West, Valley Park	14	McLain, Eureka	11

Mucha Signs Contract.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Rudy Mucha, former University of Washington center and a veteran of 44 months service in the Navy, has signed to play with the Chicago Bears next season, Owner-Coach George Halas announced yesterday. Mucha played quarterback for the Cleveland Rams in 1941 and entered service shortly after Pearl Harbor. He was purchased from the Rams by the Bears last season.

Hall of Fame Vote Just Another Dud.

THERE must be something wrong with the Cooperstown, N. Y., Hall of Fame system of choosing baseball men to be honored . . . Our Baseball Writers' Association again has labored hard, and again has produced a dud. . . . None of 21 eligibles was given enough votes to meet the 75 per cent requirement. . . . The same thing happened last year, and the same man again missed being honored—Frank Chance, the great right-hand first baseman of the Cubs and their "Peerless Leader" in the glamorous days of "Tinker, to Evers, to Chance."

This year the balloting was according to a new plan. . . . This time the baseball writers held a preliminary vote to weed out the lower bracket availables, leaving only 21 for the final vote. . . . That plan also having failed, what's to be done now to break the stymie?

There occurs to this writer three ways in which this might be accomplished, namely:

1—Decrease the number of eligibles allowed to survive the preliminary vote.

2—Reduce the percentage required to merit the award (now 75 per cent).

3—Name a writers' fact-finding committee to look up the merits of all players eligible and empowered to select ten to be voted on.

Fewer Eligibles, or Lower Percentage?

OUR GUESS would be that lowering the number of eligibles would be better than reducing the percentage requirement. . . . The committee could weed out the men named merely because of local sentiment, could discriminate better as to whether to submit names of pioneer players or more modern ones, and could distinguish as to what players it seemed more timely to nominate.

There's one merit about the present system of naming duds. . . . It's not likely that the Hall of Fame award will be cheapened by overstocking the place.

There exists at present a special committee that could step in and take over. . . . It is a standing committee, empowered to make selections on its own authority. . . . This already has been exercised in several instances. . . . And perhaps—this is suggestion No. 4—the powers of this committee could be enlarged so that it can take over the sole task of selecting players to be honored.

The Racing Commission of New York has not yet rendered a verdict on the appeal of the suspended racing trainer "Atomizer" Tom Smith. . . . Smith supposedly authorized the use of ephedrine sprayed into the nostrils of his racers, as a stimulant. . . . Probably it's a case of who put the atom in the atomizer.

"I am all for stimulating public interest in horse racing," writes Marty Berg in Sportsweek. . . . How about trying a little snort of ephedrine on them, Marty?

Since the fashion grows for these How-High-Is-the-Sky basketball teams, ambitious cage players also are seeking a stimulant for the pituitary gland. . . . This seems to be stretching things a little too far.

Missed Again

FRANK CHANCE, former first-baseman and "Peerless Leader" of the old-time Cubs, who for the second successive time barely missed being voted a place in the Cooperstown (N.Y.) Baseball Hall of Fame.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the G-men, has been suggested as a national commissioner for racing. . . . If and when, Edgar, come and bring all your FBI. . . . Looks like you may need 'em.

Money No Object In Baseball World.

"MONEY no object," is the slogan in the baseball world. . . . A few additional ciphers, more or less, to the left of the decimal point, don't seem to scare club owners this year. . . . That $175,000 the Giants paid for Walker Cooper started the big stuff. . . . Then came the Bob Feller $50,000-a-year salary contract, largest ever written for a pitcher and likely to be tops in both leagues this year. . . . Dick Wakefield recently signed, and it was known that he was asking $45,000 a season. . . . Perhaps wartime finances have gone to the conks of some of our sports promoters.

But probably the worst is yet to come. . . . Classful players are being sold for plump figures. . . . One New York writer estimates that if all the deals Sam Breadon is said to have on the iron are completed at rumor figures, the Cardinals will have about $700,000 in the treasury before the season begins. . . . Mentioned in the rumor marts were Marty Marion, Harry Brecheen, Whitey Kurowski, Terry Moore and others of Breadon's army of major league talent that is now being swelled by the return of discharged veterans.

That $700,000 is ridiculous, Breadon says. . . . But there is little doubt that considerable cash will be realized from player sales, in addition to the $205,000 already paid in for Cooper and Jimmy Brown.

The big tax bite Uncle Sam takes out of profits is one answer to the high prices that are being paid. . . . Club owners naturally would rather spend money that otherwise would go out as super taxes for players or park improvements.

However liberal-minded the magnates may be, it is still unlikely that this star-spangled post-war baseball year will equal the peacetime records both as to player prices and salary peaks. . . . The $80,000-a-year salary paid to Babe Ruth for two seasons and the $250,000 that Tom Yawkey paid for Joe Cronin will hardly be equaled.

Bill to Require Warrant to Halt Auto for Game

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 23—A bill in some respects strengthening and in others weakening the enforcement of game and fish laws by the State Conservation Commission was introduced in the Senate today by a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Agriculture.

The bill meets a request by the commission that a statute be enacted specifically making violation of the commission's rules and regulations a misdemeanor. Since its creation nearly nine years ago the commission has been compelled to proceed under a general penalty statute enacted for the enforcement of the old game and fish laws.

This statute has been upheld by the Supreme Court as applicable to violation of the commission's rulings, but in some jurisdictions State Circuit Courts have been ruling to the contrary, notwithstanding the Supreme Court decision.

Under the bill as introduced, the commission's agents will not be permitted to establish road blocks for the inspection of automobiles to check bag limits, the bill requiring that search and seizure may be conducted only on search warrants. Obviously such warrants could not be obtained for general use.

Senator William H. Robinett, chairman of the subcommittee, said that he would not object to an amendment permitting search without warrant of vehicles when there was outward evidence, such as guns, dogs or fishing tackle to indicate the occupants had been fishing or hunting.

INTELLIGENCE SETUP IS REBUFF TO BYRNES'S AID

success of the new organization. He must be a broad-visioned man of considerable administrative ability, wide intellectual experience and great tact. In the words of a cabinet officer, he should make his work "a truly silent service." One of the criticisms of Col. McCormack was that he broadcast the general details of his recommendations to Secretary of State Byrnes.

A more fundamental criticism of Col. McCormack's recommendations was that he minimized the need for a central office with an adequate staff to evaluate and distribute the information obtained by various departmental intelligence agencies. He boasted that his plan called for an expenditure of only $6,000,000 a year. He said that he did not contemplate more than 40 or 50 persons in the central office. Obviously if the specific information of the various agencies were to be fitted into the jig-saw puzzle of a comprehensive picture of any one country or region, a larger central staff would be necessary.

White House Plan.

The White House plan will permit the establishment of an adequate central secretariat, if the right director is found. The presidential directive stated that the director should "plan for the coordination of such of the activities of the intelligence agencies of your (state, war and navy) departments as relate to the national security and recommend to the national intelligence authority the establishment of such over-all policies and objectives as will assure the most effective accomplishment of the national intelligence mission."

The directive also stated that the information obtained by the various intelligence agencies "shall be freely available to the director for correlaton, evaluation or dissemination." This takes care of situations in which the Army and Navy declined to supply secret information to other intelligence agencies.

Under this set up, the National Intelligence Authority will be the policy making body, and the director, with his central Intelligence group, will be the operational organization.

As recommended by Gen. Donovan, the President said that "no police, law enforcement or internal security functions shall be exercised under this directive," and that "nothing herein shall be construed to authorize the making of investigations inside the Continental limits of the United States and its possessions, except as provided by law and presidential directives."

cial thinking. If the national struggle between labor and industry results in a defeat, or even a severe setback for the CIO, these men will be replaced. They will be replaced, moreover, by the extremists of the left, who do not accept our system's premises.

To weaken the labor movement for a little while, at the expense of installing the most extremist type of labor leadership, seems a poor bargain for any industrialist.

NAZI WAR FLEET DIVIDED BY U. S., BRITAIN, RUSSIA

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Remnants of the German fleet have been divided among the victorious Big Three—Britain, Russia and the United States.

"Operable surface units" of the Nazi navy, amounting to 1759 vessels, together with 30 submarines, are being split up on a share and share alike basis, a three-power communique said last night.

The action leaves Germany without the vestige of a combat fleet. A British source said the German merchant fleet would be divided up later, although fishing vessels will not be taken.

Involved in the split-up were two cruisers, 30 destroyers and torpedo boats, 48 torpedo ships and 1679 other units, including mine sweepers and harbor patrol boats. All of Germany's battleships were sunk during the war and the British disclosed last night that 100 surrendered German U-boats were scuttled last November.

Each nation will receive 10 submarines and the other vessels will be distributed as follows:

United States—The 10,000-ton cruiser Prinz Eugen, seven destroyers and torpedo boats, 12 depot ships and 560 other units. The Eugen already is en route to the United States.

Russia—The 6000-ton cruiser Nuernberg, 10 destroyers and torpedo boats, 15 depot ships, and 507 other units.

Britain—Thirteen destroyers and torpedo boats, 21 depot ships and 612 other units.

Negotiations are under way on the United Kingdom's offer to transfer to the French some of the units allotted to Britain, the British announced.

The decision to divide the German navy was reached at the Potsdam conference, the communique said, and a tripartite naval commission appointed to implement the decision recently submitted its report.

Oil Station Man Held Up.

Louis Lazaar, a filling station attendant at 5120 Natural Bridge avenue, reported to police he was held up and robbed of $85 last night. Lazaar said the robber forced him at pistol point to turn over the cash.

Louis and Conn Agree on Winner---Their Uncle Sam

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 23 (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis got together with contender Billy Conn here for some strictly practical talk—the size of the gate for their June 19 title match, the size of their "cut," and the (groan) size of their income tax.

Louis was here touring with Luis Russell's band. Billy the Kid was taking time off from his Hot Springs, Ark., training camp for a visit with his family.

Disposing of the amenities, Conn got down to cases and asked Joe what he thought the gate would be and "how much will we get."

"I don't know but it should be big, very big," Louis considered. "The last time I talked with Mike Jacobs he told me they had over 10,000 tickets on order for the fight. That's a lot of tickets sold for five months before the fight."

"It sure is," returned Conn. "I hope Uncle Sam leaves us a little of that dough after he gets his, but I don't think so. You and I can stick all we get in one pocket, eh, Joe?"

"Yeah, I've been reading where you're worried about your income tax," replied the champion. "It don't help none to worry about it."

"I'm not the only one worrying," shot back Billy. "Uncle will get you for a pretty good chunk, too, and maybe leave you a few thousand."

"I guess we won't get much," conceded the Brown Bomber, "but what we do get will be that much more than what we weren't getting while we were in the Army, Bill."

Joe said he would be through band touring Jan. 28 and will await orders from Jacobs on when to start training.

Billy said he would return to Hot Springs sometime next week.

As the two parted, Billy remarked to a reporter:

"Joe's such a nice guy, but I'll have to whip him next June. I want that title."

Maj. Gen. Phelan, Former Chairman of New York Boxing Board Is Dead

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Maj. Gen. John J. Phelan, New York National Guard, retired, and a member of the New York State Athletic Commission, died in Polyclinic Hospital last night. Phelan, who was 73, had been in ill health for some time.

He was a member of the state commission almost from the time the Walker law legalized boxing in New York in 1920. He succeeded James J. Farley, who later became Postmaster General, as chairman of the commission in 1933.

Phelan was chairman until last year when Gov. Dewey appointed Eddie Eagan to the post. In a surprise move the Governor retained Phelan, a Democrat, as a member of the commission.

His son, Lt. Col. John J. Phelan Jr. was killed in action on the Italian front last April

Bivins Kayos Haynes.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23 (AP)—Jimmy Bivins, Cleveland Negro heavyweight contender, stopped Los Angeles' Johnny Haynes in the second round here last night.

Bivins belted Haynes to the canvas six times in the opening round for counts ranging from four to nine. A right uppercut after 55 seconds of fighting in the second ended the fight.

Haynes came in at 216, while Bivins weighed 187. The fight was scheduled for 10 rounds.

GENERAL MARKET REBOUND ON GOOD VOLUME OF TRADE

Belief by Some That Industry Will Get Price Increases, Easing Labor Situation, Cited.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Utilities, steels, rails, rubbers and a majority of industrials advanced fractions to around 2 points in stepped-up dealings on today's stock market.

Electric Power & Light, United Corp., Columbia Gas and Commonwealth & Southern were active and higher in the low-priced utility group. Standard Oil (N.J.) and Texas Co., were off in the oil section.

National Distillers and Distillers Corp., made substantial gains but Schenley declined after yesterday's sharp rise on news of a proposed 10-for-7 stock splitup.

Dealings were slow at times but volume of 2,640,000 shares was considerably higher than yesterday's 1,530,000.

Factors Behind Rebound.

The market was broader than yesterday's.

Of the 996 issues traded in today, 727 were higher, 141 lower and 128 unchanged. Ninety-five made new 1945-46 highs and two new 1945-46 lows.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed up .7 of a point at 78.1.

Part of the bullishness stemmed from a belief in some financial sectors that industry would be granted price increases to compensate for higher wages and thus end current widespread labor controversies.

Also it was felt the list was in a healthier condition now after selloffs in the past few days from recent consistent advances to 15-year highs.

Gaining near the close were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Goodrich, Montgmery Ward, Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case, Douglas, Aviation Corps., American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, du Pont, American, Westinghouse, Northern Pacific, Santa Fe and Calumet Hecla.

Trade on the Curb.

Ahead in the curb were Colonial Airlines, American Gas & Electric and E. W. Bliss.

As the nation's steel strike moved into its third day and began to be felt in many associated industries, shareholders weighed this statement from the trade magazine "Iron Age":

"Reports have been current that a 'bait' of $6 a ton (in steel price advances) in an attempt to assure acceptance of Mr. Truman's 18.5 cents hourly wage increase has been talked over."

It was observed that this figure would compare with the $2.50 a ton rise on which Price Administrator Chester Bowles once stood, an increase of $4 said formerly to have been approached by the administration and $7 asked by the industry.

News in the Market.

Holders of Utilities noted the Edison Electric Institute's report that electric energy output for the week ended Jan. 19 was 4,150,000,000 kilowatt hours, down 9.8 per cent from the preceding week and off 9.6 from the like period of 1945.

LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO NET $4.30 LAST YEAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., reported today for 1945 net income of $14,938,836, equal to $4.30 a common share, after preferred dividend requirements, compared with $14,793,459, or $4.25 a share, in 1944.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—The United States Lines reported estimated consolidated net profit for 1945 of $2,089,000 equal to $1.52 a common share compared with $1,383,589 (excluding non-recurring items) or to 97 cents a common share in 1944.

The 1945 estimated earnings included a non-recurring net profit of $660,000 realized from sale of securities and other assets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—Manhattan Shirt Co., reported for year ended Nov. 30 net income of $481,158 equal to $2.31 a share compared with $509,986 or $2.45 a share in 1944.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—American Distilling Co. reported for the quarter ended Dec. 31 net profit, after charges and taxes, of $497,542, equal to $1.99 a common share, against $282,060, or $1.13 a share in the preceding year. In addition the company had a non-recurring net profit, after deducting capital gains tax, of $1,578,000 from sale of capital stock of an affiliated company. This resulted in a total credit to earned surplus for the 1945 quarter of $2,075,542, equal to $8.30 a share.

Servel, Inc., reported for the year ended Oct. 31 net profit of $1,464,680, equal to 69 cents a common share compared with $1,663,730 or 96 cents a share in 1944.

KAISER-FRAZER STOCK PRICE SET AT $20.25

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser, chairman of the board of the Kaiser-Frazer Corp., a new automobile concern, announced a price of $20.25 per share for 1,800,000 additional shares of common stock had been approved by the Securities and Exchange Commission effective at noon Wednesday.

The new stock thus will be issued below the current over-the-counter price of the corporation's first issue, which was launched at $10 a share, but closed Tuesday at $23 bid, and $24 asked.

Withdraw Ohio Registration.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 23 (AP)—Otis and Co. of Cleveland, underwriters for 1,800,000 shares of Kaiser-Frazier Corp. common stock approved today by the securities and exchange commission, said the issue was "heavily oversubscribed within an hour after the books were opened."

"Because of a difference between our counsel and the Ohio State Securities division, and heavy interest in the issue throughout other parts of the country, we withdrew our application to register the stock in Ohio," a company spokesman said.

Monsanto Chemical Dividends.

Monsanto Chemical Co. declared a dividend of 50 cents, payable March 1, to holders Feb. 9. The regular semi-annual dividend on preferred stock of $2.25 on Series A and Series B and $2 on Series C were also declared, payable June 1, to stockholders of record May 10.

St. Louis Car Preferred Dividend

St. Louis Car Company directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock, payable Feb. 1 to holders Jan. 26.

DIVIDEND MEETING RESULTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Associated Dry Goods Corp. announced a dividend of 45 cents on common stock payable March 1 to holders of record Feb. 8. Previous payments in 1945 were 35 cents each in December and September, and 25 cents each in June and March.

Directors of Servel, Inc., announced that no dividend was declared on the common stock Tuesday because of future uncertainties. Previous quarterly payments were 25 cents. However, a regular quarterly dividend of $1.12½ was declared on the company's $4.50 preferred stock payable April 1 to holders of record March 12.

CAPITAL MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—Underwriters headed by the First Boston Corp., and Blyth & Co., Inc., publicly offered today 162,500 shares of Dallas Railway & Terminal Co., $20 par, common stock at $23.25 a share. Proceeds will go to Electric Power & Light Corp., the parent company, which thereby divests itself of all Dallas Railway & Terminal common stock.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP) — Another modest but general advance took place in today's bond market with secondary rails the most active and progressive group.

Gains at the start of the final hour ranged from fractions to more than a point and included bonds of the Chicago Great Western, Chicago and Eastern Illinois, Rock Island, St. Paul and Missouri Pacific.

Commonwealth Edison convertible 3½s dropped 6⅞ points near the close on sale of a block of six bonds at 131¾. The break followed news the company planned to retire any bonds not converted into common stock in the prescribed ratio by March 4.

Rails continued steady in late dealings. Lehigh Valley 4½s were up a point at 66 and Michigan Central 4½s improved 1½ at 107.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Closing prices on a representative list of bonds traded in on the New York Stock Exchange today follow:

MAY RYE ABOVE $2 MARK FIRST TIME IN 25 YRS.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Grain futures advanced sharply today in active buying, with May rye passing $2 a bushel for the first time in 25 years and May oats reaching the 81-cent ceiling.

May rye occasionally was up around the 5-cent daily limit, while wheat and oats climbed more than a cent at times.

Bullish influences included strong demand and tight supply of cash grains, traders belief that ceiling levels now affecting everything but May rye might be raised, and reports that Belgium is in the market for about 875,000 bushels of domestic oats. Some buying also was to obtain some deliveries of grain before they hit ceiling levels, traders said.

Rye closed unchanged to 3½ cents higher than the previous finish, May, $2.00½@⅝; wheat was unchanged to ⅞c up, May, $1.80½; corn was unchanged at $1.18½ ceilings; oats were ahead ¼ to ⅝c, May, 81c, and barley was unchanged to ⅛c higher, May, $1.22½.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Jan. 23—There were no sales of cash grain made today.

LOCAL GRAIN RECEIPTS.

Local grain receipts today were: Wheat, eight cars; corn, 31; oats, eight; soybeans, three.

COTTON EXCHANGE DOUBLES MARGIN RATE ON TRADES

Action Follows Advance of March Contracts to 25.02 Cents, Highest Since 1928.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Cotton futures today took the announcement of the doubling of margin requirements without a flurry and moved into new high territory for the season.

Quotations at the close were 10 cents to $1.05 a bale higher.

After a strong opening, prices dipped for a time, but more than regained ground, spurred by OPA Administrator Bowles' assurance price ceilings on raw cotton would be set only after consulting representative growers.

Cotton belt Congressmen met in Washington to discuss the threat and set up a "watchdog committee" to ride herd on OPA.

The New York Cotton Exchange's board of governors ordered margin requirements raised, effective tomorrow, from $5 to $10 a bale, with an additional $5 a bale for each 1 cent increase above the 25 cent a pound level.

Traders said this hike would be met without difficulty by most of them, and ascribed today's bidding up to belief the OPA ceiling price would not be set, and to some shifting of interest from stocks to cotton when the securities margin requirement was raised to 100 per cent.

Exchange action followed quotation of March contracts at 25.02 cents a pound yesterday, the highest on futures since May, 1928, when contracts sold at 25.07 cents.

William H. Koar, president of the exchange, announced at opening of trading today that margin requirements will be raised from $5 to $10 a bale, effective tomorrow.

For each one cent increase in price level above 25 cents a pound, Koar said, there will be an additional $5 a bale hike in margin requirements.

Koar said the requirements brought the cotton exchange "in line with action on margins in the stock exchange and other markets and was initiated on the independent action of the board of managers."

8,027,468 Bales Cotton Ginned.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Census Bureau reported today that 8,027,168 bales of cotton from the 1945 crop was ginned prior to Jan. 16.

COTTON 10C TO $1.05 A BALE HIGHER AT CLOSE

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—The cotton market advanced into a new seasonal high ground today on a statement by Administrator Bowles that no final decision has yet been reached on the question of a 1946 cotton crop ceiling and that growers would be consulted in determining any maximum price.

Following a firm opening the market slumped 85 cents a bale from the best levels of the day but subsequently rallied to a new high.

The doubling of margin requirements on futures trading, announced by the board of managers of the New York cotton exchange had little effect on the market and it was not believed this action would materially affect the volume of trading.

Late afternoon prices were 20 cents a bale lower to 60 cents higher. March 24.97c, May 24.96c and July 23.97c.

Futures closed 10 cents to $1.05 a bale higher.

NATION'S POWER PRODUCTION DOWN 9.8 PCT. FOR WEEK

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—The electric energy output for the week ended Jan. 19 in the United States was 4,150,000,000 kilowatt hours, the Edison Electric Institute announced today.

This was a decline of 9.8 per cent from the previous week, and of 9.6 per cent from the corresponding week in 1945.

The greatest decline was in the central industrial division, down 14.3 per cent from last year and 12 per cent from a week ago. The only increase was reported in the Rocky Mountain area, a jump of 6.2 per cent.

Other drops from a year ago were Pacific Coast, 12.4 per cent; southern states, 10.5 per cent; mid-Atlantic, 4.6 per cent; New England, 3.1 per cent, and west central, 1.8 per cent.

FIRST DESCRIPTION OF BLIND BOMBING RADAR 'YARDSTICK'

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Stuart W. Seeley of the Radio Corporation of America described for the first time yesterday the new radar yardstick—Shoran — which he said can measure distance up to 250 miles with almost pinpoint accuracy.

Seeley, inventor of the device, said Shoran was used in blind bombing late in the war. In a paper at the American Institute of Electrical Engineers' convention, Seeley said that because of its accuracy in taking measurements, Shoran could be used in mapping vast uncharted areas of the earth's surface.

He said the system's operation is similar to that of radar on the echo-timing principle in which distance is measured by the reflection of radio wave pulses.

LIMP as a RAG from FATIGUE?

Then read about this sensible, drugless way to guard against that tired feeling

It is surprising, and shocking too, how many people go along day after day so tired, so tuckered out most of the time, that they find it difficult to do their work and impossible to enjoy life. It isn't that they are sick. There's nothing organically wrong—just that awful fatigue!

Now, while fatigue may be due to a number of causes, it has been proved that in a surprising number of cases, fatigue is due to a lack of three factors in your daily diet—thiamine, essential for the normal functioning of the nervous system; riboflavin and niacin.

All three are factors in B Complex vitamins. All three are equally important.

The sensible, honest and inexpensive way to guard against B deficiency ... the way to help avoid that constant nagging fatigue ... is to supplement your diet with BEXEL. BEXEL is a remarkable product—an easy-to-take capsule which contains concentrated amounts of thiamine, riboflavin and niacin. If you will take BEXEL over a reasonable period and if, at the same time, you will follow the common sense rules of getting a reasonable amount of sleep, and eating a good diet, then ... well, you'd be amazed how many thousands of people have been helped to joyous vitality and radiant energy by BEXEL.

BEXEL contains no artificial stimulants that let you down. It is the new, modern way to insure against loss of energy and fatigue due to dietary deficiency of B Complex.

Get BEXEL today in your drug store. Or ask your doctor what he thinks of this wonderful preparation. Made by one of America's outstanding laboratories—McKesson & Robbins, Inc., Bridgeport, Conn.

BEXEL

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE
You must feel definitely better after taking BEXEL for a month—or your money will be refunded without question.

following for the Bethlehem Steel Co.:

The Bethlehem Steel Co. reported that for the third quarter of 1945 its total income, before taxes, was $22,676,000. This meant that the company had $22,676,000 in profits subject to Federal income and excess profits taxes.

But Bethlehem did not pay any taxes on this income. Bethlehem took advantage of the provision to which I have referred to write off $48,894,000 for amortization of its wartime facilities. This procedure turned its actual profit of $22,676,000 into a paper "loss" before taxes of $27,218,000. By using the carry-back provision of the wartime revenue act, the company obtained a cash refund of $34,980,000 from the Treasury.

This cash refund is of course tax free. Bethlehem paid no taxes on its net income of $22,676,000. Thus for the third quarter of 1945 the profits of Bethlehem were $57,656,000—on which the company paid absolutely no taxes. This amount should be compared to the third quarter of 1944 when Bethlehem's profits after taxes were only $6,622,000, and for the prewar era when Bethlehem averaged $15,980,000 a year in profits after taxes.

Defiance of President.

Under ordinary conditions, the facts which are now being disclosed would arouse the deepest wrath of the American people.

But in addition, the steel industry, as the spokesman for the corporate magnates, and drunk with the fantastic financial resources accumulated during the war, has actually thrown down the gauntlet to the President of the United States. The steel industry, boldly and arrogantly, has rejected a decision made by the President to settle the current wage dispute with the United Steel Workers of America.

The issue is not the payment of an additional 3½ cents an hour. The true design of the steel industry is to destroy labor unions and to remain unchallenged in its determined effort to obtain uncontrolled profits. It is being assisted in this attempt with public funds siphoned from the United States Treasury. The United States Treasury is being mulcted for the benefit of a privileged few bent in sinister conspiracy to plunge the country into economic chaos. This intolerable situation, if the safety and future of our nation are to be protected, cannot continue.

On behalf of the millions of members of organized labor, and progressive Americans, I am calling upon you as the guardian of the United States Treasury to take immediate steps to terminate this outrageous condition permitted to develop during the war whilst the attention of the American people was fully concentrated upon the defeat of the nation's foreign foes.

you that General Motors has accepted the board's proposals. We are therefore withdrawing our acceptance. We have no choice but to reinstate our original and equitable demands. In the final settlement General Motors must compensate for the added suffering and sacrifice it is imposing upon its employes by prolonging the strike.

The morale of the General Motors workers is high. They understand that the financial oligarchy controlling American industry has chosen to pitch a showdown fight against the interests and welfare of the people as a whole. They know that millions of dollars are no match against millions of people who have a simple but fundamental devotion to democratic principles and ideals. With all their strength and all their determination and courage, the General Motors workers will continue to fight shoulder to shoulder with the rest of the people for an America of opportunity, prosperity and freedom.

$100,000 TIDELANDS OIL FUND BILL PASSED IN CALIFORNIA

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Jan. 23—The California legislature completed action yesterday and sent to the Governor a bill appropriating $100,000 for the Attorney General for prosecution of the state's fight against the Federal Government's attempt to assert title to tidelands oil rights. The Assembly (lower house) had voted $45,000; the Senate then raised the figure to $100,000 by amendment and the Assembly concurred.

The Assembly also adopted a resolution to send a joint committee to attend a tidelands oil hearing in Washington next month and increased the expense money for the trip from $3000 to $6000. In this the Senate concurred.

dustry into the early 1930s, many of the nation's steel workers in that decade affiliated with what was known as employe representation or similar organizations—quickly labeled "company unions" by the CIO in its drive to organize workers under its banner.

These organizations had been functioning at some plants as early as 1920 and provided that management and employe committees discuss mutual problems and negotiate any workers' grievances.

The Steel Workers Organizing Committee of the CIO directed its initial efforts to workers in the world's largest steel producing company, the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., biggest subsidiary of United States Steel. In 1937 Carnegie-Illinois employed nearly a quarter of the country's steel workers.

The SWOC began its drive in July 1936, and within less than a year, in March 1937, Carnegie-Illinois announced an agreement granting recognition of the union.

John L. Lewis and other leaders of the United Mine Workers helped the steel union to early success. The recognition announcement came after conferences between Lewis and Chairman Myron Taylor of United States Steel. Philip Murray, then a vice president of the United Mine Workers, led the SWOC organization drive. Lewis and Murray later broke company, and Murray went on to become head of the CIO.

Within 13 months after starting its drive, the SWOC claimed a membership of nearly a half million and more than 300 signed agreements with steel companies. The union contract with Carnegie became a standard for a large part of the industry.

The historic agreement with Carnegie—the first for a United States Steel Corp. subsidiary—not only gave the union recognition, but a 10-cents-an-hour wage increase. It did not provide for a union shop or check-off of union dues, but within eight years the union had these in their agreements.

Exclusive Bargaining Agent.

In the last one, signed in March 1945, the corporation recognized the union as exclusive bargaining representative for all employes; agreed to deduct union dues from employe pay checks and agreed that there would be no discrimination or interference with employes because of union membership.

This contract was to continue in effect until Oct. 15, 1946. However, the union, in its campaign for a higher wage rate, acted on a provision stating.

"Provided, however, that if there shall be any change in the national wage stabilization policy during the life of this agreement, which permits adjustments in the wage rate structure in effect under this agreement, either party may, by giving written notice to the other party, reopen the matter of wages. . . ."

Confirmed for Tax Board.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Senate confirmed yesterday Gov. Phil M. Donnelly's choices for a new state tax commission. They are Clarence Evans (Dem.) of Paris, reappointed chairman, Jesse A Mitchell (Rep.) of Ava, reappointed, and Charles A. Miller (Dem.) of Kansas City. Miller, a real estate man, succeeds J. T. Waddill (Rep.) of Kirksville.

Among My Souvenirs

David Niven Opens A Treasured Trunk

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23.

SIX years ago, in a fall of 1939, David Niven—civilian, gentleman, bachelor — packed a trunk. It was quite an ordinary trunk, the kind usually found in dressing rooms, with the faded labels of steamship lines and Continental hotels still peeling from its sides. But in it reposed the actor's most priceless possessions, the articles he cherished above all others that he owned. He handed the key to his friend Leland Hayward and departed Hollywood for England and the war.

DAVID NIVEN

Last week Niven—veteran, husband, father—unpacked his trunk. It was something of a ceremony, with a few close friends assembled for the occasion at the Hayward home, and a bottle or two of wine.

OF ALL THE MEN, however, who clustered anxiously around him as he inserted the key, none was more curious than Niven himself. He had been gone a long time and he was more than a little vague as to what he had once folded so tenderly away. The world had changed, and so had he. The things he valued highly in 1939 might not be the same things he considered valuable today. He wondered what the devil he had thought was so important then.

THE HINGES CREAKED and the lid came open. The top treasure was a disappointment to no one. Cradled in its own nest of straw lay a bottle of Dom Perignan champagne. Above his guest's protestations, Niven ordered that it be put immediately on ice. "I swore I'd open this bottle when the war was over and I came back to Hollywood," he explained, "and that's just what we're going to do."

THE UPPER TRAY was filled with the more conventional souvenirs: the scripts of the films in which he had appeared, bound in the Niven plaid; scrapbooks of notices ("mostly bad," Niven asserted cheerfully); photographs ranging from dim daguerrotypes to glossy studio prints, and letters of all kinds, written in different hands on various hues of note paper, and exuding a variety of faint and subtle scents. Some of these Niven smiled over, some he examined with honest bewilderment and some, with a sigh, he he consigned to the flames in Hayward's Georgian fireplace.

THE REST OF THE trunk was devoted largely to an enviable collection of clothes. There were 17 brand-new silk shirts, which are now unfortunately a half size too large for Niven, who was considerably streamlined by service with H.R.H.'s troops. There was a derby hat which he still insisted on calling a bowler, and a papier-mache sun helmet that almost ended his military career 15 years ago in Malta. There was a pair of McAffee shoes and a cricket bat. There were four dozen magnificent silk ties. There was a swagger stick from India and a cane from Piccadilly and a spectator seat from Abercrombie & Fitch.

AND THERE WERE more souvenirs. The cravat he wore in "Wuthering Heights" and the necklace he stole as "Raffles." A tea cozy made by his great-great-grandmother and the sword he carried at Sandhurst. A copy (inscribed) of "Vile Bodies" and a recording (cracked) of Edward VIII's farewell address. A box of keys to unknown closets, forgotten doors and long-demolished homes.

THERE WAS ONE last item on the bottom of the trunk: a souvenir menu from the French Pavilion at the New York World's Fair.

The trunk was empty, the party was over. Then someone remembered the Dom Perignan. It was found to be splendidly iced, and Hayward brought forth his finest goblets. The strings were cut, the cork removed, the glasses extended and filled. And quietly, without a word, the goblets were returned untasted to the table. The champagne was flat.

BROADWAY

By WALTER WINCHELL

SPOTLIGHTS AND FOOTLIGHTS: The Mayor's inner circle say that burlesk in New York will not be revived. LaGuardia outlawed it . . . Harry Richman quit the Colonial Inn (Florida) opening night. S. Tucker and J. E. Lewis doubled from their bright spots . . . The lad who found "Anna Lucasta" in Harlem has another "find" called "Ivory Tower," by L. Bearson and G. Wolf. The discoverer is Henri Leiser . . . Lauren Bacall's new stationery (made of this parchment embossed with her initials in sterling silver) must cost at least $2 per sheet.

GUIDE TO THE SHOWS: "The Voice of the Turtle" (delightful he-an-she-nanigans) . . . "Dear Ruth" (a laffiesta) . . . "Hamlet"—with Maurice Evans and Shakespeare (as fruitful as Adam and Eve) . . . "Dream Girl" (a Betty Field day) . . . "The Winter's Tale" (one critic used "great" seven times in his opening paragraph. Others were less superlative. Hot and cold notices . . . "Billion Dollar Baby" (worth every cent of it) . . . "Glass Menagerie" (3 acts and 4 aces) . . . "Pymaglion" (the Shaw must go on!) . . . "Home of the Brave" (an important play) . . . "Oklahoma" (now in its long pants) . . . "State of the Union" (a show that come once in a laughtime and gives you the time of your life).

THE FUNNIES: Rudy Vallee (still going big as he did a decade ago) now and then gets into a pet with his script writers. One day Rudy blew up because one of his lines ended in "with" . . . He ranted and raved about ending a sentence with a preposition . . . The chief scripter just sat and stared at him . . . Finally, when he could get a word in sideways, he cooed: "I agree, Mr. Vallee. That is something up with which you should not have to put."

THE STORY TELLERS: "Showboat" is such a click even the book by that title sold out locally . . . "Washington Tapestry, by Mrs. Raymond Clapper, is based on her late husband's diaries. It gives you brains. Me, anyhow . . . Life begins at 74 for Henry F. Woods, who was copy desk editor for the old Herald and World. A grand old Fourth Estater. His first book, "American Sayings," is on the third rung of the best-seller ladder already. FDR, it reveals, leads all Americans in "sayings that live." Robert Neville (managing ed for the Mediterranean Stars & Stripes) is in mufti. He goes abroad again as foreign ed for the most famed bantam mag . . . Book-of-the Month's dual selection for April will be "Man Eaters of Kumaon" by Jim Corbett and "The Snake Pit," a novel by Mary Jane Ward.

THE RADIORACLES: Station WQXR commentators (insiders say) are now under a "no controversy" ban. It means, for one thing, they won't be allowed to say: "Write your congressmen" . . . Robert Merrill's thrushing (NBC Sabbaths) reminds you why he now sings at the Met Opera House, too . . . Don Voorhees' conducting on the Telephone Hour rates your ears . . . Jack Carson's didoes are on the sprightly side, although some of the wit is old enough to vote. . . . Newscaster Ed Murrow piled a stack of reasons why the UNO is your best insurance . . . Get a copy of Stan Kenton's recording of "Been Down in Texas" . . . And anybody's version of a lovely lilt called "Home Country" . . . Billy Glason's "Star Dreamers" is looking for a sustainer spot. It reminds you of the Gus Edwards discoveries.

QUOTATION MARKSMANSHIP: Ambrose Bierce: A scrapbook is edited by a fool . . . Jack Elinson: Looks like America is now the Land of the Free For All . . . Allen Raymond: Editors are third basemen whose legs have gone . . . H. Davies: Funny, but the ashes of a broken heart can stir up more heat than the flare of a new flame . . . James Cannon: He talks about himself like a guy who just left the room . . . Disraeli: Every man has a right to be conceited until he is successful . . . Rev. R. W. Sockman: The test of courage comes when we are in the minority; the test of tolerance comes when we are in the majority . . . John Buchan: Little towns dumb with snow under the winter moon . . . J. Conrad: Kisses are what's left of the language of Paradise . . . Helen Rowland: When you see a married couple coming down the street the one who is two or three steps ahead is the one that's mad . . . Anon: Some people think they are worth a lot of money because they have it.

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE H-293: Marcia G., aged 29, is a vivacious housewife. "But my problem doesn't concern myself primarily," she began. "I am thinking of my parents. They are past 60 years of age and still should be fairly active. However, they seem so settled and placid that I feel they are growing prematurely old. They keep talking about saving their money for us children, and hence will not spend a penny on themselves. Yet they are comfortably situated as regards wealth, and we children would like to see them enjoy their declining years. What would you recommend, Dr. Crane, to pep them up?"

FIRST OF ALL, may I remind every reader under 66 years of age that you aren't even up to the average age in this country, so don't think about acting elderly till you pass far into the seventies. In order to pep up the interest of people in external reality, I suggest that you children of middle-aged parents in the 60-to-75-year racket, vary your Christmas and birthday gifts. Don't add more socks or silk hosiery, handkerchief, shawls and such conventional presents to the quantity already tucked away neatly in the bureau drawers of your middle-aged relatives.

Instead, bundle them into your auto and take them to the dentist. See that they have a new set of dentures, youthful looking and better adapted to their gums.

And have their eyes checked afresh so you can give them new spectacles by which to see clearly the beauties of flowers and birds and sunsets, as well as read and thread a needle. If they have cataracts, see that an ophthalmologist removes these, so they can be restored to good eyesight once more. If their hearing is deficient, fit them with appropriate hearing aids, and encourage them to use the new gadgets till they get over the initial strangeness and really obtain value therefrom.

AFTER YOUR PARENTS pass 50 or 60 years of age, they tend to grow unduly frugal, at least as regards themselves. That is why you children must breeze into the home with your greater dominance and whisk them away to have their teeth and vision and hearing brought up to normal. Also see that they get out to church regularly, and take them to movies till they get back into the habit of wanting to see a movie once per week. Encourage them to travel. Coax them into developing extrovertive hobbies, like the Compliment Club experiment, or let them raise bees, chickens, rabbits, canaries, love birds or anything else that stimulates reading and planning for future events.

They'll Do It Every Time -:- By Jimmy Hatlo

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

THERE are too many people in this world who have the preconceived notion that liver was never intended for human consumption. Yet they know that liver served once a week would add just the amount of iron that is needed to bring up their red blood count to a safe, healthy point. If you have anyone like this and you wish to know some way to sneak liver into their meals, here is a recipe that we believe will give you courage. Taking out all of the tubes and removing the skin from the liver is the first big hurdle. Grinding it up so that it loses its identity is the second one. Sauteing it gently with just enough garlic to cover the distinctive liver flavor but not enough to speak out loudly enough to be recognized will also help liver to become acceptable. And once the liver Florentine is served over noodles hot and steaming, a garnish of finely chopped fresh parsley or chives will help to completely bowl over obstreperous individuals.

Codfish is another food that the unsophisticated are liable to snub and in so doing cheat themselves out of some real gastronomic enjoyment. Fortunately codfish just naturally combines with potatoes which is one of the most popular of all vegetables. Once prepared according to the following recipe, there are a number of ways to make it tempting enough to induce cod opponents to try it once. The cooked potatoes and fish may be turned into a shallow baking dish and then sprinkled with grated cheese drizzled with a little cream and slipped under the broiler to acquire a brown that a person with any appetite at all simply cannot resist.

Creamed Potatoes With Codfish.

Soak one-half pound salt codfish in running water for 15 minutes, then one hour in fresh warm water. Drain; add fresh water and heat slowly to the boiling point, and drain again. Meanwhile make a smooth cream sauce of three tablespoons margarine or butter, four tablespoons flour, and two and one-half cups milk; add one and one-half pounds potatoes which have been peeled and sliced, one-fourth cup shredded celery leaves, and one tablespoon chopped onion. Cover and simmer about 20 minutes, or until potatoes are tender. This requires frequent stirring to keep from sticking. Add flaked codfish, cook just long enough to heat through. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. Four servings.

Menus for Thursday.

Breakfast — Orange juice, soft cooked eggs, bacon curls, raisin bread toast.

Luncheon — Creamed potatoes with codfish, sliced tomatoes, baked apples.

Dinner — Liver Florentine, noodles, buttered spinach with egg garnish, apricot up-side down cake.

Your Stars

WHAT TO EXPECT TOMORROW.

Sun in Aquarius.

General Tendencies—Tomorrow will be a much better day for business matters than were the first three days of the week. Talk with people about buying and selling all day, but do not leave such matters for written records, because communications tend to become garbled, maybe not intentionally. If you want to try your chances in romantic affairs, then the odds are in your favor, too, and if you may be influenced by thoughts of a larger income, why no one will know it if you do not tell them.

If Tomorrow Is Your Birthday.

The coming year seems fairly good, even if you do have a few delays next fall. These refer to business matters largely, but in some cases they may affect health, too, so be sure that you are in good physical condition just now. People can usually ward off these tendencies at their beginning if they think about them in advance. There are many excellent prospects for finances throughout the first nine months of 1946—take advantage of them, but not during February and March.

Tomorrow's Watchword—Learning from experience makes me think of Mark Twain's cat, the cat that seated himself on a hot stove, you remember. Mark Twain said that he was sure the cat would never do that again, but the worse part of it was that he would never sit on a cold stove either. Experience shows you what to avoid, but should not go to the length of making you afraid to try anything remotely resembling your past difficulties. As in other things, common sense must play a part in it in order for it to be valuable to you.

My Day

By Eleanor Roosevelt

LONDON.

GENERAL DE GAULLE'S resignation perhaps came as a surprise to many people, but I'm quite sure there must be a number of other statesmen struggling with difficulties in their own countries, who must wish that they could follow his example.

Of course, it is extremely difficult for men trained in the military tradition to lead a country under a democratic form of government during a period of stress, strain and change. Everyone will have sympathy for De Gaulle's feelings if they understand his problems. But they will also, I think, have sympathy with whoever now has to take hold, and with the people of France, who must have a great feeling of uncertainty about their future.

For those who lead nations, the period after a war is very hard. The incentive to sacrifice is over, and yet many of the problems are as difficult, and sometimes more difficult than if the war were still on. When you consider the problems that have arisen in Britain and the United States, and realize how much these are multiplied in every country in Europe, it makes you very sympathetic towards those who have to carry the burdens of state at the present time. Patience is certainly going to be a virtue in the war-town countries for years to come.

Pear and Grape Salad

On salad plates place a thick slice of pear marinated with French dressing. On the pear arrange halves of peeled and seeded grapes to simulate a bunch of grapes. Glaze with melted apple or mint jelly and put in refrigerator to chill. Garnish with dressed watercress and serve with cream mayonnaise.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A MAN gave his son a sound box on the ears in the day coach of a New Haven train one morning, and an outraged lady who sat behind him pointed her umbrella at him and said, "If you don't stop abusing that boy, I am going to make trouble for you."

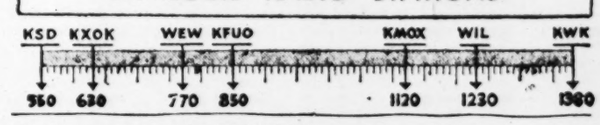

The man gave a hollow, mirthless laugh. "Lady," he said, "my wife just ran away with the iceman. The bank foreclosed my mortgage yesterday. We are on the wrong train. My son has just told me that he swallowed the tickets. And you're going to make trouble for me!"

A native of Brooklyn was spending his first day on a dude ranch in Nevada. He came back to the bunkhouse with a handful of rattles from an enormous rattlesnake. A ranch hand turned pale when he saw them and said, "Holy Smoke, where'd you get hold of those things?"

The Brooklynite couldn't understand the other's agitation; he explained, "I took them offen the biggest woim I ever seen!"

ANTI-PETRILLO BILL APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Legislation which Chairman Lea (Dem.), California, said was designed to restrain powers of James C. Petrillo, head of the American Federation of Musicians, today was approved by a 14-to-5 vote of the House Interstate Commerce Committee.

Lea is author of the bill which, its title says, is aimed "to prohibit certain coercive practice affecting radio broadcasting."

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM a girl age 20 engaged to a discharged soldier 23. I have known him three years. Most of this time he was in the Army. He lives in a Western state. I have received no mail from him in such a long time that I am very worried. I write him every day, but no answer. I just don't know what is wrong. His last letter was all about our plans for the future. I received a lovely watch for Christmas. I don't know if he is in love with someone else and is afraid to hurt me, but would think if that were true he would have asked for his ring back. What shall I do?

HEARTBROKEN.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest, but of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

If your fiance sent you a watch for Christmas and wrote then as you describe, surely he must have some very good reason for his silence since the holiday. Did you thank him effusively for the watch? Have you written anything that might anger him or hurt his feelings? Have you always put a return address on your envelopes so that if the young man does not receive them they will be returned? All you can do is inquire solicitously the cause of your fiance's silence, when next you write, ask him to respond to the letter even if only by post card, and let you know if all is well. Other than this I am afraid you will just have to have faith and if you have had no reason to doubt his love, be assured that conditions must be such that he cannot write at present, but will as soon as he is able.

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM A FRESHMAN in high school. My boy friend has quit me three times but until this last time he has always come back to me. Right now he is dating one of my best friends. He is 16, nice looking, good at athletics, popular with the girls but not the boys. Some say he is conceited but I don't think so. If he wanted to and tried he could date any gal in the school. Shall I stop having any more to do with my girl friend now she has taken my boy friend? How can I get him back?

UNHAPPY.

If your girl friend didn't steal your boy friend with malice and forethought, but he just gravitated her way because she is unusually charming, there is no point to holding her entirely responsible. Some girls, however, feel it's a point of honor not to date another girl's special friend. However, you girls are taking this boy and the whole situation much too seriously. If you were engaged to the lad and some gal came along and nefariously walked off with him, then you would have a real reason for quarreling. Girls must learn early in the game to expect competition and not to be too discouraged by it. As to getting the boy back, if he comes your way, well and good. Try to take the matter casually and don't wear your heart on your sleeve. Date other boys and act a bit indifferent. The chances are by the time he is ready to return you will be just as interested in someone else and impervious to his one-time charms.

IN ANSWER TO "Sad Eyes:" What you need is to join a congenial group of boys and girls your age, and dance, have parties, bowl, skate and do all the usual active things. Investigate the Y.W.C.A., the Little Theater, and all the other attractions the city has to offer from lectures and night school to bicycling. In all these activities will be opportunities for making friends. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for Popularity Hints.

IN ANSWER TO "Bored Teen-Ager": If you will telephone the City Hall, MAin 5560, and ask for the Recreation Department, you will be told which of the city's recreation centers is nearest your home and your crowd should be able to team up with one and meet there. The Y.W.C.A. and your church also have activities you would enjoy.

IN ANSWER TO "Kitty": Handholding in the movies appears to be an old established custom as old as the movies themselves. No great sin in it if you sit quietly holding hands and enjoying the picture together. But to act conspicuous in any way is always bad taste. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the Sub-deb leaflet.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

EVERY now and then a puzzling attitude is shown by someone who thinks that repaying the damage they have done will be taken amiss. For example, a reader tells me that her husband burned a hole in a very nice black satin bridge table cover. She explains further: "I am at a loss as to what to do about replacing this cover. We go to this house often and I would be delighted to buy a new cover, but I am afraid this would not be proper."

It is always proper to replace as nearly as you can something that you have destroyed. If there is a birthday or an anniversary of some sort on which to give it, so much the better. If not, just say, "I don't think this is as nice as yours was, but it is the nearest match I've been able to find." Or, if it is the same, you can say, "John was so sorry about his awkwardness the other night."

DEAR MRS. POST: What is the idea of having a guest book at a wedding reception? Invitations including R.S.V.P. are answered by most people and the family knows pretty well who was at the reception.

Answer: It is merely a souvenir for the bride to keep. In addition to the guest list, she probably will add photographs of the wedding and other items pleasant to remember.

DEAR MRS. POST: Which wedding invitations (notes) should mother write and which ones may I write? Or should I write all of them? Some of the groom's relatives and friends are strangers to both mother and me.

Answer: Your mother should write to all people except those of your own age. You should write to these, especially to your own personal friends.

DEAR MRS. POST: Where I work I come in contact with many different people daily and often am asked whether I am Miss or Mrs. Blank. I am now a divorcee, so how should I answer this question? I don't want to give the impression that I have a husband when I haven't.

Answer: In business, you can call yourself Miss if you prefer. Socially, it would be in very worst taste, particularly should you make people think you are a spinster when you are not.

You Can Win, If Willing to Pay the Price

By Elsie Robinson

ARDIS and Art, aged 19 and 20, respectively, have been giving the well known human race the once-over and they think it can stand a lot of improvement.

After mature consideration they have decided that we are, generally speaking, a bunch of convention-ridden, compromising cowards.

"Why do people have to act alike? they ask.

Why can't they be themselves?

Why are they so afraid of what other people will say?

Isn't it possible to defy convention and yet make a success of life.

It is.

IT IS possible to violate all public opinion and yet attain both fame and fortune. Whereupon the very people who have criticized you most severely will rise up and call you blessed. This feat has been performed by various persons in every generation. In fact, the most distinguished characters in history have acted in this high-handed manner.

All of which will be glad tidings to Ardis and Art.

But—there's a price to pay for such emancipation from the common thralldom. And it's such a very big price that the majority of human beings have neither the courage nor energy to pay it.

Conventionality may be a rather dull affair, but there's a sound reason for it. It is the concentrate of millions of years of human experience. Most of us are neither very brave nor bright. We're not prepared to lead dangerous or eccentric lives. So we've banded together and made a code which makes life possible, pleasant and profitable for the greatest number of people. This code we call convention.

IT IS, I ADMIT, rather a stupid code but it's all that most of us can handle, and naturally we resent those who imperil our safety by defying it.

You can be different, Art and Ardis, but you'll find it the loneliest job on earth.

You can be your own boss, if you're willing to pay your own way and take your own risks.

You can do without other people—if you're able to stand having them do without you.

But you mustn't expect the benefits of a conventional one. You can't have your cake and eat it, too. If you're going to take other people's money and use other people's strength you must respect their system.

There's the whole case for and against unconventionality. It's a great little game. Some of the best and bravest people in human history have played it. But they paid a terrific price. If you can pay that price—go to it. But if you can't—stay out.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"Trash"—Originally a Fallen Leaf.

SHAKESPEARE said, "Who steals my purse steals trash." By "trash" the great bard did not mean fallen leaves or snapped off twigs. That, however, is how "trash" started!

"Trash" came into the English language during the 16th century. Though its precise source is obscure, it is unquestionably of Scandinavian origin, the Norwegian tras meaning twig or sprig, and the Icelandic tros meaning fallen leaves.

In its early usage in English, "trash" preserved its original meanings. Soon its application broadened from "lopped or snapped-off twigs" to embrace cuttings from a hedge, small wood, splinters. Sugar canes, after their juice had been expressed, was known as cane-trash. The leaves and tops of the canes, which would be stripped off to accelerate the ripening of the plant, were called field-trash. "Trash" was also used of unripe fruit. A special use of "trash" was as a synonym for an old worn-out shoe, the plural form, "trashes" being used for a pair of them! Broken ice mixed with water was called trash-ice!

From all the preceding and other similar applications of "trash" for torn, worn, or broken remnants of material, there was an easy transference of its usage to refuse generally — worthless stuff or dross—literally and figuratively—till it even came to be used of human beings, as in the expression "white trash," for the underprivileged whites in the southern states of America, truly fallen leaves or broken twigs from the tree of humanity!

Spring Coats Are Dressy, Feminine

Stern and Sedate Styles Out—Bows and Buttons Have the Spotlight

By Sylvia Stiles

WHEN the nation's master tailors of women's clothes start shoving their classics into the background and giving the spotlight to bows and buttons, then we know that a new fashion era is upon us. This is happening for spring, 1946, as the leading coat makers of the country reveal their newest creations to be frilly and feminine rather than stern and sedate.

All of the coat collections which I saw during a tour of the New York market placed emphasis upon a feminine, dressy appearance. Even the reefers have been modified to add dashing pockets, gathered sleeves, and skirts with all the hemline fullness that the law allows. Sometimes the sleeves are of balloon-like proportions and are so cut that they can be pushed up to the elbows, this giving the entire silhouette a more fluttery aspect. Short sleeves also are used on many new coats.

It's hard to say whether the fitted coat or the loose-hanging one is of more style importance in the spring collections. Most designers have presented both of them without favoritism. The loose coat must look very swagger to keep up with the latest dictates of fashion, and the fitted one must fit so tight at the waistline it almost bursts the buttons. Extremes of silhouette are the rule. The loose coat seen most often is wrist-length although a few are longer and some are even shorter. The back usually is cut with a bias line so that it swings as the wearer walks.

The regency emphasis is strong in the fitted coat collections as it is in many other spring fashions. This revival means that blouse sections have tight fitting bodices, that skirt sections are attached at the hips with gathers, that sleeves are very puffy and that collars usually stand upright at the back. Combining a dashing silhouette with demure-like fabrics, the regency mode seems to typify the new season.

The regency feeling is especially apparent in the collection shown by Monte Sano & Pruzan. Through arrangement made with Vincent Monte Sano, I saw a private promenade of the leading styles indorsed by this house because I knew how popular they have become in St. Louis. Here the regency look appeared in very dressy coats of heavy black faille as well as in fleecy woolens designed for all-weather wear. The most striking black faille coat had the basque bodice, lowered more at the back than the front and cut into a deep panel to which the skirt fullness was gathered. Sleeves were very full and gathered at the armholes, the fullness tapering so that there was only slight gathering at the deep cuff. Double flaps suggested huge pockets. A fleecy coat of bright blue woolen looked quite heavy but proved to be very light of weight. It, too, had the big sleeves, full skirt section and fitted waistline. A navy blue crepe woolen coat featured the lowered shoulder, introduced by means of a yoke extending across the top of the arms.

Coats designed to look like dresses also are noteworthy in this collection. One of a gold colored nubby woolen and another in two tones of gray stood out as style leaders. The shirtwaist cuff was used on several models made of English woolens. There were no collars on some of these dress-like coats although the Tallyrand collar to be worn high in the back was highlighted repeatedly as a feature of the coat collection. Short coats included an interesting handling of a herringbone woolen cut to swing very loose at the back. Pastel colored short coats were indorsed. One white coat with patch pockets and a tie belt was made of doeskin, indicating a revival of that fabric. A cape sleeve coat also hinted at a return of this vogue.

NAVY WOOL IS STITCHED TO FORM PLAID DESIGNS OF RED, YELLOW AND GREEN FOR THE FLARING SKIRT OF THIS PHILIP MANGONE COAT WHICH HAS A SOLID BLUE TOP. THE PUSH-UP SLEEVES ARE NOTEWORTHY.

A SHORT COAT DESIGNED BY PHILIP MANGONE IS TYPICAL OF A POPULAR STYLE FOR SPRING. MADE OF BLACK AND WHITE CHECKED WOOLEN IT HAS BLACK WOOL THREADED ACROSS THE FRONT.

THIS BEN REIG REEFER COAT WITH ITS EXAGGERATED SIDE-SLIT PATCH POCKETS IS MADE OF BLACK NYLON THAT HAS THE APPEARANCE OF OLD-FASHIONED ALPACA. HEMLINE WIDTH IS A NEW TREND.

Capes and stoles played an important part in the coats shown by Philip Mangone, who has been long recognized as a distinctive tailor of women's clothes. Not only did he feminize his collection with these soft details but he also has utilized bright colors, and much detail of trimming. His favoritism for buttons this season was illustrated by double rows of them banding the pockets of a vivid topper, by borders on fitted dress-like coats and as glittering accents to mark each corner of the black diamond stitching on a white topper. His novel use of contrasting fabric to form a trimming was shown by threading black wool across the front of a checked short jacket, fashioning a clever yoke effect and a perky bow accent.

Short coats were numerous in this collection, some of them of solid colors, some plaid and others striped. Fabric was manipuated to run in different directions to give a decorative emphasis on coats as well as suits. The luxury note in short coats was illustrated by a group of pearl gray ones that are banded and cuffed with platinum fox. One bright green coat with deep armholes and push-up sleeves was indicative of the vogue of color. These push-up sleeves, by the way, appear so frequently on all types of coats that they should be regarded as of outstanding style significance.

Perhaps the most brief of the short coats indorsed by leading New York designers is the model being featured by Pauline Trigere. It is a jaunty little jacket coming only to the hipline and having decorative detail in the handling of the fabric on the melon-shaped sleeves. Soft, neutral shades such as one called "greige" are used.

The vogue of nylon as a coat material has received indorsement of several designers, among them Ben Reig and Pauline Trigere. In the Ben Reig collection I saw an outstanding fitted reefer, looking very trim but subscribing to the trend toward femininity by its fabric—black nylon with the appearance of old-fashioned alpaca. A navy nylon coat in a unique basket weave, from the Trigere collection, was a version of the feminized reefer.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

A HIGHLY developed deductive ability is more valuable in the selection of the opening lead than any other department of the game. Consider West's excellent lead in today's deal.

West dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Both sides 60 part-score.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	2 hearts	Pass	Pass
2 spades	Pass	Pass	3 diamonds
Pass	Pass	3 spades	4 diamonds
4 spades	5 diamonds	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

It will be noted that East did not raise the spade suit at his first opportunity. Thus, when the bidding reached the five-diamond mark, West had gained valuable information. First, he knew that East's spade raise had been "reluctant" and therefore could not represent much or any honor strength. Second, South had passed to two hearts, but later had bid diamonds vigorously. The implication was strong, therefore, that South had a reasonable heart fit and extraordinary length in diamonds. He had been willing to play at two hearts, but when East-West kept bidding, had persisted with diamonds. Almost surely, North's two-heart overcall had been based on at least a five card suit and South had either two or three hearts, probably the latter. East, therefore, might very well have a singleton. In any event, West's heart holding was worth only one trick defensively, so there was little to lose by attacking the suit.

On this sound reasoning, West opened the heart ace and, even though East played the deuce, followed with another heart. East ruffed and returned a spade, West captured declarer's blank king and gave East another heart ruff for the second setting trick.

Any other opening lead (except the spade ace and an immediate shift to the ace and another heart) would have led to the fulfillment of the contract.
